Man Plunges To Death At OU

By DON DAVIE

NORMAN - A self-confessed crooked gambler and Devil worshipper who was believed to be on the loose for months after being released from the Federal Penitentiary in Leavenworth, Kan., has been killed in a bloodbath here.

Donnie Rush, 32, of Tulsa, was killed instantaneously when he plowed his car into a roadside ditch near the College of Commerce.

The body of the dead body was taken to a medical examiner's office for an autopsy.

Several witnesses told police that Rush was seen driving erratically and that he made a sharp turn on an empty street.

A car that was following him collided with him, killing him instantly.

The car was carrying two occupants, one of whom sustained minor injuries.

The身份的死亡原因正在调查中。

For George

SAN FRANCISCO - Michigan Gov. George Romney was greeted at the San Francisco Civic Auditorium on Friday by a crowd of about 5,000 people who had come to hear the governor speak.

Romney spoke on the topic of education and the need for improved schools.

He also addressed the issue of the economy and the need for better economic policies.

Romney was given a standing ovation at the end of his speech.

Chevrolet To Feature Six Individual Lines

NEW CHEVY LINES

Chevrolet’s new line is individually styled, with each model sporting a different front and rear design. The new line includes the Bel Air, the Nomad, the Nova, the Impala, the Corvair, and the Caprice. Each model has its own unique styling, with the Bel Air being the most luxurious and the Impala being the sportiest.

REGULAR CHEVROLET—The regular line includes the Bel Air, Impala, and Nova. The Bel Air is the most luxurious model, featuring a fully adjustable suspension, power steering, and a luggage rack. The Impala is the sportiest model, with a lower profile and more aggressive styling. The Nova is a more affordable option, with a simpler interior and a more basic suspension.

THE BEETLES Are Back
And They Changed - In Design

Volkswagen's beloved station wagon, the "隹," has been given a new look and a host of new features.

From the familiar VW "beetle" look, all the way to the new "隹" design, the changes are evident.

The front end has been updated with a new grille and bumper. The rear end has been restyled with a new trunk lid and tail lights.

Inside, the "隹" features a new dash and instrument panel. The seats have been reupholstered, and the door panels have been updated.

The "隹" has been given a new engine, which is more powerful and more efficient than the original.

Safety features have been added, including a standard anti-lock braking system and a new airbag system.

Overall, the "隹" offers a significant improvement over the original model.

American Fielding Sporty Car

DESKTOP—American Me- car, a telephone, is a corporate strategy delivered regularly under the name of DeLorean. Change is a necessary state of being. The Javelin represents the latest chapter in the company’s evolution.

The 1987 Javelin is based on the same platform as the 1986 model, with some minor modifications. The design team, led by American Motors chairman, Darrell D. Heft, and his team, has given the car a more aggressive look. The front end is wider and lower, giving the car a more aerodynamic appearance. The rear end is also more streamlined, with a new spoiler and taillights.

The Javelin’s engines are updated versions of the 1986 models. The base engine is a 3.8-liter V6, while the optional engine is a 5.2-liter V8. Both engines are more powerful and more efficient than their predecessors.

The interior of the Javelin has been enhanced with new materials and features. The dashboard is more complex, with a new display for the digital instruments. The seats are more comfortable, with better support and cushioning. The steering wheel is also more ergonomically designed.

The Javelin’s handling has been improved with new suspension and steering components. The 1987 model is more responsive to driver inputs, with better grip and stability. The braking system has also been strengthened, with larger brakes and better pedal feel.

The Javelin’s suspension system has been updated with new shock absorbers and springs. The ride is more comfortable, with better control over bumps and potholes. The new front-end design also contributes to the car’s lower wind resistance, resulting in better fuel economy.

The Javelin’s exterior styling is more aggressive, with a new front grille and a more angular rear end. The car’s presence is enhanced with new colors and design options.

In summary, the 1987 Javelin is a significant improvement over its predecessor. It offers more power, better performance, and a more comfortable ride. The updated design and new features make it a more attractive option for customers looking for a sporty and comfortable car.
