Edmond Virtually Without Policemen

Chief Fired, 11 Others Out

By RAY ARKIN

The Edmond police force is being reduced from 21 officers to 12 by the end of the month. The city council voted last night to fire 11 officers, including the chief, and to hire seven new officers. The reduction comes as a result of budget cuts and a decrease in crime. The council has also approved a new police chief, who will be hired from outside the department.

"Narc' Says Drugs Plentiful

By Jack L. Bland

Drugs are readily available to any student who wants them at local Oklahoma high schools, an undercover agent who spent three months investigating the scene said.

"If I'd worked primarily on the high school level, I'd probably be doing even better now," the agent said Friday morning at a press conference in which undercover officers working with the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) informed the public of their findings.

The agent, who asked that his name not be revealed, said he was able to purchase marijuana, cocaine, and hallucinogens at any Oklahoma high school.

Washington - ITT lobbyist David B. Gold said Friday he is not under any obligation to make a deal with the Department of Transportation.

The Department of Transportation has been investigating the allegations of a possible deal between the department and ITT.

The investigation was prompted by a report in the Wall Street Journal that ITT was negotiating with the Department of Transportation to build a new terminal in Oklahoma City.

The Department of Transportation has not commented on the report.

The story was picked up by the press and given national exposure.

Where Your Money Goes

With the end of spring and the beginning of summer, many people are thinking of the future. In this regard, it is important to remember that the money we earn and spend is not just a reflection of our personal choices, but also of our values and beliefs.

The amount of money spent on education is crucial for the future of our society. Education is not just a means to an end, but a fundamental right that enables individuals to develop their potential and contribute to society. It is also important for economic growth and social mobility.

In light of this, it is concerning to note that the amount of money spent on education has been declining in recent years. This is not only a matter of economics, but also a matter of justice. Every child has the right to a quality education, regardless of their background or family circumstances.

We urge policymakers to prioritize education in their budget allocations and to invest in programs that support low-income students. By doing so, we can ensure that every child has the opportunity to reach their full potential and contribute to a stronger and more equitable society.
