This Is House That Jack Built

BY JIMMIE TEMPLETON

"The only real problem I have is that the house back then was not as large as it is now," said Jack I. Clark, Sr., in an interview with the Oklahoma Journal. "The house back then was a smaller version of what it is now." The house built by Jack I. Clark in the late 1940s has been expanded and renovated multiple times since its construction.

The home, located at 3000 N. Florida Ave. in Oklahoma City, is a two-story brick structure with a large front porch. The house has been the subject of much speculation regarding its architecture and historical significance.

The original house was built in 1948 by Jack I. Clark, Sr., who was a businessman and real estate developer. The house was expanded in the 1950s and 1960s, and further renovations were completed in the 1970s and 1980s.

The house has been listed on the National Register of Historic Places since 1981. It is considered one of the most important examples of mid-20th century architecture in Oklahoma City.

Brass Disagrees On Report

Nixon Pushes Special Employe Bill

By MARVIN ROBBINS
    WASHINGTON - The Nixon White House is trying a new tack in its push for a special employment bill.

The administration, after being rebuffed twice by the Senate, is now concentrating its campaign on the House. The latest effort is to introduce a measure in the House to give a temporary extension to the regulations that have been largely responsible for the unemployment rate.

Sen. David F. Firth (D-Oklahoma) said yesterday that he had been told by White House officials that the White House was looking for a way to push the bill through the House.

In the Senate, the bill has been opposed by Republicans and Democrats alike. The Senate has voted twice, once in February and once in March, to reject the bill. The Senate has voted twice, once in February and once in March, to reject the bill.

Tornadoes Offer Little Warning

Each year, tornadoes cause millions of dollars in property damage and claim many lives. In Oklahoma, where tornadoes are very common, people take precautions to protect themselves. However, there are often little or no warning before a tornado hits.

School Sets Bid-Listing

Another project which the school set for this year is to see how the cost of a dollar can increase at the rate of 50% a year. After 15 years this dollar will be worth 633 dollars.

OSU Students Find Learning Easier

There seems to be more interest in finding learning easier. Several students have found that by using the new learning techniques, they are able to learn more effectively. This is particularly true in subjects like mathematics and physics, where traditional teaching methods are often ineffective.
