World Neighbors Avoids Pit

To the Editor: When the debate over whether or not a country should have nuclear weapons, the United States is always mentioned as a leader in the debate. I would like to point out that the United States is not the only country that has nuclear weapons. In fact, both the United States and Russia have nuclear weapons. This is a critical point that needs to be recognized.

Merit Is The Yardstick

True merit does not always come from the schools. It comes from the people. The people of this country are the ones who should be judged, not the schools. The schools are just a tool for the people to use.

Sword Blunting By Words

Though many people believe that the use of nuclear weapons is the best way to solve our problems, I believe that words can be just as powerful as weapons. The words that we use can help to build bridges between countries, not tear them down.

State Editors Say

As a member of the editorial board, I would like to express my concern about the current state of the country. We are facing a number of serious problems, and it is important that we work together to find solutions.
