Alleged U.S. Spy Identified

Copies of the U.S. Secret Service have been identifying a man as the alleged U.S. spy who was recently detained in Moscow. The man was arrested after being caught passing classified documents to Russian intelligence agents. The agents said that the man had been working as a U.S. spy for several years. He is currently awaiting trial in Moscow.

                      Senate Votes Tallied Balanced School Board's remained unchanged in the weekend session, but several new appointments were made to fill various vacancies in the Board of Education. The nominations for these positions were approved by the Senate at the last session, but they had not been acted upon by the Senate before adjournment.

                      Internal Affairs Center
                      The Senate approved a funds bill totaling $10,000 for the internal affairs center. This money will be used to acquire equipment and supplies needed for the center.

                      Planned Parenthood
                      The Senate also approved a bill providing $5,000 for the planned Parenthood program.
                      This money will be used to support their education and outreach efforts.

                      Troubled Children Aided By Center
                      The Senate approved a bill providing $10,000 for a center to aid troubled children. The center will be located in Oklahoma City.

                      Here's Gist Of Bills
                      The Senate has approved a number of bills during the last session, including:

                      - A bill providing $20,000
                        for a new auditorium in the school system.
                      - A bill authorizing the Construction of a new library in the school system.
                      - A bill providing $10,000
                        for a new gymnasium in the school system.

                      Understanding Asked
                      The Senate has expressed a need to understand the impact of these new programs on the school system.

Congress Considering Bold New Housing Act

New Subsidies, Solutions Likely

The housing market has been facing a growing number of challenges recently. A recent report from the Federal Housing Authority (FHA) shows that the cost of housing has risen sharply, making it increasingly difficult for many Americans to afford a home. This has led to calls for bold new housing policies to address the issue.

The report highlights a number of potential solutions, including increased funding for affordable housing programs, tax breaks for homeowners, and incentives for developers to build more affordable housing. The report also calls for a major increase in the supply of housing, which could be achieved through a variety of means, including more funding for public construction projects, incentives for developers to build in underserved areas, and increased tax credit programs for homeowners.

The report concludes that a combination of these solutions is necessary to address the housing crisis. While the report is not without its critics, many experts agree that bold new housing policies are needed to address the growing housing crisis in America.

Catch Me If You Can Opening At Jewel Box

OU Presents Opera Just For Children

Garage Sale

'Catch Me If You Can' to play March 18 at OU's Jewel Box....ineligible girl meets world-famous gangster and friction rises.

Parking at Jewel Box will be as difficult as finding parking at any of the downtown theaters.

Richard Burton plays the gangster. "I've had the best years of my life," he says. "I've been in more plays than there are stars in the sky." His new mate, Caine, is a bit of a disappointment. "He's not as good as I thought he would be," Burton says. "But he's still a nice guy."

Burton's next move is to play Hamlet. "I'm really looking forward to that," he says. "I think I'll be able to make it funny."

Catch Me If You Can plays at the Jewel Box through March 31. For tickets, call 435-3333.
'Music Man' Being Staged
As 'Experimental' Theatre

Newman-Marvin Team
Up For 'Pocket Money'

John Chappell — 'Music Man' as experimental theatre sounds like a reasonable idea. But the open-ended production of the popular musical by the Oklahoma City Opera and the Oklahoma City Civic Center is a experimental — part of a season-long and project to make theatre more experimental. It certainly is going to be adventurous, but it's not sure whether it will be successful. The Newman-Marvin Team, headed by Willard Newman and Fred Marvin, is working on the project. They are hoping to do something different and exciting. The musical is being staged at the Civic Center, and the production is expected to run from September to November.

Jazz Polls Degrading To Musicians

By LINDA ROBBINS

Our social and our social settings have been degrading to music. The function of music is to provide an environment in which the listener can relax and appreciate the beauty of the music. However, the current trend of jazz polls is degrading to musicians. The polls are based on popularity and commercial success, rather than artistic merit. This has led to a loss of authenticity in the music, as musicians are pressured to conform to the expectations of the polls rather than express their true talent. The result is a degradation of the music itself, as well as the reputation of the musicians involved. It's time for us to take a step back and appreciate music for what it truly is - an art form that should be valued for its beauty and emotional impact, rather than for its commercial success.

VISIT 'DOWN HOME' AMERICA

FOR ROMAN POLANSKI, no other movie made after "Chinatown" has lived up to the expectations he generated with that film. "Benjamin" is a masterfully crafted, tautly constructed film that explores themes of power, corruption, and repersonal history. Polanski's direction is masterful, and the script, adapted from the novel by John McCarthy, is tightly written and thought-provoking.

FOR J. R. R. TOLKIEN, the world he created in his "Lord of the Rings" trilogy has become a literary phenomenon. From its creation in the late 1950s to its publication in the 1960s, the series has enjoyed a cult following and has been enjoyed by readers of all ages. The books have been translated into over 30 languages and have sold millions of copies worldwide.

FOR HUGO OCHS, the work he has done for the film industry as a cinematographer has been recognized with numerous awards. His work on films such as "Casablanca" and "Gone with the Wind" has been praised for its technical mastery and artistic vision.

FOR BILLY WILDER, the influence he has had on the film industry cannot be overstated. His brilliant direction and writing have produced films such as "Some Like It Hot" and "The Seven Year Itch" that have become classic examples of comedy and romance.

FOR LUCILLE BALL, the impact she had on the entertainment industry as a performer and producer has been significant. Her work with her husband Desi Arnaz on television shows such as "I Love Lucy" and "The Lucy Show" has had a lasting impact on the medium.

FOR GEORGE SEGAL, the talent he brings to his performances has been recognized with numerous awards. His work in films such as "A New Leaf" and "The Parallax View" has been praised for its depth and nuance.

FOR EMMETT KELLEY, the influence he has had on the circus world cannot be overstated. His work with his father at the age of seven and his later career as a circus performer have set the standard for the art form.

FOR ELIZA DOOLITTLE, the role she played in "My Fair Lady" has become an iconic example of theater and film. Her performance in the original production on Broadway and in the film version has been praised for its emotional depth and technical skill.

FOR SCHLESINGER, the vision he has brought to his work as a film director has been influential.

His films such as "Out of Africa" and "The French

How I Pick Jurors
By F. Lee Bailey, For Family Weekly

The first Capistrano trial had served as an object lesson for Phillip E. Phillips, J.D., of Irvine, Calif. The trial was a divorce involving alimony and the custody of the couple's two children. The case also involved an unusual aspect of a new law regarding grandparents' rights to visit with grandchildren. Phillips, a lawyer, was appointed as a grandparent by the court as a named defendant. The trial was held in Los Angeles and lasted for 10 weeks.

Phillips was surprised when the court appointed him as a defendant. He had never been involved in a divorce case before. He was concerned about the outcome of the trial and thought it could affect his career. He decided to prepare for the trial by reading about the law and consulting with experts. Phillips also talked to the judge and the opposing counsel about the case.

In the end, Phillips was found not liable for the divorce and was awarded alimony and custody of the children. He was also awarded the right to visit with the grandchildren. Phillips was pleased with the outcome of the trial and felt it was a positive experience. He would not have been able to prepare as thoroughly if he had not been involved as a defendant. Phillips has since become involved in other cases and has found that being appointed as a defendant can be a valuable experience.

What Happens to the Pets Nobody Wants?

By Patricia Riceard

O a single day not too long ago, two little girls, ages 6, went running through my kitchen. They were excited about the possibility of adopting a new pet, and they were ready to take care of it. They ran to the refrigerator and got out a carton of Jell-O, which they thought would make a great treat for their new pet.

One of the girls, aged 9, had just come home from school and was eager to show off her new pet. She proudly announced to her sister, aged 6, that she had found a puppy on the street and thought that perhaps she was lost.

The other girl, aged 6, was excited and suggested that they could take the puppy to Animal Control. But the older girl, aged 9, was hesitant. She thought that the puppy might just be someone else's, and she didn't want to take it to the shelter. Instead, she suggested that they could keep the puppy as their own.

The younger girl, aged 6, was thrilled at the idea of having a new pet. She ran to her room and got out her toy box, filled with stuffed animals and dolls. She showed them all to her sister, aged 9, who was impressed. She suggested that they could take the puppy to the vet to make sure it was healthy.

The girls ran to the vet and got an appointment. They were excited to see the vet and have the puppy examined. They brought along their stuffed animals as support for the puppy, who was a bit nervous at first.

The vet examined the puppy and determined that it was healthy. He suggested that the girls should take the puppy home and socialize it with other pets and people. He also recommended that they should keep the puppy inside at night and take it outside for bathroom breaks.

The girls were grateful for the vet's advice and couldn't wait to take the puppy home. They named it Jell-O and became its new parents. They took it to the park and the beach, and it loved being around other people and animals.

The girls were happy to have found Jell-O and knew that they would take good care of it. They loved having a new pet and were excited to see how it would grow and change over time. They knew that it would be a long time before they could get another pet, but they were grateful to have found Jell-O and knew that they would take good care of it.

How to Use Dreams to Solve Your Problems

By Colter Rule, M.D., and Jeannine Tumpane

Dreams are the subject of much speculation and mystery. Some believe they are a way for the brain to process information, while others think they represent hidden desires or warnings. Whatever the reason, dreams can provide valuable insights into our personal lives.

The first step is to recognize the importance of dreams. Dreams are not just random occurrences, but rather a reflection of our unconscious mind. By paying attention to the content of your dreams, you can gain a better understanding of your fears, desires, and hopes.

1. Record Your Dreams: Keep a journal to record your dreams as soon as you wake up. The details you remember will provide valuable information.

2. Analyze the Symbols: Dreams often use symbols to convey their messages. By analyzing the symbols in your dreams, you can gain a deeper understanding of their meaning.

3. Identify the Themes: Look for common themes in your dreams, such as recurring symbols or situations. Understanding these themes can help you gain insight into your personal issues.

4. Interpret the Messages: Dreams can provide guidance and solutions to problems you are facing in your waking life. By interpreting the messages in your dreams, you can find inspiration and direction.

5. Practice Mindfulness: The practice of mindfulness can help you better understand the content of your dreams. By focusing on the present moment, you can gain a clearer perspective on the messages in your dreams.

Remember, the key to using dreams to solve your problems is to pay attention to their content and to remain open to the insights they offer. By doing so, you can gain valuable guidance and direction in your life.

Why I Vowed to Help Sick Kids

By Danny Thomas

Especially for Family Weekly

I'll begin in Detroit, Mich., March 4, 1940. I was working in a shop. I was taught by God. I had been taught by God for 23 years. I had been taught that it was the only way. God had taught me. I had learned what was right. God had taught me.

Then one day I was talking to a friend of mine. He was a lawyer. He had heard about a man who was working in a factory. He had heard about the man who was working in the factory. He had heard about the man who was working in the factory.

Later that day I went into the church and made a vow to St. Jude. I never told anyone about that vow. I kept it to myself. But I knew how I was going to do it. I was going to do it for St. Jude. I was going to do it for the sick kids. I was going to do it for St. Jude.
