Spark For World War III Lies In Asia, Nixon Says

Self Help In Pacific Called For

By DONALD CLARK

President Nixon today said that if the spark setting the war in Asia can be stopped, the chances of getting a peaceful settlement would be much greater. The President told the United Nations that the spark lies in China and that the United States is working to stop it.

The President said that the United States was working to stop the conflict in China and that the United States was working to stop it.

OIL HUNTERS ON AIR... Hovercraft At Work

Recently, oil hunting activities have been intensified in the region. This has led to increased use of hovercrafts, which are airborne vehicles that travel over water or marshy areas. These hovercrafts are particularly useful in remote and rugged terrains where traditional land vehicles may not be able to access. They provide access to areas that are difficult to reach and have contributed to the discovery of new oil reserves.

Soviets Busy, Yet Housing Inadequate

SOVIETS BUSY, YET HOUSING INADEQUATE

Despite the busy work schedule of the Soviet workers, housing remains inadequate. This is a significant issue as it affects the quality of life and overall productivity. Efforts are being made to address this issue, but progress is slow due to various challenges such as funding constraints and logistical difficulties.

Elm Grove

Close View of the Palsy Center. The center is located on the corner of Main and Elm Streets. The center is a nonprofit organization that provides services to people with disabilities. It offers a range of programs and services aimed at improving the quality of life for people with disabilities. The center has been in operation for many years and has a strong reputation for providing excellent services. It is open to everyone and serves people of all ages and backgrounds.

The center is staffed with trained professionals who are dedicated to providing the best possible care and support to their clients. They offer a variety of programs, including physical therapy, occupational therapy, and speech therapy. The center also provides educational services and supports for students with disabilities. It is a welcoming and inclusive environment where people with disabilities can come together and receive the help they need.

The center is committed to ensuring that everyone has access to the services they need, regardless of their ability to pay. They offer financial assistance to those who qualify, and they work with community partners to identify additional resources to support their clients. The center has a strong commitment to community engagement and collaborative partnerships, working closely with schools, hospitals, and other organizations to ensure a comprehensive approach to care.

Overall, the Palsy Center is a vital resource for people with disabilities and their families. It offers a range of programs and services that are designed to improve the quality of life for its clients and support their families. The center's commitment to providing excellent care and support is evident in every aspect of its operations, and it is a shining example of what can be achieved when people work together for a common goal.

Couples Marry, Establish Homes

Midwest City 'Provisionals' Go To Class

By ELIZABETH WISEMAN
Editor's Note

The Provisional Finance Committee of Midwest City has approved the following plan for the establishment of homes in the city, which will be offered for sale to couples who qualify:

The homes will be built on land owned by the Midwest City Council. The sale price will be determined by the couple's ability to pay, with a minimum down payment of $1,000.

The homes will be constructed to meet the requirements of the Midwest City Housing Code. The couple will be responsible for all maintenance and repair costs.

The couple must be employed and have a steady income. The maximum income allowed is $30,000 per year.

Applications for the homes will be accepted until October 1, 2021. The selection process will be conducted in a fair and impartial manner.

Municipality Part Of Fourth Longest System In Oklahoma

By JOHN MARTIN

More than 4,000 students are enrolled in public and private schools in Del City, which is part of the Oklahoma City metropolitan area and is the fourth-longest municipality in the state.

The school system in Del City is managed by the Del City Public Schools Board, consisting of seven members. The superintendent of schools is Dr. Charles West, who has served since 2010.

The school system includes two high schools: Del City High School and Junior High. Del City High School serves grades 9-12, while Junior High serves grades 7-8.

Each school has its own unique features and programs. Del City High School has a strong emphasis on athletics, with a variety of sports and extracurricular activities. Junior High focuses on providing a supportive environment for younger students.

The Del City Schools board meets regularly to discuss and make decisions about the educational programs and facilities within the school system.

Mayor Studied Budget

Del City Mayor O. Gene Holder looks over the 1967-68

budget Thursday afternoon, and said the city faces a

$1.1 million budget for the coming fiscal year.

"We've got to find the money somewhere," he said.

Mayor Holder said the city has been in the red for the last five years.

The city has a $500,000 debt and is trying to get it under control.

Del City's bonds, which are due in 1972, will be paid off.

Mayor Holder said the city is trying to solve the budget problem by cutting costs and raising taxes.

This U.S. Marshal
One Of Rare Breed

The gunner at left is Rooster Cogburn, U.S. marshal if you please, and one of the most disreputable types you'd ever see (as well as being a great U.S. marshal). He's John Wayne and stars in "True Grit," now enjoying a long run at the Center Theatre, co-starring Kim Darby and Glen Campbell. About Rooster, Wayne has this to say: "He's a U.S. marshal such as the screen has never seen before. A sloppy-looking, hard-drinking, disreputable, one-eyed raccoon who's been around long enough to know for sure that you don't mess with outlaws, but if you do, he'll come."

Wayne could win an Academy Award for the role.

'Midnight Cowboy'
Is Coming

'Midnight Cowboy,' the much-talked-about drama that establishes newcomers Jon Voight as this year's Dustin Hoffman, is scheduled to open August 15 at the Center Theatre. Studio officials announced this week. Hoffman & Voight's version of the film which is being hyped as never seen elsewhere is too strong. A gating a reputation as this man! 'The Graduate,' Voight's role in the film which is hitting the screen next month, won't be as strong. In the scene at right they pay a visit to a cemetery.

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. — "Sylvia" is the name of the straw-colored, straw-hatted character who is the center of attention in HILARITY'S thrilling new stage production, "HILARITY'S FUN GUIDE TO SHOW BUSINESS." The comic strip character was created by cartoonist Floyd Gottfredson and has been a favorite of comic book and magazine readers for over 30 years. "Sylvia" is known for her wise and witty comments on the world around her, and in this new production, she is voiced by actress Liz Reihl, who has been hired from the film industry to make her stage debut. Her role in the show is to provide comic relief and laughter for the audience, and she is already a hit with the audience. "Sylvia" is a welcome addition to the cast of the hit musical, which is currently running at the Hollywood Bowl, and her presence is sure to bring a new level of energy and excitement to the show. Liz Reihl is a talented actress who has appeared in several films and television shows, and her seamless transition to the stage is a testament to her versatility. "Sylvia" is a surefire hit, and audiences are sure to enjoy her comedic timing and delivery. This is a must-see production for anyone who loves a good laugh and a great show.

New State Midway Promises Thrills

Huge Company Making First Appearance Here

The first issue will be the Oklahoma Company of America with its giant masks and dolls — the largest and most elaborate of any such company in the country. The new State Midway will be one of the most scenic and colorful in the state, and it will be the most spectacular of any such company in Oklahoma City.

The new midway will be an attraction in itself, with its giant masks and dolls, and the company will be in full operation by April 1st. The midway will be located on the site of the old Springlake Amusement Park, which was destroyed by fire last year.

The company will be managed by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Smith, who have been in the amusement business for many years. They are well known for their success in creating and operating successful carnivals and midways.

The new State Midway will be open daily from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., and will feature a variety of rides, games, and attractions. Visitors will be able to enjoy the excitement of the midway and the beautiful scenery of the park.

In conclusion, the new State Midway promises to be a major attraction for visitors to Oklahoma City. With its giant masks and dolls, scenic site, and variety of rides and attractions, it is sure to be a success and a welcomed addition to the city.

Forster Shuns Publicity

One Of The New Breed

HOLLYWOOD (Variety) — More than a year ago, when the first film appearance of the new film director was made, it was a quiet affair and an unknown name. Now, with the release of his latest picture, the name is known throughout the industry.

The film director is John Forster, and his latest picture, "The Unknown," has been met with great acclaim. Forster is a young man who has been making a name for himself in the industry, and his latest picture has only added to his reputation.

Forster's approach to filmmaking is unique. He believes in taking a different approach to each film, and his latest picture is no exception. He has taken a novel and unusual approach to the story, and the result is a film that is both entertaining and thought-provoking.

Forster's success is due in part to his ability to work well with his actors. He has a talent for bringing out the best in his performers, and his latest picture is no exception. The actors in the film are all excellent, and their performances are a major factor in the film's success.

Forster's approach to filmmaking is not without its critics. Some say that his films are too experimental and too different from traditional filmmaking techniques. Forster, however, is not concerned with what others think. He believes in taking risks and in creating films that are unique and memorable.

Forster's latest picture, "The Unknown," is a testament to his talent and his dedication to the craft of filmmaking. It is a film that is sure to be remembered, and it is a film that Forster can be proud of.

"AN ATTENTION IN NEW MEXICO" by Oklahoma City author Janell K. Van Meter was displayed in the National Convention Center exhibitroom of the National Convention of Women's Clubs, Oklahoma City, on Sunday night. Among the many people in attendance were the judges of the "Points of Light" design contest, sponsored by the National Convention of Women's Clubs. The design contest was open to all women over the age of 18, and the winners were announced at the conclusion of the exhibit.

NEVADA - Jack Burt, the award-winning program chairman of T.V. Western, was honored with the "Outstanding Service to the Television Industry" award presented by the Educational Radio and Television Association (ERTA) in recognition of his contributions to the field.

The exhibit was also honored with a $500 grant from the corporation's "Points of Light" program, which supports community-based programs that promote volunteerism. The exhibit was entitled "Points of Light: The Stories Behind the Names," and it featured the stories of 100 volunteers who have made a difference in their communities.

Magnificent Pair of Hammered Iron

Create the Ultimate Decorator Touch Over Your Fireplace

-Mantel-Couch or Buffet With These Majestic Peacocks

Imagine the brilliant new way you will dramatically change your home with this handsome pair ofhammered iron Peacock wall plaques. The latest decorating rage, each is a masterpiece of craftsmanship. Their feather plumes and graceful bodies are exquisitely worked in delicate wrought, hammered metal. Finished in satin gold and accented with burnished gold. The total effect is one of an exquisitely designed beauty that will be the focal point of beauty in your home. Unfortunately it is impossible to reproduce the full breadth of their three-dimensional "body" figures from the illustrations shown here.

Only when you see them gracing your home can you fully appreciate the beauty they bring to every setting.

Over the years, hammering, right up to the middle, has been a traditional and fascinating art. This Peacock wall plaque is the perfect example of this craft. The Maine Point

CHARLIE RICE'S PUNCHBOWL

"'Humph,' said Elmer. 'Man, we've sold him a real souvenier. (II)

And that's where Elmer talks about Maine folk, all the rest of the story. He says: 'Where does this man go?'

'In Maine, Don't go outside. It's a nasty place. (II)

'Summer visitor: Where does this go?'

'In Maine, Don't go outside. It's a nasty place.'

'Summer visitor: My, there are a lot of old people in town. What's your death rate?'

'In Maine, Don't go outside. It's a nasty place. (I)

'What do you think of the place?'

'In Maine, Don't go outside. It's a nasty place. (II)

'Summer visitor: Don't you go outside?'

'In Maine, Don't go outside. It's a nasty place.'

'Summer visitor: Do you ever go outside?'

'In Maine, Don't go outside. It's a nasty place.'

'Summer visitor: What do you think of the place?'

'In Maine, Don't go outside. It's a nasty place.'

'Summer visitor: I'll tell you what every shot on the coast is. Lighthouse. No. But if you know your shot, they aren't too bad.'

'Summer visitor: Where do you live?'

'In Maine, Don't go outside. It's a nasty place.'

'Summer visitor: How do you get in?'

'In Maine, Don't go outside. It's a nasty place.'

'Summer visitor: Are you a lawyer?'

Your Ruining Service

By VETTA HORN JAY

America's postal service is riddled with a veritable host of problems that affect every aspect of our lives. From the constant delays and lost mail to the rising costs of postage, it is clear that reform is needed.

The first major issue is the constant delay in delivery. People often wait days or even weeks for their mail to arrive, leading to frustration and a lack of trust in the postal service.

Another problem is the high cost of postage. With prices increasing every year, it is becoming more and more expensive to send letters and packages, making it difficult for individuals and businesses to communicate effectively.

Finally, there is the issue of lost mail. It is not uncommon for letters and packages to go missing or be delivered to the wrong address, causing a great deal of inconvenience and wasted time.

In conclusion, the postal service needs to be reformed to address these and other issues. Only then can we begin to trust the system and rely on it to keep us connected.

Thirty million letters and parcels in the Dead Letter Office every year.

Don't throw your vacation away

You could, if you let your monthly period show you how to change your schedule, but you can change the world by spending less time on any particular task.

If you use Grand Trunk Express, you can compete with the777-top speed at 90 mph, and start using common sense to keep personal postal items.

No. The items are three: like many large firms, the later mail is subject to more scrutiny, directly affecting the Post Office. In fact, to name a few, when hundreds of thousands of bills are sent out to the Post Office, the Post Office is known for its strict policies, much to the chagrin of the Post Office.

YOUNG WORLD
By CAROL BOTWIN

"...I'm some kind of hope".

"They know I'm the best in the business. I've never tried to hide my age or the fact that I'm married, like other people do. They'll know me, honest!" said the 50-year-old P妓ma Clarke, looking very young for a woman her age, and somewhat of a jester. She was explaining why she's been doing last week...it's almost as if I'm some kind of hope for the future — that it's possible to have a family and a career and be as sane as I can be at the same time. I've never been afraid of failure. Failure makes me do my best. A lot of these women make me realize that we have to do something, though. I don't know what.

"I don't think John Lennon did it with his help. I went to John in 1960, and we talked a long time...I like him very much. We talked about peace, and he said he was dedicated to peace. Go on and say it, he said, and I did. I've been feeling it all along, but I just hadn't said it. Maybe you have too.

Pestswa, who had just finished the musical version of Cabaret, Mr. Oshs for MGB, was sitting in her home, talking about how life as a TV, record, and movie star was as depressing as it was.

"I'm just beginning to understand what singing is all about. Not just the songs — all of us, all the records, all the things we do. I was talking to some of the girls in the orgs. My friend was managing me, and he was very upset. It's easy to be upset when you think about it. The girls aren't very good, and I don't like to be upset."

Pestswa has been belting out songs for the public since she was seven. And she's being handled like a princess by child-minders and all sorts of people. "I heard singing on the BBC Radio One Overseas Service during World War II, that it was a little girl. When I started growing up and having a house, it was difficult. They didn't want me to grow up."

"Eventually," continues Pestswa, "I woke up from my father, broked my contract with the Rock & Rhythm Organization, and took an apartment in London. I was very close to her...I need them. I want to be empty.

"I made a very bad job of managing my career because I had no idea about music or showbusiness. My father had taken care of things or me. But I was finding out about their own, and there were very important parts for me. I found out what I couldn't do...anything...I was too old to do blind spots. I still was making my records and working in music halls and television, but I was too tired.

"It was in that year in her life that Pestswa went to France, where she was visited by her son, and she met her son's husband, Claude Pomeau.

"After a performance at the Olympia, an important French theater, Pestswa talked to the head of a French record company, "I was a very special Parisian housewife with no windows. The hostess in that year had said that some French girl was recording all of my hits in France, and it was funny. He wanted to record my songs in French myself. I really didn't want it. He didn't want to do it. He came to Paris. He found Pestswa the war woman, the war woman. He came to the house and the TV people said if we could record for us. So, well, I think that's the story. For me it was just that.

"He didn't want to get arrested," explained Pestswa without looking at her husband talking on a phone at the other end of the room. "I didn't want to work. I was a very popular Parisian housewife and I was in a beautiful Parisian mansion. We wasted about all her music. But it came to England, I went to France. Really, we didn't know we weren't going to get along without each other, and we both we were very much wanted children.

"Pestswa and Claude were settled down in a street of apartments, and then a house for Pestswa. "Our French house was always full of people who were drinking whisky and wanting to be in the movies, and we were from somewhere like America and just want to escape. France is full of baronets and young men who always want to be the same.

"Claude and Pestswa and their three children now best at the mercy of their parents in America. But with a boring career, Pestswa often leaves. "I don't know what she's doing. It's not important."

"She's the Singing Mother," the series. "We're all adorable. We're all adorable."

"The only way I can escape with separation from my husband is to think about those times when we were together. "It's not all that much, but that's luck. I didn't have any background or knowledge about anything but show business."

The Reader's Bag

"I love Judy Geeson of Laugh-in. Can you tell me more about her and what she says about the show."

Judy, the original "no-actress" girl, has been a professional actress since she was ten. Although she left school to feature in the film, she became famous only when "Laugh-in" was shown in the United States. She is currently making a movie in London called "All the Right Reasons.

"I am the mother of two children, and I'm trying to find out what this generation is all about. Do you know of any books that could help me?"

"G.S. Spinks, Wash.

Authors include Dr. Roy Morgan, and Dr. Kenneth Keating, the Yale psychologist, and poet in "The Addisons," Blue Cross Association, Youth Lake Show, Chicago, Ill. 60613.

"It is true that Tim Buckley is going to be in a movie. A.G., June Bells, Jack."

"Yes, in the film, "Wild Orange." He's part of a growing list of folk music heroes who are turning to acting. Add "John Gluskin of "Alice in Wonderland."" Art Garfunkel in "Catch-22." Rings James in "The Magic Christian.""
