To Critics Of Free Press

It was not always the case. It has been the case.

The constitutional guarantee of free press is a cornerstone of our democracy. It protects the right of every individual to speak, write, or print freely on any subject whatsoever.

The right to freedom of the press is essential because it is the cornerstone of our system of government. The free flow of information, ideas, and opinions is necessary for a healthy democracy.

State Editors Say

There is no better way to promote the principles of free speech than to support the Oklahoma Press Association.

The Oklahoma Press Association is committed to promoting the principles of free speech. They strive to ensure that the press is free from government censorship and that journalists have the right to report the news without fear of retribution.

Heitz Doesn't Mind Alcindor's Shadow

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Harry is the name of a young man on the floor of the hotel. He is wearing a sports coat and glasses and is seen looking at the floor, picking up a piece of paper.

"He's not the kind of guy who's going to be bothered by anyone," said a hotel employee.

"He's just going about his business, just like any other guy." His name is Alcindor, and he is the latest top prospect in basketball.

In the past few days, Alcindor has been photographed in various situations, including playing with a local team, a game of tennis, and even trying on his new uniform.

Some say he's too young to make it in the professional ranks, while others believe he has the potential to be a star. Alcindor himself hasn't said much, but his presence has been felt in the basketball world.

JANUARY 12, 1980

Your January water is charged with enthusiasm and energy. You may feel the need to express yourself more freely and to take risks. This is a time to let go of inhibitions and to pursue your interests and desires. Be open to new experiences and opportunities. Your creativity and intuition will be strong, so use them to your advantage.

This month is favorable for socializing and networking. You may meet new and interesting people, and you could find support and stimulation from your friends and colleagues. Be sociable and engage in discussions that pique your curiosity.

In the professional realm, you may face challenges that require you to think outside the box and to approach problems with fresh perspectives. This is an excellent time to take on new responsibilities or to start a new project. Your ability to adapt and to be flexible will be your key to success.

For those in relationships, this is a good time to express your feelings and to deepen your connection with your partner. You may also want to consider spending more time together and to make plans for the future.

In terms of health, this month is generally favorable. However, you may want to pay attention to your physical and emotional well-being and to avoid stress and overload.

Overall, January is a time of positive energy and enthusiasm. Embrace the opportunities that come your way, and take advantage of the support and resources available to you. With determination and perseverance, you can achieve your goals and fulfill your desires.

Krupp Genius: 'New Ways To Kill'

Profit Was Deity of German Family

By JIM KENDALL

Krupp, a name synonymous with steel and war, has now added a new facet to its legacy: the creation of a peacekeeping technology. The company, once known for its massive weapons production, has unveiled a new system designed to disarm and neutralize threats.

The system, codenamed "Krupp Genius," is based on advanced robotics and artificial intelligence. It uses a combination of sensors, cameras, and software to identify and neutralize threats, both human and mechanical. The system is designed to be as efficient as possible, with minimal human intervention.

The Genius system operates in the following manner:

1. Detection: The system is equipped with advanced sensors that can detect threats from a distance. This includes not only weapons but also potential threats such as drones.
2. Identification: Once a threat is detected, the system uses its advanced imaging technology to identify the threat.
3. Neutralization: If the threat is confirmed, the system uses its arsenal of weapons to neutralize it.
4. Disposal: After the threat is neutralized, the system disposes of it in a safe manner.

The Genius system has already been deployed in several countries, and the results have been promising. In fact, the system has been so effective that it has been credited with saving lives and reducing violence.

"We are proud to have developed such a system," said Dr. Karl Krupp, CEO of Krupp. "We believe that our technology can help create a safer world for everyone."

Cosa Nostra 'Soldier' Tells How Gang Got To Him

By FREDDY WOLFE

In a rare interview, Cosa Nostra 'soldier' Al Capone spoke about how the family got to him.

"It all started when I was 21," Capone said. "I was a struggling gangster trying to make a name for myself. One day, I was sitting in a bar when a man walked in and introduced himself as Frank Costello.

"Frank was a powerful figure in the Cosa Nostra," Capone continued. "He saw the potential in me and offered to help me climb the ranks. I accepted his offer and soon found myself involved in some serious business.

The interview was cut short when Capone's bodyguard interrupted to announce that the family had received a tip about a potential enemy.

"We have to go now," Capone said. "We can't take any chances."

INSTEAD OF THEIR OWN

The heartwarming story of one young couple’s ingenious answer to the population explosion

BY ISABELLA TAYE

When Bern and Ralph Stephens were married 20 years ago, they decided they wanted to travel all over the world and have a big family — five children.

In the course of their happy married life, while Ralph rose to be a vice-president of industry at age 27, they have lived in New York, London and South Africa. Bern has spent her life as a stenographer for the Girl Scouts, a teacher-coordinator in a largely black high school and a public relations executive at Audio House, an Eastern export at a publishing house. She has taken major courses in business at Harvard and, while at work, civil rights and politics. Her children, Ben and Bob, have been at a private school.

In sudden, last-minute, struck by the problems of the population explosion, and the Stephens decided they couldn’t bring themselves to add another child to an already-overpopulated world. Instead, Bern and Ralph — healthy, young and successful — decided they would adopt a baby that was already born.

Ralph is 35 years old, and Bern 33. When her son was born, Bern always wanted a big family. She had only one young brother. As a small girl, she could never have children because she was part of a large brood. But when she was 20 years old, she was married, and the Stephens hoped to adopt a baby. The adoption process was long and difficult, but the Stephens were determined to put their family together.

Finally, after two years of waiting, they were approved by the Philadelphia Adoption Agency. The Stephens were overjoyed when they were chosen by a mother who wanted to keep her son safe. She was a young woman, and she had decided to give her son up for adoption by the Stephens.

Bern and Ralph were overjoyed, and they began to plan for the arrival of their baby. They were both thrilled that they were finally able to have a child of their own.

When the baby arrived, Bern and Ralph named her Alice. She was a beautiful baby, and they were overjoyed to have her in their family. Alice was a healthy baby, and she was able to thrive with the love and attention of her parents.

The Stephens were able to provide Alice with a loving and nurturing environment, and she was able to blossom under their care. Alice became a bright and cheerful child, and the Stephens were proud of her.

Scientists are discovering some startling things about why you grow old and what you can do to delay it—whether you're 18 or 80.

BY JAMES C. O. CORNFIT

Dr. Neil Solomon, Coordinator, National Institute of Child Health and Human Development, Gerontology Branch: “Crash dieting . . . speeds up the aging process at any time of life.”

Mice and women have always looked forward to the more traditional era when the elderly were respected and revered. But now, scientists are discovering that aging is not just a matter of time, but a process that can be delayed and even reversed.

One study found that mice, when placed on a calorie-restricted diet, lived longer and had a lower incidence of age-related diseases. Another study found that when young and old mice were placed in a social hierarchy, the older mice lived longer if they were able to compete with the younger mice.

Dr. Steven Linzer, Duke University Medical Center, Durham, N.C.: “Average life spans of 800 years are not only possible, but a definite reality.”

On the other hand, according to Dr. Solomon, recent weight loss also causes aging, and so...

INTRODUCTION

Not long ago, we flew to this remote Himalayan domain, which is actually a kingdom. The Royal Hotel, where we stayed, was once a palace, but not any longer. One spacious furnished room was on the second floor, flanked by a single stairway. From there we could see the entire valley. The staff prepared meals of steamed rice, pork and potato, and soup. We dined on these foods for several weeks, eating many times a day. The food was simple, yet it always satisfied our hunger.

We sampled the cuisine of this unique culture, and learned about the local customs and traditions. The people were friendly and hospitable, and we enjoyed spending time with them. We also visited the local market, where we saw many interesting products, including spices and herbs.

The following morning, we woke up to the sound of bells ringing. The people were preparing for the day, and we joined in their activities. We helped set up the market, and assisted with selling the goods. It was a rewarding experience, and we gained a better understanding of the culture.

This trip was a memorable experience, and we look forward to returning to the Himalayas in the future. We encourage others to visit this region, and to explore the rich culture and traditions of the people.

SAFETY IN VINTAGE: The Washington Tobacco Safety Committee has a new safety belt for vintage cars. The belt is made of nylon, has a metal buckle, and can be used with most vintage cars. The committee recommends using the belt with vintage cars to improve safety.

MEDICAL NEWS: New Vaccine: The new German measles vaccine is reported to be the most effective in fighting the disease. ITALIAN VINTAGE: The Italian Vintage Car Club has announced that they have purchased a collection of over 100 vintage Italian cars. The collection includes cars from manufacturers such as Fiat, Lancia, and Alfa Romeo.

THE MORGAN THREE-WHEELER

O ut of the most entertaining restorers I've met that used to go on the roads was the one about the Morgan. Morgan's one-wheeler and the steamer truck. According to this tale, a poor fellow driving a steamer truck in poor visibility on a wet night got his rear wheel stuck on a car track. Three-wheelers being what they are, he was forced to follow the car track for miles, all the way to the car tracks, before he could turn the thing around!

This must be a very old tale because Morgan's three-wheelers were made for a long, long time — 50 years or more. The three-wheeler, of course, was close kin to a motorcycle than to a car, easier to handle having an even smaller, 3-cu. ft. engine, better road and chain drive, independent rear suspension with coil springs and vertical suspension with coil springs and vertical suspension. A Morgan three-wheeler is a collection of parts, a well-assembled, well-assembled, well-assembled, well-assembled.

Space Age Snow Suits

BY JOAN RATTERMAN

The snowsuit flapping around above you are necessarily staring for a long time. Instead, they're off in the snow on a day when the thermometer reads far below zero. On the cover — where a special snowsuit appears — is actually a picture of a real snowsuit, not a real snowsuit, especially for the winter months, bitter-cold months in the Northern Ski areas. They wear it for skiing or only for the blizzard, depend on it just before getting on the snow. In a choice of many bright colors, in solid black, women's or men's, the snowsuit in made for men's and women's sizes. It comes gray and is completely waterproof. The hood, of course, rolls back and the face snaps, results in never having the skin, self down if your face wants out.

How to Paint a Picture in 30 Minutes

EVEN IF YOU'VE NEVER HELD A BRUSH BEFORE!

You can paint a picture. In 30 minutes or less, the very first time you try. Yes, even if you've never before held a paint brush in your hand, you can enjoy the relaxation, the fulfillment, the sheer fun of oil painting. And the time to start is right now.

Crompton can teach you to paint color, to view color as a real living thing in itself. He can show you how to make color, how to paint it on canvas, how to shape it, how to blend it, how to make it look like anything you want it to look like — flowers, trees, people, landscapes. He can show you how to make it look like anything you want it to look like.

Better Than Any Textbook
Oil painting is a way of working with emotions. Because a picture is a way of expressing a feeling, a picture is a way of understanding yourself. That is why this book is a way of understanding yourself. That is why this book is called a "textbook." Because it is a way of understanding yourself.
