Servitude Charge Fired at Smith

U.S. Asked To Probe Claim Against Congressman

The federal government Monday asked to probe claims of servitude made by Robert A. Costello, a人士 United States congressman for the 3rd District of Pennsylvania, against his former employer, S.W. B. Smith.

The government's move was prompted by a letter from Mr. Smith sent to Mr. Costello, who has been a leader in the labor movement.

Mr. Smith alleged that during his time as a member of the House of Representatives, Mr. Costello had engaged in acts of servitude and had committed crimes.

The move comes as part of a broader effort by the government to investigate claims of servitude against members of Congress.
