Nixon Announces War Policy Speech

Unswayed Stance Reaffirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon reaffirmed Monday his determination not to be slowed by the Sunday night's anti-war demonstration. He also announced that he will report to the nation this week on Vietnam peace negotiations.

During the demonstration, the President said he was trying to work with the Viet Cong, and that he was not opposed to a peace settlement.

He said the demonstration was a "protest" to the nation, and that he would continue to work towards a negotiated settlement of the war.

The President also said that he would not be swayed by the anti-war demonstrations, and that he would continue to work towards a negotiated settlement of the war.

The President's speech was broadcast to the nation on television, and he was quoted as saying that he would not be swayed by the anti-war demonstrations.

"I am not swayed by the anti-war demonstrations," the President said. "I will continue to work towards a negotiated settlement of the war."
The No-Bra Rebellion...

Maybe The No-Bra Rebels Never Saw The New Styles

Editor's Note: Following is the front page of this story from the New York Times.

Ms. CATHERINE HARRIS

The new look in women's expressions - no bra! - is fast catching on in the city. It's back from the East Coast and it's here to stay. If you don't believe it, just look around. The streets are full of women wearing the new look. It's the rage, and it's not going away anytime soon.

Fashion Editor's Tip: The no-bra look is easiest to pull off if you have a small frame. If you're on the larger side, you might want to consider a biker bra or a bandeau.
