Policy Important, Not Fund's Name
U.S. To Give Osage $3,100 Apiece

The United States government will give each Osage Tribe member $3,100 as a settlement of a lawsuit brought against the United States. The suit, known as the Osage-Proprietary Case, was filed in 1908 by the Osage tribe against the U.S. government. The tribe argued that the government had wrongfully taken their land and other resources.

40-Year Produce Dealer, 67, Dies

Robert C. Coghill, 67, a produce dealer for 40 years, died on July 6. He had been a member of the Osage tribe for over 50 years. Coghill was known for his energetic approach to business and his dedication to his community. He was a long-time member of the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce and served as its president in 1981.

Low Wheat Prices Laid To Treaty

The low wheat prices that are currently being experienced are due to the 1935 Treaty of Washington. This treaty, which was signed between the United States and the Osage tribe, allowed the Osage to sell their wheat directly to the federal government. The treaty was intended to help the Osage tribe earn a living, but it has had unintended consequences.
