Howard Hughes Speaks

'Autobiography' Branded Fake

By FREDERICK Scalia

Los Angeles (UPI) -- Billionaire Howard Hughes has accepted a 21-year-old college student's challenge to a multimillion dollar civil suit if she can identify the author of "The Paper That Tells Both Sides," the manuscript of an "autobiography" of the billionaire that was recently published.

The suit, filed by the Hughes estate earlier this month in Los Angeles Superior Court, seeks $20 million in damages from the student, Kayte W. Storch, for publishing the book without the estate's permission.

The manuscript was published on April 11 under the title "The Paper That Tells Both Sides." The estate claims the book contains false statements about Hughes and his activities and is an infringement of his civil rights.

"I want to take this case to court," Hughes told reporters at a news conference in Los Angeles. "I believe this book is a forgery and that the author is trying to defraud the public.

The estate has not named the allegedly false statements in the book, but the manuscript appears to be an attempt to portray Hughes as a man of singular vision and power, who manipulated the world from behind the scenes.

Hughes, who died in 1976, was one of the most powerful and richest men in the world during his lifetime. He was known for his eccentricities, including his isolation from society and his control of the film industry through his company, RKO Pictures.

Have you ever thought of your life's purpose? Have you ever considered what you can do to make your life more fulfilling? Have you ever asked yourself what is the meaning of life? These are some of the questions that have been asked by many people throughout history. The answers to these questions are subjective and depend on the individual. Some may believe that the purpose of life is to seek happiness and enjoy its pleasures, while others may believe that the purpose of life is to serve a higher power or to make a difference in the world. The truth is that life is a journey and the purpose of life is up to each individual to determine.

Case Of Pot And Kettle

By Bob Condaline

The word "cannabis" has a color red and carries a connotation of evil, yet it is far from it. It is a plant that has been used for centuries for its medicinal properties. The use of cannabis is not without controversy, but it is an issue that needs to be addressed.

Pet Group Asks Open Society

The Natural Protection League of Oklahoma Inc., a group formed to protest illegal use of drugs, is asking for the Oklahoma City Board of Regents to open City Council meetings to the public.

Mrs. Dean, chairman of the group, said the meeting are open to the public, but that the council is closed to the public because the city does not want its business handled in open meetings.

Mrs. Dean said there are three reasons why the council is closed to the public:

1. The council does not want to make decisions in front of the public.
2. The council does not want to be criticized by the public.
3. The council does not want to be influenced by public opinion.

Mrs. Dean said that the council should be made more open to the public.
