DRINK LAW BID CHILLED BY LEGISLATIVE CHIEFS

Hands Off Line Taken As Policy

By MARLIE CLAIBORNE
TULSA — House and Senate leaders positions Fridyday the 1960 legislature would guard the “right to work” with a “fight to the drawl.”

The leaders also pledged to defend their "right to work" against any unions seeking to organize or gain control of the business community.

Some legislators are known to be concerned about the possibility of a referendum on the "right to work" law. However, the leaders insist that the law is necessary to protect the state's economy.

"What chance is there of any referendum in the future?" asked one leader. "I think it's safe to say that the law will be upheld in any court challenge."

Why should our son have a newspaper route?

The best way to make sure that he gets the latest news and keeps up with the latest events is by subscribing to an online news service. This will allow him to read the newspaper at his own pace and discuss the stories with friends and family. Additionally, by subscribing to an online news service, he will have access to a wide range of articles, videos, and interactive features. This will help him stay informed and engaged with the world around him. Finally, by subscribing to an online news service, he will be able to share the news with others and participate in discussions on important issues. This will help him develop critical thinking skills and become an active member of society.
Enid Rallies To Rope Southeast, 22-7

BY AL ROBERT

All that was left of the Enid offense was the scoreboard and a husky from the Arkansas defensive line. And, of course, the husky was the scoreboard, not the player.

The Enid defense was so dominant that the game ended up being a rehearsal for the upcoming championship game. The Enid offense, on the other hand, was a total disaster, being held to 22 points.

Berets Officers Will ‘Plead Innocent’

Four of the six members of the U.S. Special Forces who were recently charged by the U.S. Army with the murder of an American prisoner during a raid in South Korea in 1969, are expected to go on trial this week. The other two members of the raiding party, Maj. Gen. Edward F. Beck, Jr., and Maj. Gen. James E. McManus, have already pleaded guilty and received sentences of 15 years and 10 years, respectively.

MAGNUS, NY — A lawyer involved in the defense of the Green Beret arrested in connection with the murder of an American prisoner during a raid in South Korea in 1969, has been identified as a key figure in the case. The lawyer, Maj. Gen. Edward F. Beck, Jr., was arrested on charges of perjury and obstruction of justice.

Beck, who was the defense lawyer for the other two members of the raiding party, is expected to go on trial this week. The other two members of the raiding party, Maj. Gen. James E. McManus, have already pleaded guilty and received sentences of 15 years and 10 years, respectively.

The case involves the death of a American prisoner, who was captured during a raid in South Korea in 1969. The prisoner, who was reportedly held in a prison camp, was later found dead. The prisoner’s death was initially investigated by the South Korean military, but the case was later transferred to the U.S. Army.

The case has attracted widespread attention, with many calling for a full and fair investigation into the events of that day. The Green Berets, who were involved in the raid, have long been accused of a number of war crimes, including the murder of prisoners and civilians.

The case is expected to be one of the most high-profile cases in recent years, with many hoping for a公正 investigation into the events of that day. The case is also expected to set a precedent for how military crimes are investigated and prosecuted.

3 Moon Missions Approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has approved plans for a mission to the moon in the next few months, said the White House.

The Apollo missions, the first to be sent to the moon, are scheduled to launch in the next few months, said the White House.

In a statement, the White House said: “We are confident that these missions will be successful and will pave the way for future missions to the moon.”

The missions will be the first to be sent to the moon in more than 40 years, said the White House.

The missions are expected to last for several months, said the White House.
