NIXON TO PULL 25,000 GI'S

Forced Coalition Rejected

Mike Sees Megapolis

A armed forces for 30 years mean to find how America is in the present general political picture. Former Vice President Nixon and Secretary of State Rogers in a major speech before the American Academy of Political Science. Speaking before the academy, the vice president said that while Nixon's foreign policy would be continued, it would be adapted to the changing political scene. "We are going to be more flexible in dealing with the world," Nixon said.

UNFAMILIAR WEAPONS: 25,000 GI's are being withdrawn from Vietnam. Thousands of dollars are pouring into the war effort. The government is trying to convince the American public that the war is not being lost. Nixon said that the withdrawal of 25,000 GI's is a step towards the "forced coalition" which he has mentioned before.

Nixon's statement comes just before the general election. The Democratic party is trying to capitalize on the situation. The president's move may hurt the Democrats in the election. Nixon's action is likely to be called "a political move" by his critics.
