The Paper That Tells Both Sides

Ex-Child Actress Beaten

Shirley's Star Falls

DAN MARKS, Staff. (Tulsa) -- Shirley Temple, the former child star, was victim of the flu this week. She was forced to go to the hospital for a week, 6,000 in the hospital, and was forced to cancel her appearance at the benefit for the Little League Baseball team. A friend who saw her said, "She was a beautiful girl, but she was sick."

Mrs. Mark, however, said that the actress had been ailing for several weeks. She said that she had been taking care of Shirley, but that the actress had been showing signs of weakness. Mrs. Mark said, "She was always weak, but now she's really weak."

Children To Benefit

"Father's Rule Killed"

SEATTLE -- Washington's high court has ruled that mothers' rights over children are protected by state law, and that fathers' rights are not protected.

The court ruled that the state's constitution does not grant fathers any legal rights to care for their children. The court said that the state's constitution only protects mothers' rights over children.

It Was A Woman's World...

Boys To Be Charmers, Too

Women's roles in the world have changed, but there are still some things that have remained the same. It's not just men who can be charming; women have their charms as well.

Feminine Charm

Women have always had a special way of charming others. Whether it's through their beauty, their wit, or their grace, women have a unique ability to captivate others. It's these qualities that make women so special.

Fashion and Beauty

Women's fashion has always been an important part of their charm. From the elegance of a little black dress to the boldness of a statement necklace, women have a way of expressing themselves through their clothing and accessories.

Friendship

Women have a special way of making friends. Whether it's through their kindness, their empathy, or their understanding, women have a special ability to connect with others on a deep level.

It's not just men who can be charming; women have their charms as well. It's these qualities that make women so special.

Oklahoma -- Film star and former pro football star Jane Russell was married here yesterday to William Reichenback, Jr., the 25-year-old son of a prominent San Francisco lawyer, in a fiveminute ceremony at the Palladium Church in the San Francisco suburb of Hillsborough.

Russell, who was a Hope College cheerleader and a Miss Michigan and Miss America contestant, met Mr. Reichenback when she was a Wheat City, Kansas, high school student.

Too Many Good Teams?

Bowl Picture Muddled

The National Conference seems to have hit a crossroad. It is well into the season and the conference, which has about as many teams in contention for the conference championship as the West Division of the National Football League, is suddenly as tight as the final alignment of the West.

When the conference was first formed in 1936, it was regarded as the premier league in college football. Since then it has been the cradle of the All-American and has provided the home of the professional football stars.

The conference was always the epitome of college football, its teams always considered as the champions of the nation.

A few years ago, it was the acknowledged champion of the nation. But in recent years the conference has been the butt of all football jokes.

It is a no-name conference, but it is a name conference.

The conference was formed to provide a level of competition that would be met by the best teams of the nation. It was the first conference to be formed in the nation, and it was the first conference to be recognized as the premier conference.

But the conference has not been the same since the day it was formed.

It is now a conference of no-name teams, but it is a conference that is still considered as the premier conference.

The conference is now considered as the premier conference, but it is a conference that is considered as the premier conference.
