Senate Haynsworth Opposition Swells

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Senator John Haynsworth, a Republican from South Carolina, has announced his opposition to the Supreme Court nomination of Judge Clarence C. Thomas. Haynsworth said he believes that "Clarence C. Thomas is not the best possible choice for the Supreme Court."

Haynsworth's move is the latest in a series of Republican defections from the Senate's approval of Thomas. Currently, there are 49 senators who have publicly indicated their support for the nomination. Haynsworth's decision brings the total number of Senate Republicans opposing Thomas to 50, effectively blocking the Senate from confirming the nomination. This is a significant blow to President Donald Trump, who has nominated Thomas to replace the retiring Justice Anthony M. Kennedy.

Haynsworth's statement, released late Friday, said: "I have been an independent voter all my life. I have always believed in the system of checks and balances. I understand the importance of a strong Supreme Court and I believe that the Senate has a responsibility to conduct a thorough and impartial investigation of Judge Thomas."

The move comes after the Senate Judiciary Committee held a confirmation hearing for Thomas last week, during which several Republican senators expressed concerns about his judicial activism and his views on issues such as abortion and affirmative action.

The move by Haynsworth is particularly significant because he is a close ally of Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell. If Haynsworth had not voted against Thomas, the Senate would have had a 51-49 vote to confirm the nomination, which would then be sent to the full Senate for a final vote. Now, with Haynsworth's defection, the Senate is blocked from confirming Thomas, and the nomination will likely remain deadlocked for the remainder of the Trump administration.

The Senate is currently divided 51-48, with two independent senators, both Democrats, leaning Republican. With Haynsworth's departure, the Senate now has a 49-50 vote against the nomination, which is unlikely to change in the near future.

The move by Haynsworth is also a blow to the Republican Party, which has been under siege in recent years due to the ongoing investigation of President Trump and his administration. The nomination of Thomas was seen as a key victory for the Republicans, who hoped to solidify their control of the Senate and advance their conservative agenda.

The next step in the process is for the Senate to decide whether to hold a full Senate vote on the nomination, which could further delay the confirmation process. The Democrats have been calling for a full Senate vote, arguing that the Senate must have the opportunity to hear from witnesses and conduct a thorough investigation of Thomas.

School Crisis Or No?

This morning's report on the local school budget has led to some discussion about the state of our public schools. The Oklahoma Department of Education has reported a significant decrease in funding for education in the state. This is a concern for many parents and educators who believe that the quality of education is declining.

The Oklahoma Journal has always been a voice for education, and we believe that every student deserves a quality education. We urge the state legislature to take action to increase funding for education and ensure that our students have the resources they need to succeed.

If your car is air-conditioned your engine should be ‘air-conditioned’ too.

Air-conditioning puts an added strain on your engine all year long. Now it’s easy to protect your engine’s cooling system for a full year.

Just put in 2 gallons of ‘Prestone’ Anti-Freeze this Fall instead of one.

Warm day protection
Prestone Anti-Freeze is needed in engines to protect the metal in the cooling system against corrosion. At warm temperatures, in the presence of water, it forms a protective coating on the metal. This prevents rust and corrosion, which can weaken the engine.

Cold day protection
Prestone Anti-Freeze also protects the engine’s cooling system against freezing. At cold temperatures, it acts as a coolant, preventing the engine from freezing and sustaining damage.

Double up on “Prestone” Anti-Freeze now for year ‘round protection.
