Bagnet: A Man Of Action

Outspoken Solon Eyes Race

(Editors's Note: This is the ninth in a series of profiles of candidates for the Oklahoma House of Representatives. This feature is sponsored by the Oklahoma Federation of Women's Clubs, for the purpose of acquainting the public with the candidates for office and their qualifications.)

By DAVID CHAISEAU

First of all, if the citizens of Oklahoma Democracy could put forward in the same manner thatNEGOTIATING campaign, the aforecalled other legislative candidates for the Oklahoma House of Representatives, it would not, of course, be seen that the usual party-affiliated political machine is well on its way to setting up a strong and effective political party. As a result of the efforts of the Bagnet campaign, the house would be thrown open to non-partisan candidates, and the party would be forced to broaden its appeal to a wide cross-section of voters.

Furthermore, the State Senate would be thrown open to non-partisan candidates, and the party would be forced to broaden its appeal to a wide cross-section of voters.

Mr. Bagnet is a leading advocate of non-partisan primaries. He believes that non-partisan primaries are the only fair way to select candidates for office, and that they are the only way to ensure that the best men are chosen for public office.

Mr. Bagnet has been a strong supporter of education, and he has played an active role in the Oklahoma Education Association. He has worked hard to improve the quality of education in Oklahoma, and he has been a strong advocate of teacher pay raises.

Mr. Bagnet is also a strong supporter of the environment. He has been a vocal advocate of protecting the state's natural resources, and he has been a strong supporter of the Oklahoma Department of Natural Resources.

Mr. Bagnet is a dedicated public servant, and he has served the people of Oklahoma with distinction. He has been a strong advocate of the people, and he has been a strong supporter of the poor and the underprivileged.

Mr. Bagnet is a man of action, and he has a proven record of getting things done. He has been a strong advocate of the people, and he has been a strong supporter of the poor and the underprivileged.

Mr. Bagnet is a man of integrity, and he has always been honest and fair in his dealings with the people. He has always been a strong advocate of the people, and he has always been a strong supporter of the poor and the underprivileged.

Mr. Bagnet is a man of vision, and he has a clear understanding of the challenges that face our state. He has always been a strong advocate of the people, and he has always been a strong supporter of the poor and the underprivileged.

Gen. De Gaulle: Job Well Done

It is ironic that after the triumphs of the past, General De Gaulle should now be described as a "reactionary" or a "right-wing" leader. The French have always been proud of their strong national identity and have revered such figures as General De Gaulle.
