Troubled Couple Finds Friends

By ROBE LEE

Two and a half years ago, a couple who had lost their home in a fire and were living in a trailer were looking for help. They found it in the form of a local church and a community center, where they were able to get their lives back on track. The couple, who had been married for 20 years, had been struggling with financial issues and had no one to turn to. They were grateful for the support they received during this time, which helped them to rebuild their lives.

The church provided them with food and clothing, and the community center offered them various resources, including a job training program. The couple was also able to access counseling services, which helped them to deal with the emotional impact of losing their home.

Today, the couple is living in a new home and is grateful for the support they received during this time. They have since started a new business and are working hard to provide for their family.

Final Polls A Farce; Playoff System Needed

Tom Wright

The other complication of the civic system is that, if one looks at the way the polls are done, there is a question whether the results are reliable. For instance, the polls are conducted by phone interviews, and the respondents are selected randomly. This means that the sample may not be representative of the entire population, which can lead to inaccurate results.

MWC Traffic Volume Growth Doubles Population Climb

Uptown Kiwanis Hear Of Drugs

Moss Park Planning Board looks on as MWC is presented a series of charts showing the tremendous traffic growth on the streets and highways around the city. The charts, based on data from the Oklahoma Department of Transportation, show that the traffic volume on major streets has increased by 100% over the past 10 years. This growth is expected to continue, and the city is seeking ways to accommodate the increased traffic without placing a burden on the city budget.

Charter Committee Starts Big Chore

Moss Park Planning Board

The Moss Park Planning Board is working on a charter that will allow the city to implement the traffic plan. The charter will provide the city with the authority to make changes to the city's traffic code and to make changes to the city's streets and highways. The charter will also provide the city with the authority to acquire property for the construction of new streets and highways.

Older Workers Urged To Retire

The government has announced that it will begin a program to encourage older workers to retire. The program, called "Retirement Incentives for Older Workers," is designed to help workers aged 55 and over who have been laid off or who have difficulty finding employment. The program provides financial incentives to encourage workers to retire, including tax breaks and increased social security benefits.

ROTC Awards

A ceremony was held to award ROTC (Reserve Officers' Training Corps) students with their awards. The ceremony was attended by many community leaders, including the mayor and the city council. The students were recognized for their academic achievements and their dedication to military service. The ceremony was a proud moment for the students and their families.

New Life Found

January 6, 1974. 87.4% of the population of Oklahoma City smoked cigarettes. A year later, only 73.5% of them were smoking. Smoking has declined in Oklahoma City, as it has throughout the country. However, the smoking rate here is higher than the national average. This is due, in part, to the large number of students who attend the University of Oklahoma. These students are at greater risk for developing smoking-related health problems than the general population. The most common reason for smoking among students is to fit in with friends. Many students believe that smoking is a sign of maturity. As a result, they are more likely to start smoking than their non-student counterparts. The University of Oklahoma has implemented several programs to reduce smoking among students. These programs have been effective in reducing the number of students who smoke. It is hoped that these initiatives will continue to be successful in the future.

New Homestead Law 'Disastrous' To Forgetful

By RAY APPLEBY

The influence of homestead laws in reducing property taxes is being debated by the legislature. A bill has been introduced to allow property owners to forget about their homestead status for an indefinite period of time.

The bill, sponsored by Senator John Smith, would allow property owners to declare a homestead and then forget about it for up to ten years. This would effectively give them the right to continue paying lower taxes on their property even if the market value of the property increases.

Opponents of the bill argue that it would create a windfall for property owners who already have homestead status. They say that it would also make it more difficult for cities and towns to collect property taxes, which would lead to reduced services.

Supporters of the bill argue that it would provide much-needed relief for property owners who are struggling to pay their taxes. They say that it would also help to stabilize property values in areas with high property taxes.

The bill has been referred to the Committee on Finance, and a hearing is scheduled for next week.
