Communists Free Three U.S. Soldiers

SAIGON (UPI) - Communist troops released three American servicemen held for a week near the Cambodian border, an official said Thursday. The men were then returned to South Vietnam. The soldiers were captured by North Vietnamese forces near the Cambodian border on Wednesday. Saigon authorities had said they were captured by Viet Cong troops fighting in the area.

The release came after weeks of negotiation between the United States and North Vietnam. The men were reportedly in poor health and had been treated for injuries suffered during their capture.

The United States, which has been seeking the return of its prisoners of war in Vietnam, had previously threatened to take military action to secure their release. Saigon officials said the prisoner release was a sign of improved relations between the two countries.

The three men were identified as John D. Johnson, a 28-year-old airman from Mississippi; James A. Smith, a 30-year-old machinist from California; and Donald E. Miller, a 25-year-old sailor from New York. They had been captured on Wednesday near the Cambodian border and were not expected to be returned to the United States before the end of the week.

The release was seen as a positive signal from Vietnam, which has been engaged in negotiations with the United States over its withdrawal from the war. The United States has been seeking to reduce its military involvement in Vietnam for several years, and the release of the three prisoners was seen as a step forward in that process.

No Bond Bid Seen Soon At Norman

One of the nation's most prominent school districts, the Oklahoma City Public Schools, will not have a bond issue on the November ballot.

The decision was announced by Superintendent Dr. George Carr, who said the district's financial advisors have recommended that no bond issue be put on the ballot this year.

Carr cited the recent economic downturn as a factor in the decision. "We want to be careful with the taxpayers' money," he said.

The district has been facing a budget shortfall due to lower property values and reduced state funding.

Trailer Resident Ordered To Move

In the battle of man vs. nature, one local couple has been granted a temporary reprieve from the wrath of Mother Nature. The case of John and Jane Doe, two trailer residents in the Town of Northstar, exemplifies the challenges faced by homeowners when confronting the elements.

With a backdrop of towering trees that threaten to encroach upon their property, the Does have been fighting against the might of the forest. Their neighbors, however, have been granted a victory in the form of a temporary restraining order. The order prohibits the removal of the trailer until a final decision is made on the matter.

The couple, who reside in a modest trailer amidst the natural beauty of the area, have expressed their gratitude for the court's decision. "It's a relief," said John Doe, "we've been through a lot since we moved here, but this is a big win for us."

The town has been closely monitoring the case, with officials expressing concerns over the potential impact on the environment. The trailer, which is nestled among the trees, is seen by some as a symbol of the ongoing battle against the encroaching forest.

Dewey To Abide By Court's Decision

In a related development, the town of Northstar has decided to abide by the court's ruling. "We appreciate the court's decision," said Mayor Pat O'Malley, "it's important that we respect the rights of all parties involved."

The town has been working to address the issues raised by the trailer residents, but has now agreed to halt their efforts until a final decision is made on the matter.

OCU's Farce Quite Funny

The Off-Comedy Union (OCU) is set to premiere their latest production, a farce that promises to entertain audiences to the max. "It's going to be a riot," said Maudie Poppins, the artistic director. "We've got a great cast, and the script is hilarious."

The play, which is set in a small town during the holidays, follows the misadventures of a group of friends as they attempt to organize a holiday party. "It's a classic farce," said Poppins, "with mistaken identities, unexpected guests, and a lot of laughs."

The show will open on December 21st and run through January 8th. Tickets are available for purchase at the OCU box office or online.

The Renaissance by KUPPENHEIMER is happening at CUTCHALL'S

The Renaissance by KUPPENHEIMER is a must-see event for anyone looking for a taste of the classic elegance of the past. "It's a beautiful way to celebrate the holidays," said Kuppenheimer, the creator of the event. "We've got a wonderful collection of art, antiques, and collectibles."

The event, which is set to take place on December 2nd, will feature a variety of items, from paintings and sculptures to rare books and jewelry. "We've got something for everyone," said Kuppenheimer, "so come on out and see what we've got to offer."

Firing Deadline Set

Oldland Warns Strikers

British military police and Home Office officers are due to continue firing rubber bullets at striking miners in the country's coalfield region. The strikes, which have lasted for a week, are reportedly over pay and conditions.

"We will continue to use all necessary means to clear the threat from the MINES," Home Secretary John Home said yesterday. "We will do everything in our power to protect the public and restore order."

Nixon Prestige On Line

It would be a tragedy if a career of achievement were deleted from history or if the American people were allowed to forget our responsibilities to the best traditions of our past. The time is not far off when the American people will be asked to decide whether they will be prevented from standing up for what is right, and whether they will be allowed to forget the lessons of the past. West Coast Folks Like To Live Dangerously

By Jim Murray

West Coast folks like to live dangerously.

By the time you read this, the 1979 college football season will be over and the teams will be playing for championships. The West Coast has been the place where football fans have been able to watch some of the best games in recent years.

In California, there have been some great games, including the USC vs. UCLA game. The Stanford vs. Cal game was also exciting, with Stanford winning 28-14.

In the Pacific Northwest, the Oregon vs. Washington game was a classic, with Oregon winning 20-17 on a last-second field goal.

In Arizona, the Arizona State vs. Arizona game was exciting, with Arizona State winning 34-24.

The West Coast has been the place where football fans have been able to watch some of the best games in recent years.
