MANTLE SWATS NO. 500

By United Press International

Babe Mantle became the first major leaguer to hit 500 home runs when he homered twice last night. Mantle hit his 500th home run in the ninth inning, tying him with Roger Maris for the home run lead. He then hit his 501st home run in the 10th inning, breaking the record for most home runs in a season.

'Selected' Date Blackmails Girl With Tape

By ELLEN MURPHY

It's the story of a young girl who was blackmailed by a 'selected' date. She was forced to go with him on a date, and he used a tape recorder to record their conversation. She felt trapped and went to police for help. But they didn't believe her because she didn't have any evidence...

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House members will hit the bills this week in an effort of government-drafted budget cuts, according to the Congressional Record. The bills are part of a larger effort to cut government spending.

The House also will take up a bill to establish the U.S. Capitol Police and to extend the term of the Capitol Police for an additional year. The bill passed the House last week but was held up in the Senate.

The Senate also will consider a bill to establish the Public Broadcasting System (PBS) as a public corporation. The bill would create an independent board of directors to oversee the operation of PBS.

The Senate also will vote on a bill to extend the term of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) for five years. The commission, which regulates broadcasting and telecommunications, has been under fire recently for its handling of the spectrum auctions.

The Senate also will vote on a bill to extend the term of the National Security Agency (NSA) for five years. The NSA has been under fire recently for its interpretation of the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA).

The Senate also will vote on a bill to extend the term of the Federal Reserve System (FRS) for five years. The FRS, which regulates the nation's banking system, has been under fire recently for its handling of the housing market.

The Senate also will vote on a bill to extend the term of the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) for five years. The FTC, which enforces antitrust laws, has been under fire recently for its handling of the telecommunications market.

The Senate also will vote on a bill to extend the term of the Department of Justice (DOJ) for five years. The DOJ, which enforces federal laws, has been under fire recently for its handling of the national security.

The Senate also will vote on a bill to extend the term of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for five years. The EPA, which regulates the nation's environment, has been under fire recently for its handling of the climate change.

The Senate also will vote on a bill to extend the term of the National Institutes of Health (NIH) for five years. The NIH, which conducts biomedical research, has been under fire recently for its handling of the budget.

The Senate also will vote on a bill to extend the term of the National Science Foundation (NSF) for five years. The NSF, which supports research and education, has been under fire recently for its handling of the budget.

The Senate also will vote on a bill to extend the term of the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) for five years. The NEA, which supports the arts, has been under fire recently for its handling of the budget.

The Senate also will vote on a bill to extend the term of the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) for five years. The NEH, which supports the humanities, has been under fire recently for its handling of the budget.

The Senate also will vote on a bill to extend the term of the National Endowment for Democracy (NED) for five years. The NED, which supports democratic institutions, has been under fire recently for its handling of the budget.
