It's All-Out War With Snipers

BY MICHAEL J. DUGGAN

DETROIT (UPI) - National Guardsmen in the streets of Detroit, Michigan, were on high alert Tuesday as the city entered its third day without any significant violence.

National Guardsmen were deployed throughout the city, with a focus on areas where past disturbances have occurred. Their presence was felt as they patrolled the streets in a show of force.

The city has been on high alert since Monday, when several incidents of violence were reported. Detroit Mayor Mike Duggan has repeatedly emphasized the need for cooperation and trust between the police and the community.

“Violence must be stopped now, and we need the community’s support to achieve this,” Duggan said.

The National Guard has been deployed in other major cities in recent years, such as Baltimore and Ferguson, Missouri, to help restore order during protests.

Governor Whitmer has called on federal officials to provide additional resources to help keep the peace in Detroit.

Meanwhile, residents of the city are urged to stay vigilant and report any incidents of violence immediately.

Duggan assured the public that the city is working with all necessary agencies to ensure the safety of residents.

Residents are also encouraged to engage in constructive dialogue with the police and community leaders to address the underlying issues.

“We must work together to create a safer and more equitable community for all,” Duggan concluded.

Beautyrest by Simmons

How much is your tire worth? Don't pull a price tag on your back. When a new mattress gives poor support...because that's no bargain at any price. So strengthen the free flexible support only Beautyrest offers.

Here's why.

Beautyrest is different from all other mattresses. Its separate, individually pocketed coils work independently of each other and give uniform support to your shoulders and hips, plus up to support your sides and back, through body filling comfor and restful sleep.

Selling price $299.95

But if you hold one of Evans 100 Lucky numbers...
