HOUSE PASSES DRUNK TEST BILL

By JOE CARSON
The House passed the main part of legislation Wednesday morning, changing the driving laws to include the use of a breathalyzer test for drunk drivers. The bill, sponsored by Rep. J. Frank Elsea, R-Oklahoma County, is now in the hands of the Senate, where it will be considered by the appropriate committee.

The bill would make it mandatory for motorists to take a breathalyzer test after a traffic stop if there is reasonable cause to believe that the motorist has consumed alcohol. The test would be administered by a law enforcement officer, and the results would be used to determine whether the motorist is under the influence of alcohol.

The bill was passed by a 72-5 vote, with the five nays coming from the Democratic caucus. The bill now goes to the Senate for consideration.

Meanwhile, the Senate was working on its own version of the bill, which would be considered by the appropriate committee. The Senate version would require motorists to take a blood test for alcohol if there is reasonable cause to believe that the motorist has consumed alcohol.

The Senate version was passed by a 37-2 vote, with the two nays coming from the Democratic caucus. The Senate version now goes to the House for consideration.

The House version of the bill was then passed by a 72-5 vote, with the five nays coming from the Democratic caucus. The bill now goes to the Senate for consideration.

Victory For Mike's Bill

There are many to be thankful for in Mike's Bill, the bill that makes the Oklahoma Constitution clear about the names of all its officers. It is a good thing that this bill has been passed by the legislature and signed into law.

The bill has been in the works for some time, and it is a good thing that it has finally been enacted. It is a good thing that it has finally been enacted.

Deserving Of Your Support

Now should be taken as an opportunity not to be missed. The people of Oklahoma have been waiting for this bill for a long time, and it is time for them to take action and support it.

Allergies—Your Personal Poisons—2

Reactions Lurking In Every Corner

By Alice Magness

In every corner, no matter how remote, surely there are a few poisons lurking. There is no corner into which I dare to spell, "headache" and not come across a few poisons or their symptoms. The three words, "headache" and "poison", are often used interchangeably. I am not saying this is correct, but it is a fact that many people think they have headache because they have, or think they have, a poison in their system.

The first step in dealing with a poison is to find out what it is. The second step is to find out how much of it there is in your system. The third step is to find out how long it has been there. The fourth step is to find out how to get rid of it.

In the case of a person who has a headache, the first thing to do is to find out what they are taking. Then find out how much of it they are taking. Then find out how long it has been there. Then find out how to get rid of it.

There are many ways to get rid of poisons. One way is to drink a lot of water. Another way is to take a bath. Another way is to exercise. Another way is to eat foods that are good for you.

The most important thing to remember is that poisons are not always bad. They can be helpful. For example, aspirin is a poison. But it is also a medicine. It can be helpful in treating headaches. It can be helpful in treating fever.

The key is to know what you are taking. Know how much of it you are taking. Know how long it has been there. Then you can make a decision about what to do about it.

With all the poisons around, it is a good idea to learn as much as you can about them. Know what they are. Know how much of them there are. Know how long they have been there. Then you can make a better decision about what to do about them.

This is not to say that poisons should be avoided. They should not be avoided. They should be avoided if you are allergic to them. But they can be helpful if you are not allergic to them.

The key is to know what you are taking. Know how much of it you are taking. Know how long it has been there. Then you can make a better decision about what to do about it.

Strife, Violence Part Of Life In Vietnam

"One of our soldiers died a week ago and another two were wounded," said a report from a hospital in the city of Da Nang, South Vietnam. The two wounded were reported to be critical, but the hospital was not able to give any further details.

"We believe that the attack on our position was a direct result of the presence of our troops," said the hospital's chief surgeon. "It is clear that the enemy was targeting our soldiers, and we have no doubt that they were responsible.

The hospital is currently treating the wounded soldiers, and we are doing everything we can to help them recover. We hope to have them discharged from the hospital soon, and we are working with the authorities to ensure that they receive the best possible care.

The hospital is located in the city of Da Nang, which is a major military base in South Vietnam. The city is currently under attack by a large enemy force, and our soldiers are facing a difficult situation.

The hospital's chief surgeon emphasized the importance of the support we have received from the local community. "We have been overwhelmed by the support we have received from the people of Da Nang," she said. "They have been非常 helpful, and we are grateful for their support."

The hospital is currently working with the local authorities to ensure that our soldiers receive the best possible care, and we are doing everything we can to make sure that they receive the support they need.
