Hunt 'Snake-Bite' By Winds, Rain

"The city government has been brought to its knees by four years of work," said the mayor of Oklahoma City, who noted that the city's financial condition was "too bad to be healthy." Ackerman, who is running for re-election as mayor, said that the city's financial problems were caused by "too much indebtedness, too much debt, too much borrowing." He said that the city's financial condition was "too bad to be healthy," and that the city's financial problems were caused by "too much indebtedness, too much debt, too much borrowing."

Christian Undeveloped

In our mission to spread the gospel, there are several challenges we face. One of the biggest is the lack of understanding and interest among the younger generation. Many of them believe that Christianity is outdated and irrelevant to their lives. It's important that we find ways to make the message of Jesus relevant to them.

2 Dedications Sunday

This morning, we had two dedications in the church. The first was for the new fellowship hall, which has been in the works for several months. The second was for the new children's wing, which will provide a safe and comfortable space for our youth.

“Religion? How square!”

Some people go to church because it’s expected of them. Others go because they believe in the teachings of Jesus. Still others go because they want to be part of a community. No matter the reason, it’s important that we make church a welcoming and inclusive place.
