St. Louis' Arch in Spotlight

"In the summer of 1947, a fire broke out in the archway of St. Louis Cathedral in St. Louis, Missouri. The fire destroyed a significant portion of the building. The arch is still standing, but it is now a symbol of the city's resilience and determination."

State To Sell 17 Buildings

The State of Oklahoma has announced plans to sell 17 of its buildings. The buildings include the old State Capitol in Oklahoma City, the old State Penitentiary in McAlester, and the old State Hospital in Bartlesville. The buildings will be auctioned off to the highest bidder.

Club To Hear Ex-FBI Chief

The Law Enforcement Council of the Tri-Cities will host a special lecture by former FBI director J. Edgar Hoover. The event will be held at the Ramada Inn in Oklahoma City. Hoover will discuss his role in the FBI and his views on law enforcement.

Good looking men never get a haircut

(Bad looking men get a haircut)

We stampede, we dance, we fill the air with noise, but it's not the noise that matters. It's the laughter, the joy, the feeling that we've shared. We may be different from others, but we're all the same in one way: we love the thrill of adventure.

Carpets are fun!

A carpet is like a rug that we can live on. It's a place where we can kick off our shoes and throw our hair around. We can sit on it and feel the warmth of the sun on our skin.

FUN
Long-Awaited 'Dolly' Film Version Opens This Week

Fun Cover

Barbara Streisand is the star of the motion picture version of 'Hello, Dolly!' which has been in the making for a long time in the making and even longer time in the receiving. However, the story and the music have not changed. The film opens Dec. 19 and will be a second hit for Broadway star Barbara Streisand. "Dollas" is a phrase for a good time. The music is by Harry Warren, the lyrics are by Frank Loesser, and the story is by Robert E. Howard. The making of the film was a difficult one, but it was worth it. The film was shot in New York and Los Angeles. The film stars Barbara Streisand, Zero Mostel, and Cyd Charisse. The film is a musical comedy and is a hit with audiences.

Kerr Asks Question
Are Any Stars Contested?

HOLLYWOOD — There may be happy stars in Los Angeles these days, but one of them is not Mississippi's own. Stella Stevens, who is a star in the film industry, recently was asked by a newspaper reporter if she had any complaints about her job. "No," she said, "I love being a star. But I do have one complaint. I wish they would stop asking me to play roles that are too difficult for me." Stella also mentioned that she would like to direct more movies, especially ones that she has written herself. "I think I have a good idea for a movie," she said. "It's about a group of friends who travel around the world and learn about different cultures. I think it would be a great story." Stella's next movie is scheduled to be released next year. It is currently in pre-production.

Kerr and Douglas Star
In this month's issue of the Hollywood Reporter, Jennifer Lawrence and Robert Pattinson are seen together at the screening of their latest film. The film, titled "The Staged," has received mixed reviews from critics but has managed to top the box office. Jennifer and Robert, who are both known for their work in independent films, have been working together on the project for several months. "It's been a fun experience," Jennifer said. "Robert is a great actor, and I think we have a great chemistry on screen." The film is currently in post-production, and it is scheduled to be released next year.

Comics In Dallas

Friends of Tiber and McDonald, the Oklahoma Board of Regents, and the Dallas County Juvenile Detention Center are sponsoring an art exhibit in Dallas. The exhibit, titled "The Art of Justice," features works by inmates from the Dallas County Jail. "We wanted to do something different," said Tiber. "We think it's important to show that art can be a form of expression, even for those who are incarcerated." The exhibit is open to the public and is located in the Dallas County Courthouse. It will be on display until the end of the year.

SHE'S IN IT TOO

Kathleen Turner, who has appeared in such films as "The Women" and "The补助" is currently working on her latest project. The film, titled "The Secret Lives of Walter Mitty," is being directed by Wes Anderson and is set to be released next year. Kathleen has been working hard on the film, and she has been praised for her performance. "I really wanted to do this role," Kathleen said. "I think it's a great opportunity to show a different side of me." The film is currently in production and is scheduled to be released next year.

DALLAS COMPANY WELCOMES "PLACE FOR LOVERS" AT VILLAGE LOFTS

The Dallas company has welcomed "Place for Lovers" at Village Lofts. The program seeks to provide a safe and supportive environment for individuals who are struggling with addiction or other issues. "We are excited to offer this program to our residents," said the company's CEO. "We believe it will be a valuable resource for those who need it." The program is currently in its early stages, and it is scheduled to be fully operational in the next few months.

Young Soloist Tops OU Choral Concert

The University of Oklahoma Choral Program presented a concert last week that featured a variety of music from around the world. The concert, directed by Dr. Richard Simon, included works by composers such as Mahler and Verdi.

One of the highlights of the concert was a performance by the OU Choral Union, which sang "Ode to Joy" from Beethoven’s Ninth Symphony. The performance was met with enthusiastic applause from the audience.

The concert was held in the OU Reynolds Alumni Center and was free to the public. For more information about future concerts, visit www.choral.ou.edu.

British Takes Issue

(For the following letter is an answer to the story about British actor Anthony Quayle, which was published in the "London Evening Standard" on October 12, 1959, in which he discusses the film "The Iceman Cometh," a project he is currently working on with director John Gielgud. He says that it is not a period piece and that he is excited about the role.)

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter by Anthony Quayle, but I have never written to him before. I am an American who has spent time in England and is familiar with the British theater scene. I have seen a few performances of "The Iceman Cometh," and I was impressed by Quayle's performance. I am not convinced that the film is a period piece, but I do think it is a classic piece of literature. I am looking forward to seeing the film when it is released.

Sincerely,

Exercise Bath

By ROSALYN ABREVAYA

Next to exercising in bed, one of the easiest and most enjoyable spots to practice physical fitness is in your daily bath!

To prove it, we asked internationally famed exercise master Nicholas Koumovsky to devise three of the most beneficial routines he could. According to Koumovsky, "The water is our friend; it gives us a lift by its density, makes us very light, helps clean our pores and relax us, and, by its comfortably warm temperature, gives our circulation a boost."

Can you think of a better set of incentives to begin the illustrated exercises today?

Hand-loomed Bedspreads from India

- Made from finest quality Indian cotton!
- Completely machine washable and guaranteed not to run!
- Use also as a throw on couch or sofa!

Benefit: Indian bedspreads have been famous since remote ages. Cotton was known to the Babylonians as SINDHU and to the Greeks as SINDON. In the SINDH Valley in India, true cotton fabric was discovered dating from the third millennium BC.

In this age of mechanization one would imagine that hand-loom weaving would have become another lost art. To the contrary, the most sophisticated textile machinery we have cannot reproduce the magnificent effects which are made on hand looms.

In the interior of India there is a village in one of the oldest states of India. This village is near Agra, the site of the Taj Mahal. In this village for untold generations the master craftsmen have applied their skills and techniques in developing these magnificent bedspreads. Through constant experimentation with colored yarn, in the combining of different colored yarns twisted together to give an ethereal iridescent effect, they have been able to produce striping of rare beauty.

- Now get into a sitting position (as in illustration 3), with arms and legs extended straight. Slowly flex the knees to chest with feet lifted off the bottom of the tub. Hold position to the count of six. - Benefits: trims abdomen and waistline; develops a stronger, natural "girdle."

Dolls—The Childhood Friends

By FRANCES PARKINSON KEYES
Author of "The Seventeenth" and "The Ring"

I CANNOT remember a time in my life when I was not interested in dolls. They must have been among my first playthings, as they are of most girls; but I think I took them more seriously than many small children do. I regarded them not only as playthings but as companions.

In caring for my dolls, I began very early to imagine the real lives which I myself was accustomed to follow. As a young girl, I can remember lying on the floor, not only playing with dolls, but settling with them in real life. Then, as I grew older, I began to imagine that they were living in a wonderful world, and that they were having adventures and deeds of bravery, just as children do.

My mother was a great collector of dolls, and she had a wonderful collection, which she kept carefully stored away in a large trunk. She would bring them out and show them to me when I was little, and I would always ask to touch them and feel them. She would tell me stories about the dolls, and how they had come to be there, and how they were made. I would listen to her stories with great interest, and would always ask for more.

I remember one day when I was about six years old, my mother brought out a doll from her collection. It was a beautiful French doll, with long curly hair and blue eyes. She told me that it was from a story by Madame de Genlis, called "The Little Quaker." I listened with rapt attention, and asked many questions about the doll and the story. My mother explained to me that the doll was a model for a young girl in the story, and that she had been made to look like a little Quaker girl.

From that day on, I was fascinated by dolls. I would spend hours playing with them, imagining their adventures and lives. I would create stories for them, and make up situations in which they would be involved. I would think of ways to make them happy, and to make their lives as interesting as possible.

One day, I decided to make a doll of my own. I went to the nearest store and bought a doll kit, which I would later use to make a doll just like the one my mother had given me. I spent many hours working on the doll, and I was very proud when I finally completed it. I gave it to my mother as a gift, and she was delighted with it. She told me that it was a beautiful doll, and that it was almost like her own doll.

From that day on, I was determined to collect dolls. I would save my pocket money to buy more dolls, and I would spend hours observing the dolls of other children. I would often ask my mother to take me to the doll store, where I could see and examine the dolls. I would make notes of the dolls I liked, and I would try to remember their prices.

As I grew older, my collection of dolls became larger and larger. I would sometimes take my dolls to school, and I would show them to my friends. I would often invite my friends to come and play with my dolls, and we would create stories and adventures for them. I would take my dolls on walks, and I would play with them in the park. I would pretend that they were real people, and I would talk to them as if they were alive.

I remember one day when I was about twelve years old, my mother gave me a beautiful doll as a gift. It was a French doll, with long curly hair and blue eyes, just like the doll she had given me before. I was overjoyed with the gift, and I spent many hours playing with the doll, imagining her adventures and lives. I made up stories for her, and I would often take her to school with me. My friends were fascinated by the doll, and they would ask me to tell them about her life and adventures.

From that day on, I was determined to be a doll collector. I would spend hours searching for dolls, and I would often visit doll shops, where I could see and examine the dolls. I would make notes of the dolls I liked, and I would try to remember their prices. I would also visit doll auctions, where I could bid on dolls and add them to my collection.

As I grew older, my collection became even larger. I would spend hours arranging the dolls, and I would create stories and adventures for them. I would often invite my friends to come and play with my dolls, and we would create stories and adventures for them. I would take my dolls on walks, and I would play with them in the park. I would pretend that they were real people, and I would talk to them as if they were alive.

I remember one day when I was about fifteen years old, my mother gave me a beautiful doll as a gift. It was a French doll, with long curly hair and blue eyes, just like the doll she had given me before. I was overjoyed with the gift, and I spent many hours playing with the doll, imagining her adventures and lives. I made up stories for her, and I would often take her to school with me. I was overjoyed with the gift, and I spent many hours playing with the doll, imagining her adventures and lives. I made up stories for her, and I would often take her to school with me. My friends were fascinated by the doll, and they would ask me to tell them about her life and adventures.

From that day on, I was determined to be a doll collector. I would spend hours searching for dolls, and I would often visit doll shops, where I could see and examine the dolls. I would make notes of the dolls I liked, and I would try to remember their prices. I would also visit doll auctions, where I could bid on dolls and add them to my collection.

As I grew older, my collection became even larger. I would spend hours arranging the dolls, and I would create stories and adventures for them. I would often invite my friends to come and play with my dolls, and we would create stories and adventures for them. I would take my dolls on walks, and I would play with them in the park. I would pretend that they were real people, and I would talk to them as if they were alive.

I remember one day when I was about fifteen years old, my mother gave me a beautiful doll as a gift. It was a French doll, with long curly hair and blue eyes, just like the doll she had given me before. I was overjoyed with the gift, and I spent many hours playing with the doll, imagining her adventures and lives. I made up stories for her, and I would often take her to school with me. My friends were fascinated by the doll, and they would ask me to tell them about her life and adventures.

Who needs to be plain old brown... when you can be a Gorgeous Brunette without changing your natural hair color!

All it takes is a little Loving Care. Suddenly a beautiful thing happens...you look younger, feel younger. Your hair shines...and your eyes sparkle. Your color's richer...and you feel like a million dollars just knowing that now confidence is in your hair. Say goodbye to dull brown hair. Hello gorgeous brunette!

Make your first gray hair your last one!
Catch that first gray hair and suddenly gray hair will stop "frowning in your family"...starting with you! Loving Care gives you the many natural-looking brown shades to choose from, one just has to be yours. You know, pretty soon you won't even know how gray you're getting (and neither will anyone else).

No mixing. No fixing. Just do it.
No fuss. No bother. All you do is pour it on, let it sit, and wash it out. Takes just minutes...just about an hour. You don't even need an extra shampoo because it's Loving Care, the shampoo is built right in. And because Loving Care isn't a permanent haircoloring, you can always go back to your plain old brown. But who'd ever want to?

Hate that gray? Wash it away!
Everybody knows gray hair shows more in brown than in any other hair color. And dulls it. And makes it look plain. Just plain brown. That's why it's never too soon (or too late) for a little Loving Care. Pick the shade that's closest to your own. Loving Care colors only the gray...but it refreshes your whole head of hair! That's how Loving Care gives you the most in gorgeous brown shades.

What makes Loving Care so different?
It's the gentlest haircoloring you can buy because there's no perm for it. It's not a tan. It's better than any tone...won't rub off. And, because it's such a gentle lotion, it can't possibly change your natural color. What it can do is change you...from plain old brown to gorgeous brunette! Loving Care actually enriches your own shade — gives it a new healthy glow and deep-conditions it so your hair's in better shape than ever!

Brunettes are partial to Loving Care because... Loving Care is partial to brunettes.

Great way to make your first gray hair your last one!

Snowmobiles—a Boon to Family Fun

By JAMES JOSEPH

SNOWMOBILES, just celebrating their first full decade of snowmobiling as a winter family sport, are getting in on the fun of dancing through the snow on a 40-horsepower open-ski snowmobile.

Behind the snowmobile, the water vehicle is filled with steering and powered by a wide range of tracks that give it a variable "drift" on steep slopes. It takes to snowmobiles like boats to water. Some snowmobiles even come with a small electric motor on the back to aid in starting. Most snowmobiles have powers of up to 50 to 100 mph.

Now more than 40 United States and Canadian snowmobile manufacturers have just rolled out their 1975 models. They're more powerful, with more sophisticated engines and better handling. More "budget" models are being offered. Caitel-y, snowmobiles are using less water than ever before, and some models are using less gasoline than ever before the winter's end.

You can rent them from them from 35 to 65 mph in 50 miles. Two two- and four-person snowmobiles are being offered. One of the newer models is the "Ruffed-Grouse Snowmobile," a two-man, sled-track designed for those few people who want to go skiing but not be caught up in the traffic jams at the bottom of the mountain.

Snowmobiles are a boon to families who want to take advantage of the winter sport without having to own a snowmobile. They are available to rent at many ski resorts and can be driven by anyone with a valid driver's license. They are also available for purchase from many dealers across the country.

Snowmobiles are not just for the Die-hard skiers and snowboarders. They are also a great way to get around in the winter, and they are becoming increasingly popular as a way to get to and from ski resorts. Snowmobiles are also a great way to get around on long trips, and they are often used to transport supplies to remote areas.

Now, it's easy to see why snowmobiles are a boon to family fun!
