Clark Predicting Kleindienst OK

by Robin Adams Sloan

Q. Is the creation of Media Team with the marksmen by Dr. Karl Kleindienst, chancellor of the University of Oklahoma, a preparation for Kleindienst's run for governor?

A. University President Finis Garrett announced yesterday that 69 U. of O. students, ranging in age from 16 to 23, had been chosen from an initial 500 applicants for an experimental Media Team that he described as a "preparation for Kleindienst's run for governor." He said three winners were selected from an initial list of 100 candidates and that 14 others would be named by June 30, the deadline for filing gubernatorial petitions.

The team, according to Garrett, "will receive and process requests for information, write press releases, and act as the University's liaison with the public." Other duties, Garrett said, will include writing, editing and photography.

Otherwise, I would say that the student team is a sign that Kleindienst is indeed serious about running for governor. After all, if students are being taught to be effective in media techniques, they may well be preparing for a future job in a Kleindienst campaign.

Q. What is the relationship between the U. of O. Medical School and the Health Sciences Center?

A. The Health Sciences Center was an idea that was developed and planned by the U. of O. Medical School. The idea was that the Medical School needed a larger campus to accommodate its expanding needs.

And, in fact, the Medical School will need all of the facilities provided by the Health Sciences Center.

Q. What's the difference between a Med School and a Health Center?

A. A Med School is a school that teaches medicine, while a Health Center is a hospital that provides medical services.

Q. Is the Health Sciences Center a good name for the Medical School?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. Is the creation of a Health Sciences Center a good idea?

Suit Claims Bar Conspiracy

By RON IRWIN

Samantha E. Baker's motion against Parker, the head of Parker's Bar and Grill, was heard by the judge last Friday. The judge ordered Parker to appear in court on May 15th.

Parker was found to have violated state laws by operating the bar without a license. The judge also ordered Parker to pay a fine of $1,000 and to cease operating the bar until properly licensed.

Parker's attorney, Mr. John Smith, stated that his client did not operate the bar without a license and that the violation was due to an honest mistake.

Mathis-Evans Merger Talks Underway

Mathis and Evans have been in talks about a potential merger. The companies have been discussing the possibility of combining their operations to create a larger, more successful entity.

A spokesperson for Mathis said that the merger would allow the companies to combine their resources and increase their market share.

Do you know God?

One day, a farmer was walking through a field when he noticed a wire stretched across it. He decided to cut it down so he could use the field. As he was doing so, he came across a sign that read, "Caution: Barbed Wire." The farmer realized his mistake and apologized for interfering. Then he turned to the farmer and said, "You know, I've always wanted to be a farmer." The other farmer replied, "And I've always wanted to be a barbed wire."
