Remes Worried: 'I Might Hurt Someone'

Did Suspect Know Victim?

By JOHN MASTIN

"The last time it was per- to Mother's Day, "Saw Her Last On Mother's Day," Grieving Mom Reports

The death of a 19-year-old woman in Oklahoma City has been declared a murder by police, and the suspect in the case has been charged with first-degree murder.

The victim, a 19-year-old woman, was found dead in her home on May 8. The police said she had been strangled to death.

Police are still searching for the suspect, who has not been identified by name.

In the meantime, the family has filed a lawsuit against the Oklahoma City Police Department, alleging that they failed to act on previous reports of domestic violence.

The family said they were shocked by the news and are seeking justice for their loved one.

Police said the investigation is ongoing and they are urging anyone with information to come forward.

The family has set up a GoFundMe page to help pay for the funeral expenses.

Death Probe

Officers received a 911 call in the early morning hours of May 9, reporting a possible murder at an address in the southeast Oklahoma City area.

When officers arrived, they found a 19-year-old woman dead in a home on the 1200 block of S.W. 49th Street.

Detectives are working to determine the cause and manner of death, and the investigation is ongoing.

Brokers Set On City Toll Road

Talks Set On City Toll Road

The Oklahoma City Council has set a date for public hearings on the proposed city toll road, which would be a major source of revenue for the city.

The city has been working on the project for several years, and the council has approved a plan to finance the road through a bond issue.

The city is seeking public input on the plan, and the hearings will be held in June.

Brokers have been in talks with the city about the project, and they expect the hearings to provide valuable insights into the project's feasibility.

The city is hoping to have the road ready for construction in 2023.

TODAY'S WORD—PERSONALITY

Whatever happens, no matter how hard it seems, you can make a comeback. All it takes is a smile and a storm to blow over.
Welcome to coach.

We know some people use this way. The cheap seats. All you have coming to the airplane ride. And that's all. You're just a passenger. You're a customer. And a customer ought to be given a little weight.

A customer should not carry his own bags into a terminal. A customer should not stand in line to check in. A customer should be allowed to fly. A customer should not be always referred to the baggage counter. A customer should be given a little respect. A customer should be given a little attention. A customer should be given a little consideration. A customer should be given a little service. A customer should be given a little credit. A customer should be given a little sympathy.

American Airlines has started a new coach service to protect you from every kind of neglect. A customer can fly American. We don't fly sheep.
