FBI Gets New Chief

WASHINGTON, D.C. — President Nixon selected J. Edgar Hoover, long-time campaigner in the fight against organized crime, to head the FBI, Thursday.

The move, which comes in the wake of the Watergate investigation, is designed to ease the strain on Attorney General John Mitchell, who has been working day and night to get the nation's capital's political power brokers to cooperate in the probe of the White House.

Mitchell, of course, will remain as the President's law enforcement adviser, but Hoover will take over the FBI, which has been one of the President's most important tools in his battle against the Viet Cong.

Hoover, 72, is a master of the criminal universe, a man who has spent most of his career in the FBI. He is a tough, no-nonsense kind of guy, a man who has always been able to get his way no matter what the opposition.

He will be succeeded by a new chief, who will be named later.

When the model is the subject of a new book of photographs, it is a sign that the model is "aged." But the good model doesn't have to age herself out of work. A model can have a long and successful career, and continue to work in her 50s, 60s, and beyond. The key is to stay healthy and active, and to keep up with the latest trends in the fashion industry. The good model knows how to "age" gracefully, and continues to be a popular choice for designers and photographers.

The Oklahoma Journal, Thursday, March 13, 1975

You never perked anything like this before.

Max-Pax is real ground coffee packed in its own filter. It's a whole new way to make coffee. For the best results possible:

- Never use high heat.
- Make only a few beams at a time, so coffee won't burn.
- After perking, let coffee cool for at least 10 minutes before moving.
- Using coarse grind produces a better flavor.
