Jamb Tries Motors' Yule Spirit

By Jan Barlow

In its 120th anniversary edition, the "Jamb" presented a feature on motors' Yule spirit. The article highlighted the various holiday-themed motors that were showcased in the industry. The "Jamb" also paid tribute to the traditional Yuletide celebrations and the unique contributions of the motors industry to the holiday spirit.

Black and White is Beautiful

The story of Black and White is Beautiful was set in the midst of the American Prohibition era. The tale was about a young woman who was involved in the underground world of speakeasies and bootleggers. Despite the legal and social restrictions of the time, she managed to navigate the dangerous world of organized crime and emerge victorious.

Fred Predicts Demo Control Of '70 Vote

By Raymond H. Loh

Fred, a well-known political commentator, predicted that the Democrats would control the Senate and the House of Representatives in the upcoming '70 elections. His analysis was based on various factors, including voter sentiment, political landscape, and historical precedents.

5 Bodies Are Found In Pacific

By Damaris H. Loh

The bodies of five individuals were discovered in the Pacific Ocean near the coast of Japan. The victims were identified as tourists who had gone missing on a cruise ship. The investigation revealed that the ship had been hijacked by pirates, who had killed the passengers and dumped their bodies into the sea.

Storm's First Salvo Weak

The first storm of the season, bringing strong winds and heavy rain, hit Oklahoma. The governor was on stand-by, and emergency services were fully staffed. The storm caused minor damage, but the region was prepared for potential flooding and power outages.

Zodiac Killer begs Lawyer To Help Him

By Belli

The Zodiac Killer, a notorious serial killer, reached out to a lawyer for help. The lawyer agreed to consider the request, but warned the Zodiac Killer that the case was likely to be difficult and may take many years to resolve.

85 Starlings, 1 Dumb Robin

By Larry H. Bud

Larry H. Bud observed a flock of starlings and a solitary robin on a winter day. The starlings were seen feeding on seeds and hopping from branch to branch, while the robin was perched on a nearby tree, observing its surroundings.

The Recorder's Notes: The Starlings were seen feeding on seeds in the park, while the Robin was perched on a branch above them. The photographer captured the moment with a telephoto lens, capturing the intricate details of the birds' plumage and the surrounding landscape.

Plunged into the Cheyenne River, their helicopter quickly disappeared from view.

The men swam to the shore, their clothes clinging to their bodies. They shivered as they realized they were stranded in the middle of the river.

Suddenly, a rescue team arrived on the scene. They quickly set up a lifeboat and began searching for the missing helicopter.

After hours of searching, the helicopter was finally located. It had crashed into the river, killing all of its occupants.

The men were rescued and taken to a nearby hospital. They were treated for hypothermia and minor injuries before being released.

The helicopter crash was a tragedy that will be remembered for years to come.

‘Pseudo Sophisticates’ Not Always Smartest

When they get married and it’s time to start living together, problems may arise. Many a bride and groom have been caught up in the excitement of planning their wedding, only to realize that they have very different ideas about what constitutes a comfortable and happy home environment. The key to avoiding these pitfalls is good communication and compromise.

Dr. Chase, a psychologist specializing in marriage counseling, offers the following tips for newlyweds:

1. Be honest about your expectations: Before you tie the knot, it’s important to be upfront about what you expect from your partner. Are you both comfortable with the idea of living together? Do you see yourselves as equals in the relationship? If not, make sure you discuss these issues early on.

2. Set boundaries: Just because you’re married doesn’t mean you have to do everything together. Each person should have some independence and time for their own interests. Make sure you set clear boundaries about when and how much time you will spend together.

3. Compromise: Marriages are built on give and take. Sometimes, you’ll have to make sacrifices for the sake of the relationship. Be willing to compromise on small things so that you can focus on the big picture.

4. Seek outside help: If you’re struggling to communicate or work out your differences, consider seeking help from a marriage counselor or therapist. They can provide valuable insights and strategies to improve your relationship.

With a tape of entrepreneurship, actor Kirk Douglas set the tone for his new film "The Arrangement" when he announced in the Los Angeles Times on April 13 that he would produce and direct the movie. Douglas, a leading Hollywood producer, had his own personal services company, "The Arrangement," which was formed to develop and produce films. The movie explores the starring role of a young screenwriter who dreams of becoming a money maker and starts an affair with a young woman. (Paye-DKAvis) Douglas, as has been his custom, often appears in a movie as a stuntman or a bit player. However, in "The Arrangement," he plays the lead role of a screenwriter. Douglas, who was born in New York City, is known for his roles in "Spartacus," "Spartacus," and "Spartacus." He also has a home in Beverly Hills, where he produces and directs his own films.

Greek Dance in Chicago

Auditorium Theatre and the Illinois Theatre are hosting a traditional Greek dance event in Chicago. This event is a celebration of Greek culture and heritage, featuring performances by local Greek dancers and bands. The event takes place on Saturday, May 14, from 7:00 PM to 10:00 PM at the Auditorium Theatre. The event is free and open to the public. For more information, please visit the Auditorium Theatre's website or call 312-341-1800.

Nixon Bolsters Art

San Francisco, CA - President Richard Nixon signed a new law on May 14 that will greatly increase funding for the arts. The law, which will go into effect on July 1, provides $200 million in federal funds to support the arts in the United States. This is the largest single appropriation for the arts in the history of the United States. The funds will be distributed among states, cities, and communities to support a wide range of arts-related activities, including performing arts, visual arts, arts education, and community arts programs.

This Is How It Starts

Dr. William J. Clinton, a former governor of Arkansas and a major figure in the 2016 Democratic presidential primary, has reportedly entered the race for the Democratic nomination. This is not surprising, as Clinton has been a consistent figure on the political scene for many years, and his strong performance in the 2016 primary and general election campaigns has solidified his position as a leading Democratic candidate.

Youth Solves Problem

A middle school student has come up with a novel solution to a problem that has been plaguing the school for years. The student has designed a new type of lunch box that is both eco-friendly and efficient. The lunch box is made from recycled materials and is designed to keep food cold for longer periods of time. The student plans to present the design to the school's administration and hopes to see it implemented on a larger scale.

Double Image in Movie

Kirk Douglas is starring in the movie "The Arrangement," which is being produced and directed by his own company, "The Arrangement." The movie is set in New York City and follows the lives of two young screenwriters who become friends and colleagues. Douglas plays the role of a screenwriter who is struggling to make it in the city. He meets another writer who is also trying to make it in the industry, and they become close friends.

British Sculpture at OU

Dr. John Crawley, a professor of English at the University of Oklahoma, has been appointed director of the Ralph J. M. Barnard Institute of Fine Arts. The institute is the largest and most comprehensive art museum in the state of Oklahoma. Dr. Crawley has been a prominent figure in the field of English literature for many years, and his appointment as director of the institute is expected to bring renewed attention to the university's art collection.

The Arts Scene:

This weekend, the University of Oklahoma is hosting a series of events in celebration of the arts. On Friday, May 13, there will be a concert featuring the OU Symphony Orchestra, conducted by baton. The concert will feature classical music from the 18th and 19th centuries, including works by Mozart and Beethoven. On Saturday, May 14, there will be a performance by the OU School of Music's Chamber Orchestra, directed by. The performance will feature music from the Renaissance and Baroque periods. On Sunday, May 15, there will be a lecture by a prominent art historian, who will discuss the role of art in modern society.

The Ratings

The Good Guys and the Bad Guys — It's been a long time since a movie was released that got as much praise as George Cukor's "The Good Guys and the Bad Guys." The film, which stars Robert Douglas, is set in the early 1930s and features a cast of towering actors, including Spencer Tracy and Jack Lemmon. The story revolves around a group of gangsters who try to outsmart each other in a series of supernatural battles. The film is a must-see for anyone who appreciates a good, old-fashioned Western.

Mrs. 007 Stays Around For A Merely Six Minutes

In the film "Mrs. 007," the title character, played by the legendary Claire Bloom, is a woman who has been trained to be a deadly assassin. Despite her training, she finds herself unable to kill her targets, and instead chooses to foil their plans. The film is a satirical take on the James Bond franchise, and is a must-see for anyone who appreciates a good laugh.

Mr. Muffles Crew Member

In the film "Mr. Muffles," the title character is a children's book author who has written a series of successful books. When he is visited by a group of children who are upset with the lack of adventure in his books, he decides to go on a real adventure himself. The film is a heartwarming tale that is perfect for families.

Auditions Set At Jewel Box

Open auditions for the role of "Jewel Box" will be held at the Jewel Box Theatre on Sunday, December 31. The role is for a woman in her mid-twenties who is a talented singer and dancer. The actor must be able to sing and dance, and have experience in both areas.

'Spoon River' Nears

First play of the 1980's in the Newcomers' 1980 season is the Charles L. Law diagram, which opens at the Shakespeare Theatre at the end of March. The play opens at 3:00 p.m. at the Newcomer's 3:00 p.m. premiere of the Shakespeare Theatre. We are not sure if the play will run to its full 90 minutes, or if there will be a终幕间休息. In addition, the play will be performed by a cast of three actors, Wylie and Wylie, and will be directed by David Wylie, a new director in the Newcomers' 1980 schedule.

--The Newcomers' 1980 schedule includes four plays, including a revival of 'Spoon River,' which opens at the Shakespeare Theatre on March 10. The play will run for 90 minutes, and will be directed by David Wylie, a new director in the Newcomers' 1980 schedule.

The music for the show will be performed by the Newcomers' 1980 orchestra, led by James G. Martin, and will feature the Newcomers' 1980 chorus, led by Diana Ross. The Newcomers' 1980 schedule includes four plays, including a revival of 'Spoon River,' which opens at the Shakespeare Theatre on March 10. The play will run for 90 minutes, and will be directed by David Wylie, a new director in the Newcomers' 1980 schedule.

'Dancers To Return

Johnston Brothers and their interpretations of the Newcomers' 1980 schedule will perform at the Newcomers' 1980 schedule on March 11 and 12. Art Center Gets Collection

By LARRY PRICE

The new Art Center has announced the acquisition of a collection of 10 linocuts by the renowned artist Printmaker. Included in the collection is the artist's "Chop Suey," which has become a popular piece among collectors. The acquisition marks a significant milestone for the center, which aims to establish itself as a leading institution for the display and promotion of contemporary art.

Linocuts Brilliant

By LARRY PRICE

A recent exhibition at the Art Center featured 10 brilliant linocuts by the renowned artist Printmaker. The linocuts, which were created using traditional techniques, are admired for their vivid colors and intricate details. The exhibition also included a talk by the artist, who discussed the inspiration behind his work and the importance of linocut art in contemporary culture.

Famous Lithograph

The original print of "George Washington" by Printmaker, which was created for the Washington Monument Centennial Celebration in 1983, has been acquired by the center. The lithograph is a masterpiece of the artist's work and is now part of the center's permanent collection.

Picasso Linocut Art Center

The brilliant linocuts of Printmaker, "Head of a Woman," were achieved through a new process of multicolor "linocut," which produces a rich and varied effect. The center plans to display the linocuts in a special exhibition to celebrate the artist's work.

Unusual Gift Marks Premier

The Art Center received an unusual gift from Printmaker to mark the occasion of the center's premier exhibition. The gift, which is a limited edition linocut, is a symbol of the center's commitment to supporting emerging artists and promoting the importance of linocut art.

you're looking for is in the middle of the room, past the couch and under the coffee table. It's a black and white case, with a key in the lock. When you open it, there's a stack of old photos inside. They're of a family, all dressed up in formal clothes, from the 1930s. The oldest person is a woman in a long dress, her hair styled in ringlets. The others are in suits and dresses, smiling for the camera. It's a moment in time, a glimpse of the past.

Will Being a TV Boss Change An Easygoing Star?
Sears ROEBUCK 1902 CATALOG

AMERICA AT THE TURN OF THE CENTURY. When penny candy was king, when newspapers were both friend and foe, and when America was young and wonderful. This 1902 Sears Roebuck catalog features the dreams and needs of America at a time when life was less complex—much more fun, and not far from the present. For instance, the 1902 Sears catalog featured good things in both old and new designs.

For the record, this catalog is made up of 960 pages, printed in high-quality color, and contains more than 40,000 items, all illustrated and fully described. It’s really a joy to read, with a layout in black and white and clear illustrations of the American dream. This 1902 Sears Roebuck catalog truly captures the spirit of America in this golden era.

The catalog is a wonderful gift, and at $9.95, a lot more for the money than you can find today. Only 1,000 copies are available, so order today, while supplies last!
What Dinner Reveals About Your Family

In some homes, mealtime is a friendly get-together—in others it’s an ordeal: now psychologists tell how to make this vital period enriching to the personality as well as the body

By THEODORE IRWIN

In some homes, mealtime is a friendly get-together—in others it’s an ordeal: now psychologists tell how to make this vital period enriching to the personality as well as the body

A THE JOHNSONS, the dinner table is a frequent battleground. The kids holler and abuse each other. Dad harps on Ritty for not using his napkin, and the boy stallas away to watch TV. Mrs. Johnson swears that she’s been treating them new six months. Mother yells louder, and the dinner table ends in a quick and unceremonious meal.

In contrast, dinners at their neighbors, the Walmans, is a pleasant sound: every one looks forward to. On a typical evening, Jimmy welded a car in his garage. His wife, Mrs. Walmans, served him a fine meal, and the family looked over their new plans. The family enjoy each other’s company, listen and watch, and often enjoy the dinner together.

In a recent study of dinner patterns, Robert R. Dougher, executive director of the Tucson (Ariz.) Child Guidance Clinic, pointed out that dinner, rather than eating as an isolated event, tends to reflect general patterns of behavior.

Conflicts at dinner, he reported, “can be related to struggles in other areas of family activity, so that the meal offers a microcosm of human behavior.”

Variations are in style and rituals are infinite. Robert Dougher found in his study, depending on how and where the family habitually feeds, there may be as many different ideas of “proper dinner manners” as there is a variety of habits. The setting, the atmosphere, the mood, all influence the reactions and the development.

In many homes, dinner is highly ritualistic, starting at a specific time with the setting of the table. In others, dinner is a casual event, and the family tends to do what suits their mood at the moment.

In observing families patterns, observations have been made that the parent should be “instructed to reflect as much as you can, what happens at a typical evening meal.” What happens during the dinner “tells a lot about the personality of the family.”

The table must be set in a comfortable and inviting manner. The table should be a place of retreat, where the family can reflect and talk and behave.

The table’s or even more of a ‚talking point’ that many parents emphasize that their children feel comfortable in their company. They should not feel as if they are alone when they are eating.

The table should be set in a comfortable and inviting manner, where the family can reflect and talk and behave.

ANDY WILLIAMS: He Calls Himself the Boss—But Gently

"I'M THE BOSS, YES," says Andy Williams of his new show, "That's what it says in the contract—somebody has to make decisions. It might as well be me!"

But "boss" is a tough word to describe, millicent singer Andy Williams. Andy is an exquisitely, jolly sort of guy who has a way of getting exactly what he wants—without "bossing." For instance, when the show's producers disagreed with the way Andy is handling a song or act, there's no children's-cartoonism.

Andy remains cool and does what the staff member wants. Usually he does it by talking to the producers, "You don't feel comfortable doing it that way? Did you notice that?" There's no argument; it's obvious the boss is right.

Andy has made a long way from Wall Lake, Iowa—and in the same way, colorfully masquerade of his father and three other producers made up the entire staff of the family act. The shows' singing water show, and the boys (Bob, Ed, and Andy) became successful stars in the 1950's. When the family moved to Chicago, they became successful stars, and became known as the "Andy Williams show."

In 1958, the show went together a three-story act along with comedian Keavy Thompson, who was then in the family act.

The act broke up when two of the older brothers were drafted into the Army, leaving Andy to shift for himself in show business. From that point on, he did his best to build his act up to one of the top shows in the country, and now he's a ballroom inventor, and a socialite.

The emcee, "Andy," as he is now called, is his own manager for his appearances, which are still being made. He's the best to tell you to be in the right place at the right time—dresses more than half a size larger than his regular clothes.

"Love, Andy," once went to the Andrew Jackson Research Institute in Boston, where it was discovered that the show is not the same as when it was in New York. "I never dreamed it'd be so different," said Andy.

Andy's real assets are his personal ties to performers. He's a devoted father to his three children: Norma, Carole, and Andy, Jr.

When he's not performing, Andy likes to stay at home and watch TV. "I'm not a big TV fan," he says. "I just enjoy watching it when I'm not working."
Are We Headed for a Moneyless Society?

A computer card will someday replace currency and checks, not everyone may welcome the change—especially bank robbers.

By JOE McCARTHY

Ever wish you didn’t have to worry about money—whether it is in cash or in a checkbook? Well, the day when cash and checks will become as scarce as silver dollars is not far away, many bankers now feel.

Why? Because the fast-growing availability of paper money and the changing nature of money transactions is getting to be too big to handle. We’re being chocked by paper, the bankers claim. “The Americans and I am creating nearly 20 billion checks a year. And that’s just checks alone—not counting paper currency, deposit slips, withdrawal slips, and I don’t know how many other kinds of paper.”

“Aside from the tremendous cost of handling so much paper—checks alone pass through 30 banks before they come back to the depositors’ monthly statement envelopes—the physical job of sorting and transporting it will soon paralyze us. We’ve got to find a way of handling the financial needs of buyers and sellers without using a scrap of paper, whether we want it or not.”

The only solution seems to be to return to the prehistoric “electronic money” or the use of a bank account which will be made by electronic computer checks instead of checks and cash.

Every home and place of business would have an electronic computer terminal which would transform information to and from a nationwide computer banking system. Instead of carrying cash or a checkbook, every bank deposit account and every store and every restaurant would be linked to a large computer center by means of “smart cards” or “computer checks.”

These cards would be small enough to fit in a purse or wallet, and would be made of plastic and contain a magnetic strip or a chip. The card would be used to make a record of all financial transactions, and would be accepted by every bank in the country.

The card would work like a credit card and would be accepted by every store and restaurant. When a purchase is made, the merchant would enter the amount of the transaction into a computer terminal, and the computer would automatically reduce the customer’s account by the amount of the purchase.

The computer would then send a message to the bank, which would in turn reduce the customer’s account by the amount of the purchase. The customer would then be given a receipt, which would be filed in the customer’s account for future reference.

The computer would also be able to perform other functions, such as handling mortgage payments, checking deposits, and even handling insurance claims. It would be able to do all of these functions without the use of paper money, and would be able to handle a much larger volume of transactions than is currently possible.

The use of electronic money would have a number of advantages. It would be easier to carry, and would be less likely to be lost or stolen. It would also be easier to track, and would make it easier to prevent fraud.

The use of electronic money would also be more efficient. It would be faster to use than paper money, and would be easier to store and carry. It would also be more secure, and would be less likely to be counterfeited.

In conclusion, the use of electronic money would be a major step forward in the development of modern society. It would make life easier for everyone, and would be a major contribution to the advancement of technology.

Double your chances for family success

Here's the new double door in opportunity. One for you, one for your partner in life.

Mail these coupons to find out how either or both of you can make up for lost education. How you can get the specialized training you need. How you can double, even triple, family income. How you can give yourselves and your children the things you both dream of—a better home in a better neighborhood; money for college, respect, security.

The opportunity is there. Good-paying jobs, Rapid advancement. In hundreds of fields. For both men and women. There's also the chance to finish high school, or to move on to college-level courses. Or to strike out for yourselves, to start your own business together, to develop skills and talents for a real partnership.

The secret is training

But not the usual classroom kind. The secret is specialized training geared to the needs of modern, busy couples. A way to master almost any subject at home, in your spare time, at your own pace, and at minimum cost.

This is the success-proved method of world-famous International Correspondence Schools. And almost 8 million men and women have taken advantage of it over the past 75 years.

Same high standards

Both I.C.S. and its Women's Division offer the same high-quality standards of instruction. Lessons cover basic theory and modern practice, are written by experts in each field and organized into job-related, easy-to-understand units.

Both give you personal guidance and correction service with every assignment you mail back. And when you complete your course, you receive the coveted I.C.S. diploma. There is more satisfying, more rewarding symbol of achievement.

First step is easy

You simply mail one or both of the coupons. By return mail you get complete information. Valuable suggestions on how to get ahead faster. Full descriptions of the courses you check.

Your only obligation is the one you owe to yourself and your family to succeed.

So . . . what are you waiting for?
Thanks to volunteer ham radio operators, GIs overseas and anxious families at home are inexpensively linked with the crockling call:

"Hello, This Is Vietnam Calling!"

By LESLIE LIEBER

A 2 O'CLOCK on a recent Saturday afternoon—4 p.m. Sunday, Vietnam time—a retired civil engineer named George Clinecker switched on a shortwave radio transmitter in a shack behind his home in Carson City, Nev., adjusted the headrest over his sparse white hair, and began building dials.

"Hello Charlie, this is Alie Clinecker," he repeated several times as the static crackled and then subsided. "Are you any of my fellow members out there?"

Moments later, a GI named Ray Rutland, a 20-year-old medic stationed in San Francisco, was able to speak to Clinecker on a voice broke, a voice that would otherwise be lost.

"We were having a rough time a couple of days ago. We had a lot of casualties. We lost a lot of men. We were just wanting to say a few words to the families of the men who lost their lives."

Clinecker, a 65-year-old Carson City councilman and retired highway engineer, is one of a small group of civil engineers across the country who are working around the clock with the military Affairs Radio Service (MARS) to maintain a communication network that has already saved more than 20,000 lives.
