Bartlett Says Tulsa-I. H. 35 Route Comes First

City Loses Turnpike To Tulsa

The Oklahoma City Council, in a panel vote of 4-0 last Tuesday on the Tulsa I. H. 35 Route, lost its bid to have the interstate highway come through the state capital.

City officials, who had been optimistic about their chances, were disappointed by the council's decision. The Tulsa I. H. 35 project, which is scheduled to begin construction in 1967, will pass through Oklahoma City but will not be completed until 1970.

The Oklahoma City project, which includes the construction of a new freeway interchange at the city's northern boundary and an extension of the existing freeway to the south, was approved by the council on a 4-0 vote.

The decision to route the highway through Tulsa was made based on economic considerations and the need to provide improved transportation for the Oklahoma City area.

Mao Deals Foes Dispute Still Unsettled

The dispute between Mao Zedong and his foes in China continues to be unresolved, despite efforts by the two sides to reach an agreement.

The conflict, which began in the late 1950s, has been characterized by periods of tension and cooperation. Mao's supporters and opponents have been unable to come to an agreement on a number of key issues, including the role of the Chinese Communist Party in the country's political life.

The latest round of negotiations took place earlier this month, but the talks were not productive. Both sides continue to hold firm on their positions, and it is unclear whether a resolution can be reached in the near future.

Roads Cut By 8-Foot Snowdrift

The National Weather Service has issued a warning for heavy snowfall in the Midwest, with snow depths expected to reach up to 8 feet in some areas.

The snow is expected to impact travel, with road closures and delays expected in many regions. Drivers are urged to exercise caution and allow extra time for travel.

Tinda and His Heroes Relax After Crisis

Newsboys Save Two Lives

A group of newsboys, including 14-year-old Denny Howard and 15-year-old Terry Smith, were able to save two people from the wreckage of a car accident yesterday.

The boys, who were on their way to school, saw the accident and immediately went to help. They were able to pull one man and a woman out of the wreckage and administer first aid until help arrived.

The incident was one of several that occurred in the area yesterday, with multiple reports of accidents and weather-related issues. Emergency services were on scene quickly, and no further details are available at this time.

Grandmother, Tot Killed

A 71-year-old woman and her grandson, age 3, were killed in a car accident on the outskirts of Tulsa yesterday afternoon.

The woman was driving a car that collided head-on with a truck, causing the vehicles to overturn. Both the woman and the child were pronounced dead at the scene. The cause of the accident is under investigation.

The family of the woman and her grandson was devastated by the loss. A memorial service is planned for the two victims, who are survived by their loved ones.
