Fern In Tracks Of Beulah; Guard Mobilized

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Hurricane Fern, after rippling through the Gulf of Mexico and moving over the Texas coast, was expected to head for the Atlantic Ocean. The U.S. Coast Guard and Navy were put on high alert as the storm approached the Texas coast. Fern was forecasted to bring heavy rain and strong winds to the Gulf Coast region.

WARTIME EFFORTS: In another story, the Associated Press reported that the U.S. military was stepping up its preparations for a possible Japanese attack. The AP noted that the Pentagon was mobilizing resources, including ships, planes, and troops, to bolster defenses in the Pacific Theater.

Judge Rules Norman Man Not Guilty

Nicholas Brown, 21, accused of murdering his wife, was found not guilty by reason of insanity in a Colorado trial. The jury deliberated for less than two hours before announcing its verdict. Brown's defense attorney argued that his client had suffered from a mental breakdown at the time of the murder.

Afternoon Daily Out For Times

New York (AP) — The New York Times announced that it would begin publishing a daily edition starting Monday. The move was seen as a response to the growing popularity of newspapers and a way to stay competitive with other media. The Times also announced that it would start charging readers for its online content.

The Inside News

Oklahoma City: Sports News from High in the Sky

The Oklahoma City Times reported on a recent sports event in the city, mentioning local teams and players. The paper also included a feature on the history of Oklahoma sports, highlighting key moments and figures in the state's athletic landscape.

Help Retain Peace, Negro Leaders Told

Civil rights leaders gathered in Oklahoma City to discuss strategies for maintaining peace during a time of social unrest. The leaders emphasized the importance of unity and cooperation among different communities to address the challenges facing the nation.

Toll Road Pros, Cons Viewed in Editorials

The editorial section of the newspaper weighed in on the pros and cons of toll roads, focusing on their impact on traffic, transportation, and economic development in the region. The editorialists provided a balanced view, considering both the benefits and drawbacks of toll roads.

'Pike Parley Axed; Mayor Chides Press

Mayor George, who had proposed a meeting with the press, announced that the meeting had been canceled. He expressed concern about the media's coverage of city affairs and urged the press to focus on positive developments.
