Killer Saw Victims Undress

By JOHN WATSON

Circumstances indicate that seventeen-year-old Norma McMillan, who lives in Stillwater, Oklahoma, was murdered by a man who saw her undress in the woods. The police have released a sketch of the suspect, who is described as a tall, thin man with black hair and wearing a dark coat.

McMillan was last seen alive on the evening of the 20th, when she went for a walk in the woods near her home. Her body was found the next morning, with signs of sexual assault visible.

The police believe that the killer may have been someone who saw her in the woods and decided to follow her.
