WASHINGTON (CNS) — A armed American farmers who allegedly murdered two Americans who sold drugs in the area were arrested by the police, it was announced today.

Two men were shot dead in a small town in the state of Oklahoma, and authorities are investigating.

Police Chief John Smith said the men were aged 25 and 30 and had been selling drugs in the area for several months.

The men were arrested after a shootout with police in which one of the men was killed and the other was wounded.

Drug usage in the area has increased significantly in recent months, with many young people turning to illegal substances for a quick high.

The men were identified as John Smith and James Brown.

Skeleton Of Ancient Indian Found In Hills Near Fort Sill

The Department of the Interior has informed PAUL DOOLIN, the supervisor of the Indian Service at the reservation near Fort Sill, that they have found the skeleton of a very ancient Indian near the reservation.

The skeleton was found by an Indian who was hunting in the hills near the reservation, and was brought to the Indian Service for examination. The skeleton is believed to be that of an Indian who lived many centuries ago.

The Indian Service is conducting an investigation to determine the cause of death of the ancient Indian, and to learn more about the history of the reservation.

Capital Beat
Is Expanding

In recent years, the growth of the capital beat has been significant in newsrooms across the country. With the increasing demand for real-time, accurate, and comprehensive coverage of government and politics, news organizations are expanding their staffs dedicated to this beat. This expansion is not only due to the growing importance of political news but also reflects the changing media landscape where digital platforms and social media play a crucial role in disseminating information.

The expansion of the capital beat involves hiring journalists with expertise in political reporting. These reporters are tasked with covering congressional hearings, policy debates, and major legislation. They also attend high-profile events, such as presidential debates and state of the union addresses, to provide readers and viewers with insights and analysis.

In addition to increased staffing, news organizations have invested in technology and resources to support their capital beats. This includes dedicated data analysis tools, specialized software for tracking legislation, and enhanced online platforms for delivering content in real-time.

The expansion of the capital beat is also driven by the public’s growing interest in political news. With the rise of platforms like Twitter and Facebook, citizens are seeking more information about their lawmakers and the policies they advocate. This trend has encouraged news organizations to allocate more resources to the capital beat to ensure they meet the public’s demand for comprehensive coverage.

Overall, the expansion of the capital beat reflects the evolving nature of journalism and the growing importance of political news in our society. As news organizations continue to invest in their capital beats, readers and viewers can expect more robust and in-depth coverage of government and politics.

In a roasting pan, heat 2 tablespoons of oil over medium heat. Add the onions and sauté until translucent. Add the chili powder, cumin, and smoked paprika and stir until fragrant, about 30 seconds. Add the garlic and stir until fragrant, about 30 seconds. Add the beef, breaking up any large pieces with a wooden spoon. Cook the beef until browned, about 5 minutes. Add the tomatoes, tomatillos, and their juices, the chicken broth, and season with salt and pepper. Bring to a simmer, reduce the heat to low, and let simmer until the sauce has thickened, about 30 minutes. Stir in the cilantro and serve.

Mix all the ingredients except for the egg in a large bowl. Add the egg and mix until well combined. Pour the batter into a greased 9x5 inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit for 1 hour, or until a toothpick inserted into the center comes out clean. Let cool in the pan for 10 minutes, then remove to a wire rack to cool completely. ANY WAY YOU SLICE IT...P.S. BEEF IS BEST!!!

Here's the reason why
P.S. BEEF IS BEST!
P.S. Beef is best because it is a better value, a better choice because it's selected from U.S.D.A. Choice grade beef.
