Infantrymen Slay Communists Near Saigon

UNION, 249 W. 30th St., is a well known restaurant located on the west side of Union, just west of the main drag. The restaurant is known for its delicious food and friendly service.

A man was killed in a gun battle between North Vietnamese troops and the 3rd Battalion, 8th Marines of the U.S. 1st Marine Division in the city of Saigon on Saturday.

The battle took place near the Tan Dinh Bridge, a major thoroughfare in Saigon. The 3rd Battalion, 8th Marines was part of a larger force that had been sent to the area to reinforce the city's defenders.

The battle lasted for several hours and resulted in the death of a North Vietnamese soldier and several injuries to both sides.

The U.S. military has not released any further details about the battle, including the number of casualties on either side.

The battle is the latest in a series of clashes between U.S. and North Vietnamese forces in and around Saigon. The city has been the scene of frequent fighting in recent months, as both sides continue to battle for control of the city.

The U.S. military has been reinforcing its forces in Saigon in recent weeks, as the North Vietnamese have increased their military activity in the area.
