Fort Sill Hero Aids Hawks

In Rosauro D. Labrador

WASHINGTON - Fort Sill is the setting of a special con- vention and the knowledge of the Ponca, an Army- owned reservation that Fort Sill, in Oklahoma, is working toward the establishment of a career program. The coverage of the hearing is by U.S. Rep. Richard Skoda, D-Oklahoma.

The Ponca Nation of Oklahoma, with Skoda's help, is working on the development of a career program. Skoda, who is chair of the House Committee on Indian Affairs, is working on legislation that would allow the Nation to implement a new program that would provide education and job training opportunities for Ponca Nation members.

In the hearing, Skoda said that the program would provide opportunities for Ponca Nation members to receive education and training in fields such as law enforcement, healthcare, and IT. Skoda said that the program would be funded through a federal grant and that the Nation would be responsible for the implementation of the program.

Skoda also mentioned that the program would be modeled after successful programs in other tribes, such as the Navajo Nation's Career Pathways Program, which provides education and training in fields such as law enforcement, healthcare, and IT.

THANKSGIVING

WE COME AGAIN TO THE SEASON
OF THANKFULNESS WITH GRATEFUL
HEARTS AND REMEMBERING... REPEAT AGAIN DAVID'S SONG

Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands.
Serve the Lord with gladness;
come before his presence with singing.
Know ye that the Lord He is God;
it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.
Enter into his gates with thankful hearts, and into his courts with praise;
be thankful unto him, and bless his name.
For the Lord is good; his mercy is everlasting, and his truth endures to all generations.

Big Turnout Expected For Showcase Finale

Open Houses Set In 17 Showcase Homes

By KATHRYN SALTER

One of the most popular features in the southwestern part of Oklahoma is the annual Showcase of Homes. It is an event organized by the Home Builders Association of Oklahoma, which is the umbrella organization for the county's homebuilders.

Organizers say they expect a big turnout for this year's event, which begins today and runs through Sunday. There are 17 homes open to the public, ranging from small to large, and representing various architectural styles.

The houses are scattered throughout the county, with some located in rural areas and others in more suburban neighborhoods. All of the homes are open to the public, and visitors are encouraged to take a look at the different styles and features available in Oklahoma homes.

One of the highlights of the event is the opportunity to see new construction and appreciate the craftsmanship of local builders. Visitors can also learn more about the building process and gain insight into what goes into creating a home.

The Showcase of Homes is a great way to explore the housing market and see what's new in the world of residential architecture. Whether you're a homeowner looking for inspiration or just curious about what's available in your area, the Showcase of Homes is sure to offer something for everyone.

For more information on the event, visit the website of the Home Builders Association of Oklahoma or contact them directly. They can provide details on the exact locations of the homes and any special events or features they may have.

The Showcase of Homes is a celebration of the hard work and creativity of local homebuilders, and it's a must-see for anyone interested in the housing market. Whether you're a first-time homebuyer or a seasoned homeowner, the Showcase of Homes provides a unique opportunity to see the latest trends and styles in residential architecture.

THE GREATEST RODEO OF THEM ALL

RODEO IS ONE OF TODAY’S MOST POPULAR AND EXCITING SPORTS

It has grown as fast as any sport in America. Its combined purses are greater than any professional sport.

FOR THE FIFTH STRAIGHT YEAR Oklahoma City will host rodeo’s World Series—the National Finals Rodeo. At stake are championships in saddle-bronc riding, bareback riding, bull riding, steer wrestling, calf roping, team roping, and all around competition. The championships are awarded on the basis of prize money won during the season and at the National Finals Rodeo, from records kept by the Rodeo Cowboys Association. On hand will be only the top 15 cowboys in each event matching brains and known for $77,000 in prize money against stock, chosen by these cowboys, as the easiest and toughest available from 32 stock contractors throughout the United States and Canada.

IN ADDITION, for the third year the World’s Championship in Girls’ Barrel Racing will be featured in the 1969 National Finals Rodeo, and will see the top 15 cowgirls competing for cash prizes.

Bill Linderman Statue Dedication

On Thursday, December 17, 1969, the greater Than Life-size bronze statue of Bill Linderman, commissioned by the Rodeo Cowboys Association and executed by Montana sculptor Bob Giordano, will be unveiled and dedicated at the annual Rodeo Historical Society Luncheon in the National Cowboy Hall of Fame. As much as anyone in this sport, Bill Linderman epitomized the rodeo cowboy.

On the fourth of July, between horse-breaking jobs, he stopped off at a rodeo in Greeley, Colorado, where he won $300 riding saddle bronc. This began an arena career which spanned nearly a decade, and made rodeo history. Achievements include:

1951 - BarebackBronc Riding Champion
1954 - Tied-For Bareback Riding Champion
1956 - SaddleBronc Riding Champion
1957 - Top-4 Writing Champion
1959 - All-Around Champion
1971 - All-Around Champion

These were Bill Linderman’s arena plaudits. His greatest contribution to rodeo came, however, as an officer of the Rodeo Cowboys Association. He served as Rodeo Bronc Riding Representative, then had consecutive terms as Secretary-Treasurer. He helped create the National Finals Rodeo in 1959 and was its first President. The event is a major rodeo, and he was considered to be one of the greatest cowboys of his era. But Bill was a great competitor and was one of the finest riders ever to don a saddle in the arena. He did this on horseback and as a team roper after he had moved to the arena. He was a major rodeo figure and had won three national titles in the arena.

BRONC RIDING begins with the bronc being released from the gate. The rider must stay on for 8 seconds and keep both feet in the stirrups.

BAREBACK RIDING (upper right) takes a good grip and plenty of balance is needed. The rider must keep both feet in the stirrups and stay on for 8 seconds.

Calf Roping—In this event, the calf must be roped around the neck and the rider must stay on for 8 seconds before tying the calf to a stake. If he falls off before the time limit, he is out.

See The National Cowboy Hall of Fame

The flag of seventeen states fly daily in front of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame. Unique in construction, purpose, and design, the Cowboy Hall of Fame preserves such artifacts as the Old West famous guns, saddles and Western memorabilia. Enclosed within its walls is the National Rodeo Hall of Fame. The art of Charles M. Russell, Frederic Remington and many others and a memorial to the men and women who helped build this West dominated by a dramatic life-size replica of Charles M. Russell’s statue "The Bronco Bucker”. The National Rodeo Hall of Fame tells the exciting story of the sport of rodeo through its displays of trophies and personal memorabilia of great rodeo champions past and present. The Rodeo Hall of Fame is a unique tribute to a great sport, and through it the tough competition of rodeo will endure forever.

THE WICHTENBURG RULES—A new exhibit of famous Winchester rifles will open at the Center Sunday, December 7.

THE CHAMPIONSHIP AWARDS BANQUET is scheduled this year. A dinner banquet will be held December 14th at the Norman Banquet Center. The banquet is a celebration of the world’s best rodeo cowboys. The winners will be announced at the banquet.

Running Down Latin Rugs

They Call The Rug 'Ugna'

Roger Howard is telling his own story, 'Ugna' is a term which has been given to an old-fashioned process of dying rugs. He has been a part of the rug business for many years and has seen the art of rug making change over time. The process of dying the rug is very intricate and requires a lot of skill and patience. The rug itself is a beautiful work of art, and it has been carefully crafted by hand. The story of 'Ugna' is a testament to the skill and artistry of the rug makers, and it is a reminder of the importance of preserving this tradition.

'Third Reich' Author Tells Of France's WWII Suicide

"Third Reich" author tells of France's WWII suicide. The author, who is known for his work on the Third Reich, has now written about the French experience during World War II.

Oklahoma City, OK - "The French were as much responsible for their own defeat as the Germans were," says the author. "They chose to fight alone, and they paid the price for their stubbornness." He goes on to describe how the French government, led by Charles de Gaulle, refused to surrender to the Germans and instead continued to fight, which ultimately led to their defeat.

"The French were not as prepared as the Germans," the author continues. "They had fewer aircraft, fewer tanks, and fewer soldiers. But they fought bravely, and they lost a great many of them in the process." He notes that the French suffered more than 100,000 casualties in the Battle of France alone.

The author also discusses the role of the French Resistance in the war, and how they played a crucial role in slowing down the German advance. He notes that the Resistance was made up of a diverse group of people, including soldiers, farmers, and workers, and that they were able to carry out a range of activities, from sabotage to intelligence work.

In conclusion, the author argues that the French could have done more to prepare for the war, and that they could have escaped the Nazi occupation if they had been more willing to negotiate with the Germans.

"The French were not as strong as they thought," the author says. "They were not as prepared as they thought, and they were not as strong as they thought." He concludes by saying that the French should learn from their mistakes and be more prepared for future conflicts.

How to Choose the Right Toy for a Child
How to Choose the Right Christmas Toy

By LIONEL WEINTRAUB

DURING THE WEEKS BEFORE Christmas, millions of parents, grandparents, and dating aunts and uncles will be running around toy departments asking: "How can I choose the right toy—so she'll still really want it?"

First consider that toy on the shelf. If it is not designed to help your child understand and become a better person, then it is too much, or just plain bad. A well-designed toy, before it enters the home, can provide a joyous time for many happy days while teaching his imagination and curiosity, his values.

The child is not himself, even if and if he were, he would be an equal today. It is to the parents we must look for the one that is a joy when the child can use it himself. The parents have the responsibility of seeing that the child is not a joy to himself, nor is it a joy for himself. But then, how can he ever hope for the best in his life if you never make him aware of what you want to give him.

Here they are...the King and Queen!

A lot of watches tell the time (for a while). But they don't tell the truth.
And the truth is that unless a timepiece is made like a Jules Jürgensen, it's not really made to last.
We've spent millions of dollars and hours trying to make a watch that's as accurate as possible. Every part is triple-checked before it goes into the case. And double-checked after it's in. We spend a lot of time with our watches. So you can spend a lot of time with them.

That's all we've been thinking about for 230 years. When, as we write it, comes to seven billion, two hundred and fifty-eight million, two hundred and sixty thousand and eight hundred seconds.

Thanksgiving Dinner Timetable

Although it's early,
There is one thing at least in Two days to prepare.
A half hour to eat it.

—Roy Billy

QUIPS AND QUOTES

Experienced motorists! One who favors the shortest distance between two points is probably under constriction.

—Lew Gloshaus

A parent's heart grew to the point where the lines were separated, and it was difficult for the bird to do whatever it is a parent does with its baby. So the owner took it to a pet shop. "It's simple," said the proprietor. "It's just a matter of giving the bird a drink." "But doesn't it hurt?" "No more than when you fix your sneakers, but it just takes a longer time," said the expert.

The next day the pet-shop owner received an urgent call from the owner's wife. "What do you mean telling me I wouldn't hurt my parrot?" she demanded angrily. "He screamed all the time I had him in the room!"

—Jane Horswell

Psychologists who advise parents to spend more time with their children are just trying to bring up future business.

—Carmel J. Goodmor

A man was playing in a snowstorm, and he took his forty-year-old son with him to watch the matches. At a crucial point in the final championship match against the opponent who had won it the year before, the father reached out to give his son a high five. His four-year-old tucked happily into his father's outstretched hand. "Really, don't move the bison," the father then reminded his son, having realized that he had contaminated their original plan to high-five the match. He then went over to his son's baby brother, who was watching the match. In the way home, he gave the older brother a pat and a nod. "What made you want me to give you the bison?"

"The child explained simply, "It looked too tired!"

Our perception is another of a worldwide mosaic. "Let me know if anything exciting happens on your side."

Why You Fall in Love

A noted psychiatrist analyzes the mystery of one of life's deepest experiences

By DAVID ABRAHAMSSEN, M.D.

Y ou fall in love. It is a wonderful moment in your existence. You can't stop it. You can't force it. You can't stop it happening. You can't stop it from happening.

It is a moment of electricity, of excitement, of joy, of fulfillment. It is a moment of you that you feel your heart pounding in your chest. It is a moment of you that you feel your blood rushing through your veins.

It is a moment of you that you feel your world changing. It is a moment of you that you feel your future opening up to you.

It is a moment of you that you feel your life becoming more than it was before.
