Halloween Fun Can Be Dangerous

It's 2:30 a.m. The decorated trees, homeowners, and trick-or-treaters fill the streets, creating a festive atmosphere. Police and fire departments are on high alert, as the city prepares for the annual Halloween festivities. It's a time of trick-or-treating, costumes, and candy, but it's also a time when safety precautions are necessary.

Potential Danger

Weaving through the crowd of people, a young boy accidentally bumps into a group of trick-or-treaters. The crowd disperses, and the boy quickly makes his way to the nearest adult for help. This is just one example of the potential dangers that come with Halloween festivities. With so many people out and about, it's important to be aware of your surroundings and take necessary precautions to ensure a safe and enjoyable night.

Heroin Addiction Rises In Britain

By ALFRED M. DEtroM

LONDON — Heroin addiction in Britain has increased tremendously in the past year, and the problem is getting more serious. Heroin addicts are now being found in every part of the country, and are causing considerable trouble to the police and to the authorities in charge of the rehabilitation of addicts. The situation is particularly serious in London, where the number of heroin addicts has doubled in the past year. The police are now dealing with a large number of addicts who are causing serious problems, and are putting a strain on the police resources. The situation is also becoming serious in other parts of the country, and the authorities are taking steps to deal with the problem. In London, a new rehabilitation centre has been opened, and the police are working closely with the centre to help the addicts. However, the problem is still serious, and the police are calling for more resources to deal with it. The authorities are also calling for more education about the dangers of heroin addiction, and for more support for the addicts who are trying to overcome their addiction. The situation is becoming increasingly serious, and the authorities are working hard to deal with it.
