Kennedy Won't Resign

Boston (AP) — President Kennedy decided today not to run for a second term after meetings with top aides. The announcement came as a surprise to many observers who had expected Kennedy to seek re-election. The White House said the president's decision was based on the need to devote more time to domestic policy initiatives.

Retroactive Retirement Bill Urged

WASHINGTON — A bill in Congress would make it possible for those who are 70 or older to retire under the Federal Employees Retirement System (FERS) without losing their Social Security benefits. The bill, sponsored by Senator Edward M. Kennedy, a Democrat from Massachusetts, would allow those who retire before age 70 to receive their Social Security benefits as though they had retired at age 70.

Another Cafe That 'Cares' Closing

Shubert's Something Special

In sharp contrast to some places that have been around for years, Shubert's has been in business for only two years. But for this small family-owned business, the end is near.

Shubert's is located in the heart of the historic downtown area of Denver. The cafe has a cozy, intimate atmosphere that makes it a favorite among locals and visitors alike. The menu offers a variety of classic American dishes, including sandwiches, salads, and burgers.

Owner Ted Shubert, a third-generation restaurateur, decided to close the cafe after two years of operation. He cited a variety of reasons for the decision, including high overhead costs, difficulty in attracting customers, and competition from larger chains.

"It's been a tough decision," Shubert said. "But after careful consideration, we've decided that it's time to move on. We want to thank everyone who has supported us over the years."

The cafe is scheduled to close on August 3rd. Shubert plans to use the space for a new venture, although details of the new project have not been announced.

A Last Look

In the final days of operation, Shubert's is offering special deals on their menu items. The cafe is also hosting a farewell party on August 3rd, where customers can enjoy a free meal and say goodbye to the staff.

Shubert's is a true gem in the downtown area, and its closure is certainly a loss for the community. But we wish the Shubert family well in their future endeavors.

Whittling Away, He Depicts Back Roads Of South

BY FERN FREEMAN

Gunter, Georgia housed the first cotton jails and with this, the southern cotton sharecroppers. The state of Georgia, with its cotton growing tradition, saw the need for a different approach to the sharecropper's plight. The sharecropper, although he had limited education, was a hardworking and skilled laborer. He was the backbone of the southern economy, yet was often overlooked and exploited. The Southern states, however, recognized the importance of the sharecropper and took steps to improve his living conditions. In the 1930s, the New Deal policies introduced by the federal government aimed to provide assistance to the sharecroppers. The sharecroppers, however, were often left behind due to the lack of resources and support.

Over 100 hard covered books contain the stories of the sharecroppers. These books provide a glimpse into the life of the sharecroppers. They are a valuable resource for understanding the challenges faced by the sharecroppers. The sharecroppers, despite their limited education, were able to create their own narratives and share their experiences. The Southern states, however, were not oblivious to the needs of the sharecroppers. The state of Georgia, for example, introduced the cotton sharecropper's program, which provided financial assistance to the sharecroppers. The sharecroppers, however, were often left behind due to the lack of resources and support.

Retroactive Retirement Bill Urged

WASHINGTON—There is an official suggestion that Congress may hold a special session to consider the notion of a retroactive retirement law. The suggestion is that the current retirement age of 65 may be lowered to 62 or even to 60, in order to provide an incentive for workers to retire earlier and thus relieve the burden on Social Security. This proposal is being considered as a way to stimulate the economy by reducing the number of working-age adults in the workforce.

Car Air Conditioners Need Constant Care

Air conditioning is a luxury that many people enjoy, but it requires regular maintenance. It is important to check the filters and clean them regularly to ensure proper functioning. Additionally, it is recommended to have the system inspected annually to prevent any issues that may arise. This will help to prolong the life of the unit and ensure optimal performance.

Retroactive Retirement Bill Urged

WASHINGTON — House majority leader James Wright returned to a Senate floor showdown Thursday to push legislation for retroactive payment of retirement benefits to veterans who served during the Korean War.

The Senate had already rejected such legislation, but Wright, a Democrat from Texas, continued to press for a vote. He said his objective was not to override a presidential veto, but to ensure veterans would receive the benefits they were entitled to.

Another Cafe That 'Cares' Closing

Shubert's Something Special

From PABLO CLAYT

In 1962, with the help of some friends, family, and the support of the local community, the family of Robert E. Shubert opened a small American restaurant in the center of a bustling city. The restaurant was called Robert's American Restaurant, and it quickly became a favorite among locals and tourists alike. The restaurant was known for its delicious American food, friendly staff, and cozy atmosphere. The Shubert family worked hard to ensure that every customer had a great experience at their restaurant.

The restaurant remained a local favorite for many years, but in the late 1980s, the family faced financial difficulties. They made the difficult decision to close the restaurant and move on to other ventures.

"It was a tough decision," said Robert E. Shubert. "But it was the right thing for our family and our business. We're proud of what we achieved and we'll always be grateful to our customers for their support."
