CITY SCHOOL LEAVES PASS

Banner Defeats School Tax

The district, which had an average daily attendance of 157,010 last school year, turned out 15,010 students at Tuesday's vote in order to raise about $1,075,000 for the following year's budget. This amount includes $1,075,000 for the district's next year's budget.

By HOWARD DAVIS

The banner defeat of the school tax proposal was a victory for the banner supporters, who had defeated both millage levies and were expected to receive a majority of the vote.

Deaths

Two workers were killed in a workplace accident. The incident occurred at the construction site of the new hospital. The workers were working on the roof when the scaffolding collapsed, causing them to fall. Both workers were pronounced dead at the scene. The investigation is ongoing to determine the cause of the accident. The company has been non-cooperative with the investigation. The workers' families are mourning their loss.

Balloting

The school board is scheduled to vote on a new policy regarding student dress code. The proposed policy would allow students to wear uniforms if they choose, but would require them to follow certain guidelines, such as no logos or symbols. The policy has been met with mixed reactions from students and parents. Some support the policy, while others believe it infringes on their freedom of expression. The vote is scheduled to take place during the next school board meeting.

Evangelist Sees Sex Idol Threat

Evangelist John Doe expressed concern about the growing influence of sex as an idol in society. He noted that the rise of sexualized advertising and media has led to a culture of objectification, which he believes is harmful to both individuals and society as a whole. The evangelist called for a return to values that prioritize spiritual and intellectual development.

Friendless Girl Seeks Helping Hand

Helen Smith, a young girl living in poverty, is searching for a helping hand in her quest for a better life. She has been facing numerous challenges, including lack of opportunities and resources, which have left her feeling isolated and hopeless. The community is encouraged to come together to support Helen and provide her with the necessary assistance.

Trade Deficit Sets Record

The trade deficit has set a new record, with imports exceeding exports by a significant margin. The trade data has raised concerns about the health of the economy and the sustainability of current trade policies. Further analysis is needed to determine the factors contributing to this increase and to develop strategies for addressing the issue.

Diverticulosis' Common Ailment Of Intestinal Tube

A study has revealed that diverticulosis, a common ailment of the intestinal tube, affects a large proportion of the population. The condition is caused by weakened muscle walls in the intestine, leading to the formation of small pouches. The study also highlighted the importance of proper diet and lifestyle changes in preventing and managing diverticulosis.

Romney Cites Housing Paradox

WESTGARD - George Romney, secretary of the housing and urban development department, says the nation's housing situation is "closely tied to the real estate market and the price of housing." He cites a recent study by the National Association of Realtors which found that the average price of homes in the U.S. last year was $90,000. This is an increase of 20% over the previous year. Romney says the increase in housing prices is causing a housing affordability crisis, especially for low-income families. He says the government needs to do more to help these families afford a home.

Wildlife Panels Weighing Hunting, Fishing Fee Hike

By ROBERT DAVIS

Several wildlife conservation panels were meeting Thursday for the first time in more than three years to discuss hunting and fishing fees.

The joint legislative committees were formed to study trends that would help determine fee increases. Oklahoma's parks and wildlife director, Fred Copple, is the chairman of the state's fee panel. He said the increase in fees came about due to increasing costs of managing the game.

Oklahoma's fee panel is being asked to increase the price because of higher costs of managing the game.

The state has been assessing fees to help pay for wildlife management activities. The increase in fees would also help fund the construction of new wildlife trails.

Judge Sees Swing In Court Justice

A grand jury has returned an indictment of 400 members of the Oklahoma County Bar Association for criminal contempt of court.

The grand jury, which met on Monday morning, indicted the members of the bar association on charges of violating the order of the court by engaging in a conspiracy to obstruct the administration of justice.

The charges include failure to comply with the order of the court, obstruction of justice, and violation of the oath of office.

The indictment alleges that the bar association members conspired to obstruct the court's order by refusing to comply with the court's instructions and by engaging in activities that prevented the court from fulfilling its duties.

The members were also charged with violating the oath of office by engaging in activities that were inimical to the proper functioning of the court.

The indictment further alleges that the bar association members conspired to obstruct the court's order by engaging in activities that were designed to prevent the court from fulfilling its duties.

The members were also charged with violation of the oath of office by engaging in activities that were contrary to the interests of the court.

The indictment notes that the bar association members knew or should have known that their activities were inimical to the proper functioning of the court.

Aging Apartments Ending At OU

The aging process can be a difficult one for many people, especially when it comes to housing. At the University of Oklahoma, a new program is being implemented to help older adults remain independent and in their own homes.

The program, called Aging in Place, is a collaboration between the university and local organizations. It provides a range of services, including home modifications, transportation, and counseling.

"This program is designed to help older adults live as independently as possible," said Dr. Jane Smith, director of Aging in Place. "We want to make sure that older adults have the resources they need to stay in their homes and maintain their independence."
