Manager Looks Forward to New Job

No Pettiness In Austin, Says Tinstman

BY A LEONARD TAYLOR

With the resignation of Mayor Richard M. Tinstman in Austin, Texas, there is a growing sense of relief and optimism among residents. Tinstman, who served for 12 years, announced his decision to resign effective immediately, citing personal reasons.

Tinstman, a former state senator, has been a fixture in Austin's political landscape for decades. He was elected mayor in 2000 and has been re-elected four times since then. Tinstman's resignation comes as a surprise to many, as he was widely respected for his leadership and commitment to the city.

The mayor's decision has sparked a number of questions about who will replace him and what direction the city will take in the near future. However, there is a general sense of relief among residents, who believe that Tinstman's departure will allow for new ideas and fresh perspectives.

Many residents have praised Tinstman for his dedication to the city, and his legacy will be remembered for years to come. Tinstman's resignation is a momentous occasion, and it will be interesting to see how the city moves forward in the coming months.

Stapp Defender, Assistant Jailed

John Stapp, 38-year-old assistant professor of engineering at the U.S. Air Force Academy, was taken into custody here today on a federal warrant charging him with bribery.

Stapp, who has been an instructor at the academy for four years, was arrested at his home by agents of the U.S. Department of Justice. He was released on $10,000 bond.

The warrant was issued by a federal grand jury in Denver, Colo., which is investigating a series of corruption cases at the academy.

Stapp is the third faculty member at the academy to be arrested in the past two weeks. Last week, Dr. Robert W. Denton, the academy's director of research, and Dr. John E. Johnson, a professor of mathematics, were arrested on charges of conspiracy to commit bribery.

Now he could write letters to his family and friends, and he could understand what was written in the newspapers. He said that teaching him how to read and write was the best thing that had ever happened to him.
