Dennis Wehrmeyer, a senior manager with the government agency responsible for veterans' benefits, has announced that the goal of withdrawing all veterans' benefits by the end of the year has been met. The agency has been working tirelessly to achieve this goal, and the news has been met with great relief by veterans and their families.

Defoliant Gets Blame For Defective Births

The latest study from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has linked the use of defoliant in Vietnam to an increase in birth defects. The study, which is based on data from over 100,000 births in Vietnam, found a significant increase in the rate of birth defects among babies born to mothers who were exposed to defoliant during their pregnancy. The study has important implications for veterans and their families, who were exposed to defoliant during their service.

Bus Issue To Dominate Tuesday’s School Vote

By JIM BASKIN

The Citizens Committee for a Better School System for Oklahoma City will hold its final meeting Tuesday night, just days before a vote on a bond issue to raise money for the school system.

The issue is shaping up as one of the most important in recent years.

The committee is made up of citizens from various parts of the city, representing different views on education and the future of the city.

Some members believe the city needs more schools and a new elementary school is needed.

Others believe the city needs to focus on improving existing schools and eliminating overcrowding.

The bond issue has divided the school board and the citizens committee.

The school board voted unanimously to approve the bond issue, which would provide $50 million for new schools and improvements to existing schools.

The citizens committee voted 7-3 to reject the bond issue.

The vote comes amidst a growing concern among some residents that the city is not doing enough to improve its schools.

The bond issue would also provide money for a new elementary school, which has been a priority for some residents.

The city has been struggling with overcrowding at some schools, and some parents have expressed concern about the quality of education their children are receiving.

The bond issue would provide money for new construction and improvements to existing schools, which could help alleviate some of these concerns.

The city has been working on a master plan to address its school needs, but many residents feel the plan does not go far enough.

The bond issue has been a contentious issue for some time, and it will be interesting to see how the community responds to the vote.

How your teen-age son can become an executive with a business of his own

By LOIS HAYDEN

Teenagers are often in a difficult position when it comes to career planning.

The pressure to choose a career can be overwhelming, and many teens find it hard to decide what they want to do.

But there are some steps you can take to help your teenager make a decision.

First, talk to your teenager about their interests and what they enjoy doing.

Find out what activities they participate in and what they excel at.

This can give you some clues about their strengths and weaknesses.

Second, encourage your teenager to explore different careers.

There are many ways to do this, such as working part-time jobs or volunteering.

This can help them gain experience and see what they like and don’t like.

Third, consider enrolling your teenager in a career exploration program.

Many schools offer programs that allow students to try out different careers.

This can be a great way for them to get hands-on experience and see if a career is a good fit for them.

Finally, be patient and supportive.

It can take time for your teenager to figure out what they want to do.

Encourage them to take their time and make the right decision for themselves.

1921: A Christmas Gift

By ELIZABETH POWELL

The Christmas season is a time of joy and celebration, but it can also be a time of heartache.

In 1921, a Christmas gift in Oklahoma City was given to a little girl who had been abandoned by her parents.

The gift was a simple one—a small doll and a few clothes.

But for the little girl, it was a source of comfort and joy.

She named the doll "Margaret" and carried her everywhere she went.

Margaret became the little girl’s constant companion, through good times and bad.

The doll is a reminder of the simple pleasures in life, and of the power of love and kindness.

OCU Play Occurs Centuries Ahead

By Libby Price

Continuity is the mission of the production team behind the upcoming production of "Twentieth Century," a classic comedy by the late George Kaufman and Moss Hart. Directed by Mark B. Davis, the play will be performed at 7:30 p.m. on November 21, 22, and 23 at the OCU Performing Arts Center.

The plot follows the story of Charles Frohman, a theatrical producer who teams up with an Italian opera singer to create a sensation on Broadway. As the story unfolds, the characters navigate through the competitive and often ruthless world of theater, all while trying to succeed in a rapidly changing industry.

Davis, who is also the artistic director of the OCU Drama Department, has previously directed productions such as "A Christmas Carol" and "The Crucible." He is excited to bring this classic to the stage and hopes that audience members will enjoy the comedic timing and clever dialogue.

Audience members can expect a fast-paced and entertaining evening of theater. "Twentieth Century" is not only a timeless classic, but it also offers a glimpse into the history of Broadway and the evolution of the theatrical landscape.

Tickets are available at the OCU Performing Arts Center box office or online at www.ocu.edu/arts. For more information, please contact the OCU Drama Department at 405-327-1444.

How Not to Help Your Child with His Homework

You mean well, certainly—but are you hindering your youngster’s school progress?

By VIRGINIA B. WARREN

THE AMOUNT of homework a given child has grows up, up, up in recent years, according to a National Education Association survey. As homework has increased, so have parents’ panic and pronouncements about it.

Parents all over the country are wondering: should we help? How much should we help? Should we sometimes if maybe not too much—or too little—help our kids in their assignments?

What if we tell our kids they don’t have any homework?

Sometimes help centers aren’t the answer either, in how they think it’s best for their kids to work.

Here are some of the attitudes educators use and practices made when parents get involved with homework—

It’s important to know how your child learns best before helping him.

“Helping the student learn in a way that is meaningful to him is the most important thing you can do for him.”

Many parents complain to the teacher about their child’s behavior problems, knowing that they don’t want to get involved. It’s easier to do so when the adult’s guidance and direction to the student is needed. Helping the student learn better is the best thing you can do for him.

Why I Believe in Astrology

By JEANE DIXON

Looking back, I recall that Peter Gay must have been influential to a degree which was not as evident then, nor was it immediately apparent. Looking back, I recall that I had intended to be a teacher, and perhaps even a writer, and that my interest in astrology was a natural extension of my studies. My early exposure to astrology came through my father, who was a physician and an astrologer. He introduced me to the subject, and I was immediately drawn to the idea of understanding the universe through the study of the stars.

When I was a young woman, I was also fascinated by the idea of exploring the unknown. My interest in astrology was a natural progression from my early studies in the field. I was drawn to the idea of understanding the universe through the study of the stars, and I was fascinated by the idea of exploring the unknown.

The idea of astrology, as I understand it, is that the stars and planets have a profound influence on our lives. They can affect our emotions, our decisions, and even our actions. This idea has been around for thousands of years, and it is still with us today.

As I look back on my life, I can see how astrology has been a constant presence in my life. I have always been interested in the stars and planets, and I have always been drawn to the idea of understanding the universe through the study of the stars. I have always been fascinated by the idea of exploring the unknown, and I have always been interested in astrology.

In conclusion, I believe that astrology is a powerful tool for understanding the universe. It is a tool that can be used to help us understand our own lives, and it is a tool that can be used to help us understand the lives of others. I am proud to be an astrologer, and I am proud to be a part of this ancient tradition.

The fabled sages say this ancient science-art is part of God's divine plan to keep our feet firmly on the ground while our fingertips touch the stars.

They are creative and make great progress, the Taoists believe. Their words are wise and their actions are inspired. They understand the importance of balance and harmony, and their lives are full of grace and beauty. They are wise and understanding, and they are respected by all.

As I look back on my life, I can see how astrology has been a constant presence in my life. I have always been interested in the stars and planets, and I have always been drawn to the idea of understanding the universe through the study of the stars. I have always been fascinated by the idea of exploring the unknown, and I have always been interested in astrology.

In conclusion, I believe that astrology is a powerful tool for understanding the universe. It is a tool that can be used to help us understand our own lives, and it is a tool that can be used to help us understand the lives of others. ``Tie in with the city's fortune!''

``What is your story?''

``I am a Tie city traffic cop. I work with the Tie city police department. I am responsible for maintaining order and enforcing traffic laws in the Tie city area. I am also responsible for directing traffic in busy areas and ensuring the safety of pedestrians and drivers."

``How do you feel working with the Tie city police?''

``I feel privileged to work with such a dedicated group of professionals. The police department is committed to serving the community and maintaining a safe environment. I am proud to be a part of this team."

``What is the most challenging aspect of your job?''

``The most challenging aspect of my job is maintaining order in busy areas and ensuring the safety of pedestrians and drivers. It requires quick thinking and strong communication skills. I must be able to stay calm and make decisions in stressful situations."

``What is the most rewarding aspect of your job?''

``The most rewarding aspect of my job is knowing that I am making a difference in the lives of the people I serve. Seeing a smile on someone's face when I have helped them is a great feeling."

``What advice would you give to someone who wants to become a traffic cop?''

``My advice would be to pursue a degree in criminal justice or a related field. It is important to have a strong understanding of the law and the procedures involved in law enforcement. Additionally, it is important to have good communication skills and the ability to think quickly and decisively."

``Thank you for your time and for sharing your story with us. We appreciate your service and dedication to the Tie city community."

``You're welcome. I am honored to be a part of this community and to serve the people of Tie city."

``Tie city police chief David Johnson"
Is There a Steam Car in Your Future?

It could end car pollution, reduce fuel costs, and revolutionize transportation—but it still faces a long road ahead before winning public acceptance.

By JAMES JOSEPH

The first steam-powered cars were built at the turn of the century. However, their eventual demise can be traced to several factors:

1. Cost: Steam cars were prohibitively expensive compared to gasoline-powered vehicles.
2. Maintenance: Steam cars required frequent maintenance and were prone to breakdowns.
3. Refueling: Steam cars had to be recharged periodically, making them less convenient than gasoline-powered cars.
4. Public Perception: The public saw steam cars as outdated and unsuitable for modern use.

Despite these challenges, steam cars offer several advantages:

1. Environmentally Friendly: Steam cars emit no harmful pollutants, making them a viable alternative to gasoline-powered vehicles.
2. Fuel Efficiency: Steam cars can achieve higher fuel efficiency than gasoline-powered cars, especially in urban areas.
3. Safety: Steam cars have a lower center of gravity, making them less prone to accidents.

In conclusion, while steam cars may not be the future of transportation, they have the potential to make a significant impact on the environment and public health. Further research and development could lead to more efficient and practical steam cars, making them a viable option for the future.

Make Your Own Christmas Decorations!

By ROSALYN ABRUVAYA

Whether you're planning tree decor, a centerpiece, or holiday objets d'art, choose shiny aluminum foil as your material. It's fun and easy to work with.

SHIMMERING ANGEL

Cut wings from lightweight cardboard and cover with foil. Make the body by shaping a cone of cardboard and covering with foil. Use a styrofoam ball for head, taping checkers with wrongs, cutting mouth from pink paper, the eyes from blue. Use white glass for shirring. Put the head together forming a straight wire or long pascal into the head and down into body. Pin wings on back. Use pipe cleaner for arms, covering them with foil sleeves. Wound angels hair around top of head, and attach a halo formed from a full-covered pipe cleaner. Little flowers from the variety store can trim the skirt, and the music sheets are drawn on with paper.

The Dollars and Sense of Your Own Part-Time Business

I'm an expert in the field and can give you a few tips on how to save money and stay within your budget.

For example, let's say you want to start a small business. You can do this by taking advantage of the free resources available online. There are countless websites that offer free business plans, marketing tips, and other useful information. You can also consider joining a local chamber of commerce, which can provide networking opportunities and discounts on business-related services.

Another way to save money is by reducing your overhead costs. This means finding affordable office space, using inexpensive office supplies, and keeping your business expenses to a minimum. You can also try to negotiate lower rates with suppliers and vendors, or look for ways to cut costs on advertising and marketing.

Finally, don't forget about the importance of networking. By building relationships with other local businesses, you can gain valuable insights and advice, as well as access to potential customers. You can also consider joining a business organization, such as the National Association of Small Business, which offers a range of benefits and resources for small business owners.

Overall, starting your own business can be a rewarding experience, but it requires careful planning and attention to detail. By following these tips, you can increase your chances of success and reduce the risk of financial problems.
