EARLIER MOON WALK STUDIED

By JANE EASL
A report by the Agency for Research for the Oklahoma City public school Thursday showed that black students have a stronger interest in science and math than the white students of the same age. The board of education's Sky Plus integration that began during the 1968-69 school year has proved successful, the board said.

The report by Dr. William R. Smith, chief of a series of studies conducted by the Oklahoma City Board of Education, shows that the black students have a stronger interest in science and math than the white students of the same age.

There are three sides to the spitball controversy. One is the pitcher, who originally developed and used the technique. Another is the batter, who has to try to hit the ball. The third is the umpire, who has to interpret the rules. The controversy stems from the fact that the spitball can be difficult to hit and that some pitchers use it in an unfair manner. The debate continues as to whether the spitball should be banned or allowed under certain conditions.
