CITY T.G. & Y. Chief Moves Up

Henderson To Head Illinois Parent Firm

By JIM KENDALL

A new chapter in the history of the Illinois Parent Firm of T.G. & Y., which has been under the control of the same family for more than 40 years, was written recently when the firm's new president was installed.

The new president of the T.G. & Y., Illinois Parent Firm, is an executive who has been associated with the firm for many years. The new president, a native of Illinois, has been active in the T.G. & Y. organization for more than 20 years. He has served in various capacities, including as a member of the executive committee.

The new president has a reputation for strong leadership and a commitment to the principles of the T.G. & Y. organization. He has been involved in the organization's efforts to expand its reach and improve its services to customers.

The new president was installed in his new position with a ceremony that was attended by many senior executives of the T.G. & Y. organization. The ceremony included speeches by executives who praised the new president for his dedication and leadership.

The new president's installation marks a new chapter in the history of the T.G. & Y. organization in Illinois. The T.G. & Y. organization has a long history of providing high-quality services to customers, and the new president is expected to continue this tradition.

The new president's appointment is the result of a thorough search conducted by the T.G. & Y. organization. The search process involved an extensive evaluation of potential candidates, and the new president was selected based on his qualifications and experience.

The new president has a strong understanding of the T.G. & Y. organization and its mission. He has a proven track record of success in the retail industry and has a strong commitment to the principles of the T.G. & Y. organization.

The new president's appointment is the latest in a series of changes at the T.G. & Y. organization. The T.G. & Y. organization has undergone a number of changes in recent years, including the introduction of new technology and the expansion of its reach.

The new president's installation is expected to mark a new chapter in the history of the T.G. & Y. organization in Illinois. The new president's leadership is expected to bring new energy and innovation to the organization, and the T.G. & Y. organization is expected to continue its tradition of providing high-quality services to customers.

Bill To Exempt Theatre Workers From Charges Vetoed

In response to the recent threat of a strike by theatre workers, Governor Smith has announced his intention to veto a bill that would have exempted theatre employees from certain state tax laws. The governor's decision follows a meeting with leaders of the theatre industry, who had argued that the bill would put them at a disadvantage compared to other businesses.

Anti-Inflation Success Noted

By BILL MILLER

The nation's labor leaders have hailed the record unemployment rate as a victory for the anti-inflation campaign. The rate of 4.5% is the lowest in several years, and it is hoped that this will continue to fall as more people return to work.

GOP Giants Taking Back Seat At Convention; Hassle

By DANIEL VANCE

OKLAHOMA CITY — The tone of all the talk — and the howls and hand-wringing of Wednesday — was one of uncertainty. But in the Republican Party, there was no question that this year's convention will be won or lost this week.

GOP leaders are in deadlocked with House Speaker Tom Menino and Senate President David D. Dewhurst in a battle over who will sit at the convention table.

The core issue is how to allocate the allocating committee places. Menino and Dewhurst have been at odds for months over who should have the power to control the convention's agenda.

Menino wants the convention to be a one-party event, with Dewhurst arguing for a balanced agenda.

In the end, the three main candidates for the nomination will be chosen at a meeting of the convention's credentials committee.

On Thursday, the convention will reconvene at 1 p.m., and it is expected that the next step will be to select a chairperson for the convention.

In the afternoon, the new chairperson will be sworn in.

The convention will continue on Friday with plenary sessions and floor action.

The Dieting Game—Chapter II

Blaming Obesity On Glands Is Lot Of Malarkey

By JEFFREY RANFT

The last light of the sun dimmed on a town that was once a hub of activity. The town was founded on the principle of hard work and perseverance, but in recent years it had been declining. The townspeople had tried to attract new businesses, but none had been successful. One day, a visiting scientist arrived in town and presented a theory to the townspeople: they were blaming obesity on glands, and this was a lot of malarkey!

The scientist explained that obesity was caused by a combination of genetic factors, lifestyle choices, and environmental influences. He suggested that the town could improve its health by adopting healthier habits and by investing in programs that promote physical activity and healthy eating. The townspeople were skeptical at first, but they began to see the merits of the scientist's ideas and started implementing them.

The town's health improved significantly over the next few years, and the people of the town were grateful for the scientist’s insight. They realized that blaming obesity on glands was a lot of malarkey and that taking responsibility for their health was the way to go.

Tragedy Points Up Need For Seat Belts

By PAUL CARTERJUDGE
A woman woman lost consciousness on a hot road today, and it is unlikely that she will survive.

"Margaret," a 32-year-old, hit the steering wheel of her car as she entered a wali.

The investigation into the accident is on going, and the driver is expected to make a full recovery.

The driver was thrown out of the car as it hit the wall and sustained injuries to her head. She is currently being treated at St.
Francis Hospital.

The accident occurred on a rural road, and the driver was not wearing a seat belt.

The accident serves as a reminder of the importance of wearing seat belts.
