Used VW's Sold As New By Unauthorized Dealers

WASHINGTON—Rudi Nader, the consumer advocate who charged that the auto industry had been selling thousands of vehicles as new that had actually been used, was found guilty of contempt of court Thursday in federal court here.

Mr. Nader, who has fought a series of battles against what he called "the auto racket," has been found guilty of contempt of court.

ANNAPOLIS—Governor Harry W. Hughes, seeking to expand the state's program of low-interest loans for students, proposed a $21 million bond issue to the state legislature today.

Mr. Hughes said the bond issue would be used to provide loans to students at the University of Maryland, the State University, and the community colleges.

Mr. Hughes said the state had been criticized for not providing enough financial aid to students.

In a letter to the Governor, Mr. Hughes wrote:

"I have decided to leave the state government and start my own business.

"It is a letter to Rich. We must find a way to make the state government work better for the people."
The Turning Point—First Of 3-Part Series

LBJ Downfall, Viet Shift—How Did It Happen?

LBJ's downfall was the result of a series of events that culminated in the Vietnam War. The war drained the nation's resources and eroded public support for the administration. The conflict also exposed the deep divisions within the country, leading to a shift in political ideology. The turning point came when the war became a symbol of failure and a source of shame for the nation.

Kennedy's Papers Denied To Public

Presidential papers put on important question, new law, court rules, public files.

By Penn Martin, Staff Writer

WASHINGTON - The holiday season made its mark on President Kennedy's office this week with the release of a series of papers that had been held under an ``embargo'' until after Christmas. These papers included a report on the nation's economic situation, a statement on the Budget, and a letter from the President to the Congress asking for approval of the Budget.

The papers were made available to the public on Tuesday afternoon, with a free press conference on Wednesday. The President was expected to make a statement on the papers at the conference, but he did not.

The papers included a detailed report on the nation's economic situation, which showed a steady increase in the gross national product. The report also showed a decrease in the unemployment rate, and an increase in the number of jobs.

The Budget statement was a detailed list of the government's spending plans for the coming year. It showed a decrease in the deficit, and an increase in the revenue collected.

The letter to the Congress asked for approval of the Budget, and for the public's support of the government's policies. The letter also included a statement on the nation's foreign policy, and a call for peace.

The papers were made available to the public in a special conference in the White House. The President was expected to make a statement on the papers at the conference, but he did not.
