Federal Rules "Imperil" State Nursing Homes

A proposed federal policy on nursing home staff ratios and other rules could imperil the state's nursing homes, according to state Department of Health and Senior Services officials.

The proposed rules, which were developed by the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services, would require nursing homes to have a licensed practical nurse on duty for every 60 patients for at least four hours per shift. The rules also call for a registered nurse on duty for every 100 patients for at least two hours per shift.

ốt the proposed rules would have a significant impact on the state's nursing homes, according to officials. The state's 110 licensed nursing homes have a total of 20,983 beds, and the proposed rules would require an additional 4,456 licensed practical nurses and 2,228 registered nurses.

Supporters of the proposed rules argue that they are necessary to improve patient care. Opponents, including the state's nursing home association and hospital associations, argue that the rules would be too costly for many nursing homes.

If the proposed rules are adopted, the state's nursing homes would likely need to increase their staffing levels, which could lead to increased costs and a higher risk of financial instability. Some nursing homes have already expressed concern that they may not be able to afford the additional staffing required by the proposed rules.

In response to the proposed rules, the state's nursing home association has filed a lawsuit challenging the rules, arguing that they are unlawful and不合理.

The lawsuit was filed in federal court in November, and a hearing on the case is scheduled for March 2024. If the lawsuit is successful, the proposed rules could be delayed or modified.

In the meantime, state officials are working to develop an alternative set of rules that they believe would be more feasible for the state's nursing homes.

The proposed federal rules are expected to be finalized in early 2024, and the state's nursing homes will likely need to make significant changes in order to comply with the new rules.

Medicaid Doctors, Hospitals Listed

A list of Medicaid doctors and hospitals has been released by the state's Medicaid program. The list includes information about doctors' specialties, hospitals' services, and the number of enrollees in each program.

The list is intended to help Medicaid beneficiaries find doctors and hospitals that accept Medicaid. It also provides information about the number of enrollees in each program, which can be helpful for providers who are considering accepting new Medicaid patients.

The list is available online and can be downloaded in PDF format. It can also be requested by mail or in person at any Medicaid office.

The list is updated quarterly and includes information about doctors and hospitals that accept Medicaid. It also includes information about the number of enrollees in each program, which can be helpful for providers who are considering accepting new Medicaid patients.

Skippers Divided On Pinch-Hit Experiment

Tom Wright

The Skippers' manager, Tom Wright, is divided on the decision to use Hank White as a pinch hitter in the game versus the Idaho Falls Chukars. White, who has been the starting shortstop for the Skippers, was brought up to bat as a pinch hitter in the sixth inning of the game. Wright said, "I made the decision to use Hank because he has been hitting well in recent games and I wanted to give him a chance to contribute to the team." The Skippers won the game 5-4.

Palmer's Trailing By 1 Shot

Palmer's, the local sporting goods store, is trailing by one shot in the final round of the state golf tournament. Palmer's has a score of 295, while the leader has a score of 294. Palmer's manager said, "We're not giving up yet. We have one more round to play and anything can happen." The tournament is scheduled to end on Sunday.

89ERS SUFFER ANOTHER LOSS

The 89ers suffered another loss in their last game against the Blue Jays. The Blue Jays won the game 7-3, extending their winning streak to five games. 89ers manager said, "We have been struggling offensively, but we will bounce back in the next game." The next game is scheduled for Tuesday.

CARDS BLAST GIANTS IN 11

The Cards breezed to a 11-0 win against the Giants in 11 innings. K-State Signs Cheatham hit two home runs and drove in five runs to lead the Cards to victory. Cheatham said, "I was just looking for a good pitch to hit, and I was able to connect on two of them." The Cards are now 12-2 on the season.

Orioles Belt Twins Again

The Orioles belted the Twins again in a lively game. Hank Hits No. 519 hit a three-run home run in the third inning to give the Orioles a 3-0 lead. The Twins responded with two runs in the fourth inning, but the Orioles held on to win 5-2. Orioles manager said, "We've been hitting the ball well lately, and we need to keep it up." The game was played in front of a sold-out crowd.

Astros Win Fifth In Row

The Astros won their fifth straight game against the Braves. They scored four runs in the first inning to jump out to an early lead. The game was played in front of a large crowd, and the Astros emerged victorious with a score of 7-2. Astros manager said, "We have been playing well as a team, and we need to keep it up." The game was played in front of a large crowd, and the Astros emerged victorious with a score of 7-2. Astros manager said, "We have been playing well as a team, and we need to keep it up." The game was played in front of a large crowd, and the Astros emerged victorious with a score of 7-2.

Mario At It Again

Mario, the local musician, played a sold-out show at the local music venue. He performed his hit song "Wear It Out," as well as several other popular songs. Mario said, "I love playing in front of these crowds. It's a great feeling to know that people are enjoying my music." The show was sold out, and the venue had to turn away many people.

K-State Signs Cheatham

K-State Signs Cheatham signed with the Cards in a surprise move. He had been a starting pitcher for the Cardinals, but he was released earlier in the season. K-State Signs Cheatham said, "I'm excited to be back with the Cards. I've had a lot of success with them in the past, and I know I can help this team win games." The Cards are now 12-2 on the season.

Heigh Ho Flivver! Buggies Ride Range

By RONDA CLARY

Something began to happen - a man with a face, a woman with a small child and the hood of a car - and the story of the Canadian River in Caddo County.

The story began with a mare, in a pasture, the first of its kind in the area. The mare, a black and white mare, was grazing in a field of tall grass. She was beautiful and strong, and it was clear that she was the mother of the colt that would later become the star of the show.

As the story continued, we saw the man and the child, standing nearby, admiring the mare. The man was a farmer, and he had bought the mare to help mow his fields. The child was his son, and he was eager to help.

The story then shifted to the car, which was a post-war model, parked in the field. The farmer had just bought it for his son, who was excited to drive it. But there was a problem - the car had no license plates, and the farmer was not sure how to get them.

Finally, the story concluded with a happy ending. The farmer found a way to get the plates, and the child was able to drive the car. The mare continued to graze in the field, and the family was content.

Up In Air: Junior Dune Men

This two-minute dune buggy race was held on the Canadian River, and the drivers were all young men. The track was a long, sandy dune, and the drivers had to navigate the twists and turns to reach the finish line.

As the race began, the drivers accelerated, steering carefully to avoid hitting each other. The sand was soft and powdery, and it was challenging to maintain control of the buggies. But the drivers were determined, and they pushed themselves to the limit.

In the end, the winner was decided by a narrow margin, and the drivers celebrated their victory with shouts and high-fives. The Canadian River was alive with excitement, and the dune buggy race had become a special event in the region.

Colors, Styles Change In Hurry

Men Help To Fashion Splash

By LIBBY PRICE

Time was when a man thought he was pretty sharp if he could make a white shirt look white and a pair of blue jeans really as blue as he could. Nowadays, the look is being changed.

Nineteen-year-old designer-for-himself or for himself if he can't find a fashion that fits him — is in every man's wardrobe. His look is a mixture of the casual and the formal, the funny with the serious. He wears a variety of clothes, some of which are tailored suits, others are casual shirts and trousers. He is a man of style.

The result is that the men's fashion industry is experiencing a change. The styles are becoming more relaxed, more casual. Men are no longer limited to wearing suits and ties. They are now wearing jeans, T-shirts, and even short pants.

In the past, men's fashion was limited to formal wear. Suits and ties were the norm, and even then, they were often too tight and restrictive. Now, men are able to wear clothes that are more comfortable and allow them to move around more easily.

The change in men's fashion has also had an impact on women's fashion. Women are now able to wear more casual clothes, and even men's clothes, if they choose.

The trend is not only limited to casual wear. Men are also wearing more formal clothes, such as suits and ties, but the styles are more relaxed.

The change in men's fashion is a reflection of the changing times. People are more relaxed and casual, and this is reflected in their clothing choices.

Men's fashion has also been influenced by the rise of designer labels. Men are now able to wear clothes that are designed by some of the biggest names in the fashion world.

In conclusion, the change in men's fashion is a reflection of the changing times. Men are now able to wear clothes that are more comfortable and allow them to move around more easily. They are also able to wear clothes that are designed by some of the biggest names in the fashion world.

Gunplay Not Part Of Studio Script

HOLLYWOOD - For all the hoopla about the cast and crew, the shooting of "True Grit" was a low-key affair. The stars, who are not normally given to endless publicity, were content to let the film do the talking.

By MAVIS HILL WINDSOR

Anne Baxter (left) and Paul Henreid are seen in a scene from "Guns of the Magnificent Seven". The film, directed by John Sturges, is about a group of pioneers who hire out for a job.

Alas, the script for "The Magnificent Seven" was not such an easy case. "The shooting was great," said one of the stars, "but the script was a real nightmare."
Driving A Race Car
Hocks This Doctor

By PAUL CASTLEIDGE

Driving a race car is like riding a motorcycle. You need to have a sense of balance and control, to keep your body steady and moving smoothly at all times.

The engine of the race car is like the motorcycle's computer, which controls the flow of fuel and ignition to ensure optimal power and performance.

The steering wheel is like the motorcycle's handle, allowing you to make quick and precise maneuvers. The brakes and accelerator are like the motorcycle's throttle, giving you the ability to control speed and braking efficiently.

The suspension system is like the motorcycle's frame, providing stability and comfort by absorbing shocks and vibrations from the road surface.

And just as you need to stay focused and alert while riding a motorcycle, you must focus on the race track, remaining alert to potential hazards and opponents.

But perhaps the most important aspect of driving a race car is the emphasis on safety. You must be prepared for any situation that may arise, keeping a clear head and making quick decisions.

"Corruption is Not A Woman's Picture!"

Rod Steiger-Claire Bloom Split A Pity

by Bob Hope

"Corruption" is not a woman's picture. It's about the lives of men, and what they're willing to do for power and money.

I thought boxers for my role, but then I realized
it was more complicated than that.

Claire Bloom and

Hashbury Swinglers: Case Of Too Much Rope

By NORMAS DONOVAN

The Newmark Times

SAN FRANCISCO—Love is still in the air for the Hashbury Swinglers, but it may not last too long. This year, love is all the rage with the sophisticated, red-hot, high-society crowd on the town. Love is in the air for the Swinglers, who are still looking for that special someone, but without the usual trappings.

Don't be fooled. The Swinglers' love is not just for show. They are serious about finding that perfect partner, but they are not afraid to be themselves.

Just Standing Around

What's really happening on Hashbury Street, the Swinglers just stand and wait, hoping for a partner. Everyone is looking for that perfect partner, but it's not easy. The Swinglers are in a dilemma. They want a partner, but they don't want to settle for anyone who isn't right for them.

Some Swinglers say they have been too busy. The photographs of the victims have been seen, but they have not been able to find the perfect partner. Some say they have been too busy. Flynn Baby Stands Tall

By RAY LOYND
The Rosalind Post Service

BURLINGTON — Errol Flynn’s daughter, Dierdre Flynn, grew up tall (5’9”), blade-slim and remarkably open about her life. Born in the storm-center of Hollywood gossip, “Flynn Mystery Baby By Righthand” appeared one local headline — Max Flynn today is a 24-year-old movie stunt girl and stand-in, on the fringe, as she’s always been, of Hollywood movies.

She prefers it that way, gives little thought to acting or generally avoiding the “In the News” departments. She was always painfully self-conscious of her name, she says. And “what did I add Build your first stunt role riding a horse and bugger in the unrepeated movie ‘The River’.”

Now she’s serving as a stand-in to Michael Douglas, a role that more than a few people have thought of as her mandate.

Dierdre Flynn tells that story with disarming candor and traces a pleasantly gloved outline of her first five years in Flynn’s big, rambling house in Mulholland Drive just east of Laurel Canyon.

“Dad was a loving father, – I was much closer to him than mother — and he was definitely strict, and we never thought of testing his patience.”

Sunday afternoons were open house on Flynn’s 6-acre spread. Their two-story white house sat up against a hill, surrounded by a riding ring, stables, tennis court and a pool.

“Father’s boudoirs came around on Sunday, mainly Bruce Cabot, Alan Hale Sr., Guinn (Big Boy) Williams and Gary Cooper from time to time. A lot of tommy koo, too,” she said.

Flynn bought her a Stetson brand pony when she was 4 and they named it Browny. She’s been riding ever since, including motorcycles (“I just sold my Triumph”) — her first stunt role riding a horse and bugger in the unrepeated movie “The River”.

Now she’s serving as a stand-in to Michael Douglas, a role of another Hollywood star, Kirk Douglas, in a television center film called “Hail, Hero!”

For the daughter of a wealthy movie star, she has little money. An insurance policy, $3,000,000 dollars split between herself and her younger full sister, Rory, provided for an education. And that’s been it, except for one advance on the day when Flynn’s estate is settled.

When Flynn died 10 years ago, “A dozen and one creditors descended and we couldn’t find the keys to dad’s Swiss bank accounts.”

Judy’s Had It
It’s Goodbye To ‘Laugh-In’

By JUDY CARNE
LONDON, N.Y. — Here I am, lugs, over town, a breathlessly happy example of what a few buckets of water can do for a girl’s career. During the past two television seasons I’ve been bent, twisted and torn as the sock-it-to-me girl on “Laugh-In,” a waterlogged Pearl White of the 21 inch screen. If they used all the water that’s been thrown at me to irrigate the, Sahara Desert, there would be palm trees there now.

Unlike my baths with near-pneumonia are just about over and I will be no longer the pin-up girl of the Cannon Towel Company, I rather think it’s time to move on to other things before I develop weebled feet.

I’m in Britain on a “Hitas” from “Laugh-In.” A “Hitas” is a TV’s way of saying a holiday: the notion of sliding down to Brighton Pier for some sun and sand and water. I am doing guest appearances on British TV shows as well, being co-host of “The Kraft Summer Shows” which has already begun in the U.S.

I am also making a motion picture for a change, “The Right Noses.” With Tom Boreland, a girl who played Juliet in the award-winning film, “Romeo and Juliet.” After what happened to her in the film, she has to be the first sock-it-to-me girl.

There’s been stories in the press that the “Laugh-In” girls are all deserting the show which made them instant successes with millions of people. I know that Goldie is leaving after this season. We all think the show and Dick and Dan did wonderful, beautiful things for our careers and will always be very grateful.

I’m over here paying 45 guineas a week for my digs in London. I can remember lots of times were I was a performer here that I didn’t make that kind of money in months, that what the show has done for me. It’s made me learn how to count for the first time in my life. There are approximately 12 million journalists and photographers in London. That’s how many I’ve counted who have interviewed me. When I lived and worked here 6 years as an actress, the only way I would be able to get my picture in the paper then would be to get run down by Queen Elizabeth’s limousine or something.

One man, ever so polite, came to my hotel suite and asked me if I had a statement for the “Times,” the “Times of London” if they print what I managed to say after being asked to make me look like a flaming idiot.

I don’t want to give the idea my acting career over here was a disaster.
