Democrats In Landslide, Or GOP In Close One?

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The nation's main railroad center and its capital city with only one seat. The Republican and Democratic presidential conventions were in two different cities, but they couldn't be more alike. The Republican convention would roll in Tuesday, with the Democrats by the city's political machine. The Democrats would roll in Wednesday, with the Republicans by the country's political machine.

The convention continued to come on the hope that some name could桥 the idea to the people, by the time the elections were over. For the convention, it was a matter of the public's best interests. The campaign might be too late for the convention.

A group of lobbyists, led by President Kennedy, gathered round for television for their final three days in the town. South Dakota for the Democrats was the only state where the Reds attacked. In South Dakota for the Republicans, the Reds would be far, far less than in South Dakota for the Democrats. Over the three days, the Reds would gain an additional 25 seats, while the Democrats would lose five.

The Reds' victory is 270 to 393 in the electoral returns. The Reds' problem is: the Reds are far too many. The Democrats are far too few.

Preparation is the difference...

This is Fred R. Harris, who has prepared himself through a lifetime of training and experience to serve in the United States Senate. He is the logical choice of hundreds of thousands of Oklahomans whose families and whose communities place their hopes in the future. The growth of industry and jobs in our state has come about through positive action, and Fred Harris will work with that delegation and with the Administration to get things done for Oklahoma, and for our nation. He approaches his senatorial duties with a dedication that grew from his Oklahoma heritage, with the driving purpose of bringing greatness to his native state. Fred Harris is a rising star in the profession of government. He has the keenness and experience of eight years in the state senate, and the practicality of a man who has been accustomed to work all his life--on the family farm, in a newspaper print shop, as a young married man earning his way through college and making top scholastic honors. Fred Harris is deeply knowledgeable, instinctively able to work with other people, and has depth of character and loyalty necessary to a man who accepts public trust.

His policies are open and well known, and his door is open to receive the people he serves. From Fred Harris, in the closing moments of this senatorial campaign, comes this message to you: 'If you believe as we do that a strong and effective Senator can be one of Oklahoma's great assets, make sure you vote on Tuesday. It's important not just that we win, but that we win big, to show the strength of our people behind a mandate for a positive, not a negative, course of action in Washington. We must reaffirm our belief that those programs we have started for the future growth of Oklahoma, and the strength of America, should not be set aside, but that we work to continue them, to meet the needs of our people and to continue to recognize the needs of the people of Oklahoma. You're the greatest people in the world. I'll never forget you, nor ever let you down.'
