Gibson, Dickerson Get Death In Thrill Killing

By J. NELSON TAYLOR

Harley H. Dickerson and James Gibson, II, high school students from Visalia, were sentenced yesterday to life in prison for the murder of five defenseless youngsters that occurred in Los Angeles five days before. The sentences were given in Los Angeles County Superior Court by Judge J.D. Parr. The two were described as the "architects of murder." The trial lasted six months and was the longest in Los Angeles County history. The jury deliberated for 27 hours before reaching a verdict.

The defendants never found a way to escape from the jail where they were held for murder. They were described as the "architects of murder." The trial lasted six months and was the longest in Los Angeles County history. The jury deliberated for 27 hours before reaching a verdict.

Judge J.D. Parr set the amount of the fine at $500. This was the largest fine ever imposed in Los Angeles County. The two were described as the "architects of murder." The trial lasted six months and was the longest in Los Angeles County history. The jury deliberated for 27 hours before reaching a verdict.
