Joe Kennedy Aboard Commandeered Plane

By JOHN LING

AUGUSTA, GEORGIA — Senator Joe Kennedy, the brother of President John F. Kennedy, was aboard a commandeered plane today and will arrive in Augusta, Georgia, for a private ceremony.

According to sources, the plane was commandeered by a group of local residents who are opposed to the senator's visit. The plane was flown to Augusta by a private pilot who is a member of the group.

Kennedy is scheduled to speak at a private ceremony in Augusta, which is expected to draw a large crowd.

Ad Valorem Facts Scare

By ROBERT BRADY

In a recent article, Ad Valorem Facts, a group of citizens, has called for the elimination of ad valorem taxes. The group claims that these taxes are unfair and wasteful.

The group's leader, Mr. John Smith, said, "Our goal is to eliminate ad valorem taxes and replace them with a fairer system, such as a flat tax or a progressive income tax." The group has been organizing protests and rallies in various cities across the country to raise awareness about their cause.

Driver Hit With Charge After Chase

By JOHN LING

AUGUSTA, GEORGIA — A driver was charged with driving under the influence after a high-speed chase through the city today.

The driver, Mr. John Smith, was seen speeding down the streets of Augusta, ignoring traffic signals and weaving in and out of traffic. Police追上他，并对他提出了指控。

The driver is expected to appear in court soon to face charges.

Bail Hearings Ordered

By JAMES TAYLOR

Several suspects charged with burglary and theft were ordered to appear in court for bail hearings this afternoon. The suspects were arrested after a series of break-ins and thefts that have been occurring in the area.

The bail hearings were ordered by Judge John Smith, who said that the suspects should be held without bail due to the severity of the crimes.

China's Still In Revolution

By THOMAS ROBERTSON

The Chinese government has denied reports that they are continuing their revolution policy. However, several eyewitness accounts suggest that the government is still implementing policies that are aimed at overthrowing the current regime.

One eyewitness account, reported by Mr. John Smith, describes the government's policy of restricting freedom of speech and压制批评。 Another account, reported by Mr. John Smith, describes the government's policy of re-education through labor and forced labor camps.

The government has not commented on the reports, but it has said that it is committed to maintaining social stability and preserving the current regime.

Salute To Ali Fails

The boxing world Monday night exploded in disbelieving shock when Muhammad Ali, the world's most popular sports hero, was declared a "sick disable" by a New York State court.

The decision by a New York County judge to grant Ali a temporary restraining order against his participation in a charity boxing match in New York City was a stinging blow to the world of boxing and a national embarrassment to the country.

The court ruled that Ali was fit to compete, but that his health was considered "insufficient to continue in the professional boxing business." The decision was made by a three-judge panel after a hearing on Monday.

Ali, who had been ordered to report to the Army for induction on March 23, had been training for the match at Madison Square Garden.

The decision was a setback for Ali, who had been planning to make his return to the ring after a long layoff due to injuries sustained in a 1970 car accident.

Ali's lawyer, Howard K. Beale, said the decision was "a victory for the government, a defeat for the American people." He said Ali had been "denied his right to work."

The decision was a blow to the boxing world, which had been eagerly anticipating Ali's return to the ring.

The reaction to the decision was mixed. Some boxing fans were angry and disappointed, while others were sympathetic to Ali's cause.

The decision also had implications for the Vietnam war, which is still a source of controversy in the United States.

The government has been criticized for its handling of the war, and the decision to declare Ali fit to serve was seen as a blow to the war effort.

The decision was also a blow to the country's image abroad, as it was viewed as a sign of weakness and a lack of support for Ali.

The decision was a turning point in the boxing world, as it set off a wave of protests and demonstrations in support of Ali.

The decision was also a blow to the government, which had been trying to use Ali's popularity to win support for the war.
