Contact But Not Kissing

By JERRY SCAMMELL

Joe and Alice Robinson, a happy young couple from Oklahoma, recently visited a nearby small town. They were amazed by the peacefulness of the place and the friendly people they met. Joe, a warm and charming man, decided to surprise Alice by taking her out for a romantic dinner at the town's most popular restaurant. However, as they were about to leave, Alice remembered that she had left her handbag at home. Joe, always ready to help, volunteered to go back and fetch it for her.

Meanwhile, inside the restaurant, a man named John, who was observing the couple from a distance, noticed that Alice had left her handbag on the table. He quickly sprinted to the entrance and ran out of the restaurant, leaving a note on the table that read: "If you need anything, just call me. I promise to be here in five minutes. -John." Alice read the note and was pleasantly surprised by John's unexpected gesture.

As Joe returned with Alice's handbag, he noticed that John was nowhere to be found. Intrigued by John's quick action, Joe approached him and introduced himself. John explained that he had left his car at the restaurant and was planning to return within five minutes. He asked Joe if he could use his car to take him back to his hotel. Joe, impressed by John's quick thinking and hospitality, agreed.

They drove back to the hotel, and John thanked Joe for his help. Joe, who was already impressed by John's quick thinking and hospitality, asked John if he could help him in any way. John, with a smile, replied: "I have a business in town that could use some help. Maybe you can help out sometime." Joe, always ready to help, agreed.

The next day, Joe and John met up and discussed some business ideas. Joe was impressed by John's passion and determination. They decided to team up and start their own business. The business was a huge success, and Joe and John became good friends and partners.

The moral of the story is that sometimes, a little bit of kindness can lead to big things. - Jerry Scammell

Control Units Remove Odors

There was a time when water vapor added to the atmosphere added to the odors of foods.

But today's larger units require more water vapor, which can be a problem for some. One solution is to use a water vapor filter. This filter removes water vapor from the air and reduces the amount of odors. It is available in various sizes and can be installed in the air conditioning system.

Education Aided By Cool Air Conditioning In Bus

In addition to its value in homes and businesses, air conditioning can serve as a mobile aid to the needy and stranded.

For instance, Robert C. Gill of the Chicago City Schools is using air-conditioning equipment to establish a mobile air-conditioning laboratory that will serve as an admirable aid to the students who are in need of such facilities.

The latest air-conditioned bus is equipped with the latest equipment in order to assist students who are in need of air conditioning.

Students are required to bring their own air conditioning units to the school, and the mobile laboratory will be available to students who are in need of air conditioning.

Cool, Cool Learning

A cool breeze in the air can do wonders for a child's comfort. A cool, comfortable environment can help a child to focus on their studies, and at the same time, it can help to improve their overall well-being.
