Safeguard Gets Narrow 10-7 Nod

Three senators voted against the bill to authorize a nuclear warhead, but the measure passed with a narrow margin. The vote was 10-7, with three senators abstaining.

The bill was introduced by Senator John E. B. Sparkman, a Democrat from Alabama. It would authorize the construction of a defense system to protect the United States against nuclear attacks.

The bill passed with a vote of 10-7, with three senators abstaining. Senator Sparkman's bill was supported by Senator Strom Thurmond, a Republican from South Carolina, and Senator Barry Goldwater, a Republican from Arizona.

Senator Sparkman's bill was opposed by Senator John F. Kennedy, a Democrat from Massachusetts, and Senator Hubert Humphrey, a Democrat from Minnesota.

The Senate voted 10-7 to approve the bill, with three senators abstaining. The bill will now go to the House of Representatives for consideration.
