U.S. Barred From City School Case

By JOHN LONG

The U.S. Department of Justice will not be allowed to proceed with its lawsuit against the MaineCity School District, which sought to ban a school play and book about the Civil War for being "offensive to the community," according to the Justice Department. The department, however, has agreed to withdraw the lawsuit after the school district removed the book and play from the curriculum.

"The court's decision is a victory for the First Amendment," said U.S. Attorney General Merrick Garland. "We are committed to ensuring that students have access to free expression and diversity in their education." The Justice Department's decision to withdraw the lawsuit came after a judge ruled that the school district had violated the students' free speech rights by banning the book and play.

Jury Convicts Both Parents

By J. NELSON TAYLOR

A jury convicted two parents of second-degree murder in the death of their 14-month-old son, Michael. The parents, John and Jane Doe, were found guilty of homicide after a trial lasting over three weeks. The trial was marked by intense emotions and controversy over the medical treatment of the baby.

"We are heartbroken by the loss of our son," said John Doe. "I hope this verdict will bring some closure to our family." The parents face up to 15 years in prison upon sentencing, which is scheduled for next month.

Poll Favors McGovern, 2-7

Wallace Has 'Slim' Hope of Walking

By DAVID CHALMERS

Public opinion polls released today show that incumbent President Richard Nixon is favourite to win re-election, with a 2-7 lead over Democratic nominee George McGovern. However, McGovern remains hopeful of victory, saying "I believe the American people will give me a chance." The polls suggest McGovern needs a strong showing in swing states to have a realistic chance of winning.

Bremer Car Yields Books On Assassin

By J. NELSON TAYLOR

A car dealership in Bremer, Minn., has yielded a trove of books on assassinations, including John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King Jr., and Malcolm X. The books were discovered in the trunk of a car during a dealership's routine inventory check.

"We were surprised to find these books in the car," said dealership owner Tim Johnson. "We're still trying to figure out how they ended up there." The dealership is considering donating the books to a local library.

Eliot Urges Better Funding

By DAVID CHALMERS

"We need more money for education," said Senator Edward M. Kennedy in a recent speech. "Our schools are underfunded, and our teachers need more resources to do their jobs." The senator has proposed a new education funding bill that would provide additional resources for public schools across the country.

The Fabulous Onassis—5

Servants Agree Jackie's Impossible

By CHRISTIAN CARRASCO

"Jackie Onassis was impossible to live with," said a former household staff member. "She was always挑剔 and demanding, never satisfied with anything." The former staff member spoke about her experiences working for Onassis and her belief that "Jackie was a perfectionist who wanted everything done just right."
Foe Says Stiff Drink Only Relief From Tax Plan

The Oklahoma House of Representatives has voted to send a three-year tax package to the Senate, aimed at providing relief for state residents and businesses. The package includes a 2% sales tax increase and a reduction in corporate income taxes. Opponents of the plan argue that it will burden working-class families and small businesses. Proponents say it is necessary to fund essential services like education and healthcare.

Commencement Speaker In 1938
J. Edgar Hoover Figured In Proud Moment For OBU

On May 28, 1938, J. Edgar Hoover, then Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, delivered the commencement address at Oklahoma Baptist University. The occasion was significant for the university, and Hoover's presence added to the prestige of the institution.

Learning Foreign Language Similar To Working On A Car, Teacher Says

“Learning a foreign language is similar to working on a car,” said Mrs. Jane White, a foreign language teacher at the university. “Just as a car's operation depends on proper maintenance and attention to detail, a foreign language requires a similar level of care and attention.”

Concern For Young People Keeps Teacher On Move

Mrs. Betty Brown, a teacher at the university, expressed concern for young people. “It's important to keep them interested and engaged,” she said. “We need to find ways to make learning fun and relevant to their lives.”

Schedule Demanding

Despite the demands of the schedule, Mrs. Brown continued to teach and inspire her students. “It's a challenge, but it's also incredibly rewarding,” she said. “Seeing the progress they make is what keeps me going.”
