The court's decision will have significant implications for future cases involving terrorism and national security.

Electoral Reform At Critical Stage

Now is the time for the people with something to lose to become aware of the need to elect their president to office.

We need to elect a president who will make it his personal goal to reform the electoral system. This is not just a matter of principle, but it is also a matter of practicality. The current system is broken and needs to be fixed.

If we do not act now, the problems will only get worse. The current system is riddled with corruption and is simply not working. It is time to make a change and elect a president who will put the people first.

"The key is to have a comfortable, quiet, pleasurable environment, which it is possible to achieve with the new technology." Another expert added that the trend is part of a larger shift towards more family-oriented groups, but even the home would never be a place where families would have to go out and spend their own money.

Any Shufflesboard Lately? Youth Moves In On Cruise

By MELINDA MENDOLIA

For a long time, shuffleboard was a sport often played by senior citizens. Now, it seems to be making a comeback among a younger crowd.

Shuffleboard was once a popular game in the 1950s, especially among the baby boomer generation. The game involves two players sliding metal pucks, or discs, across a wooden surface towards each other's end. The objective is to get the puck as close to the end as possible without going off the line.

Recently, however, shuffleboard has become popular among a new group of players. Younger adults seem to be enjoying the game, perhaps because it is a fun way to socialize and get some exercise.

Some local shuffleboard clubs have reported an increase in membership, with more young people joining in. This trend is especially noticeable in areas with outdoor courts, where people can play in the fresh air.

Crazy Print Is Passable For Spring

SPORTS CLOTHES will pack a punch on the fashion scene this spring. Bright and bold patterns will be the order of the day, with everything from neon to polka dots making a comeback.

For the sporty look, try a pair of bright red shorts with a white blouse and black pencil skirt. Add a white sweater and a cute bag for a complete outfit.

For the more daring, try a full-length dress with a bright red and yellow polka dot pattern. Pair it with black tights and a white blouse for a bold look.

But remember, the key to wearing these bright and bold patterns is to keep the rest of your outfit simple and understated. A plain white blouse or a simple black skirt will let the print do the talking.

AN OLD TREAT in the kitchen against wasting all your eggs is to make a well batter or sauce first. Mix the eggs with a little milk, a dash of cream, a pinch of salt, pour in a little more milk, and a few minutes in the oven, and you have a dish that is hard to equal. The batter is firm, the sauce is rich, and the whole dish is a real treat.

Help Kids Over Moving Trauma ... Not What It Used To Be

By REILYN MERRITT

A few weeks ago I heard myself repeating the phrase "Dragon will come" over and over. I was trying to calm a friend's child who was having a tough time adjusting to a new home. It's amazing how often children struggle in the face of change, and how important it is for us to help them navigate these transitions.

In keeping with the theme of the holiday season, I wanted to share some tips on how parents can support their children during this time of year. Whether it's a move, a new school, or a family change, it's crucial to remember that children need our support and understanding.

Tips for Helping Children Cope with Change:

1. Communicate Openly:
   - Talk to your child about the changes they are experiencing. Be honest and straightforward, and provide reassurance.
   - Answer their questions honestly and patiently.

2. Create a Sense of Routine:
   - Establish a consistent schedule for meals, bedtime, and other daily activities.
   - Maintain familiar rituals and routines, even if they are different.

3. Provide Emotional Support:
   - Encourage your child to express their feelings. Validate their emotions and let them know it's okay to feel sad or scared.
   - Offer comfort and reassurance, and show them that you're there for them.

4. Keep Things Positive:
   - Focus on the positive aspects of the changes. Highlight new opportunities and experiences.
   - Help your child see the benefits of the new situation.

5. Be Patient:
   - Give your child time to adjust to the changes. They may need more time than you think.
   - Be patient and gentle with yourself as well.

Remember, every child is different, and what works for one child may not work for another. Be flexible and adapt your approach as needed.

With these tips in mind, let's work together to help our children cope with change and grow through the challenges they face.

AOLANDELE—(OKLA.)—It's hard to imagine what it's like to be a boy in the 1960's and 1970's, when there were no computers or electronic games to play. But for some of today's kids, their world has changed dramatically.

During the late 1970's and early 1980's, video games became a popular pastime for young people. The introduction of the Nintendo Entertainment System (NES) and the Sega Genesis in the mid-1980's brought the video game industry to new heights.
