Hijacker Bails Out With $500,000

Ransom Biggest In U.S.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - A rebel holding United Airlines passengers hostage in a hijacked Boeing 707 here today released them and will be allowed to fly to South Africa, the airline said.

The hijacker, who demanded $500,000 in ransom for the release of the passengers, walked down the center aisle of the plane and held a gun to the head of a flight attendant.

The airliner was diverted to San Francisco International Airport, where a large crowd of spectators gathered to watch the drama unfold.

At least seven passengers were taken hostage, including a woman who was pregnant. The hijacker later released all of them, saying he was 70-years-old and had been in prison for murder.

The police were counting into the night to make sure no one was injured. It was the largest hijacking ransom ever paid in the United States.

The hijacker demanded an additional $500,000 to be paid to an unknown person, saying he was being blackmailed.

The airline company was reportedly considering making a $500,000 ransom payment.

The hijacker surrendered to police after a tense standoff.

He was eventually convicted of hijacking and sentenced to 30 years in prison.

The incident brought widespread attention to the issue of hijacking and the plundering of United Airlines by criminal masterminds.

The hijacker was later released on humanitarian grounds.

The police have been powerless to stop the underground army. They can't go after it, they don't have the manpower, they can't police the city.

The underground army operates with great stealth and efficiency, dodging the police at every turn.

But the underground army has always been the backbone of the underground movement, providing a safe haven for activists and activists.

Plan To Take Over Vermont

The plan to take over Vermont is not new, but the scheme is being given a new twist. The state has been a target for outsiders for many years, but this time the plan is being pushed by a group of businessmen who claim they can make it work.

The plan involves the creation of a new state government, with a new constitution and a new set of laws. The businessmen claim that this will lead to a more efficient and effective state government, and that it will also attract new businesses and investment.

Step Forward For Arts
